MAKE CHICAGO THE FIRST CITY IN THE WORLD

BY ARTHUR EVANS.

Inventions and new products have led many Chicago industries into broadened fields, and this streamlined, air conditioned era finds many an enterprise expanding into new lines and new goods to serve new demands, to create more markets and to promote employment. A few instances indicate the trend:

The Stewart-Warner company originally made automobile supplies, specializing in speedometers. It expanded into the field of radios and refrigerators and many other products.

Fairbanks, Morse & Co. became world known as makers of scales. Now the company is also engaged in the manufacture of Diesel engines, and has expanded into air conditioning equipment.

The Chicago Flexible Shaft company originally specialized in sheep shearing machinery—now it also manufactures electric irons and various farm accessories.

Those Enemies of Waste.

The meat packers, to utilize waste products, developed many specialized lines, and as a source of medicinal products of animal origin Packingtown became medicine chest for the world.

The Kohler company of Kohler, Wis., maker of modern bathroom and plumbing supplies, some ten years ago expanded into the manufacture of small light and power plants. The company did not want to be dependent on building and construction alone to keep its plant going. It also aimed to reduce seasonal fluctuations by having two lines.

Originally the light and power plants were for the farm market. Agriculture has been depressed for years, but the company has built up a business in its apparatus for emergency lighting. These products go to the navy, for battleships, cruisers, and submarines; to the coast guard, to theaters. Its plants are used on airway beacons, in summer homes, on farms, and on the new streamlined trains.

Sows Widely; Still Reaps.

The International Harvester company is another enterprise that has constantly diversified to keep up with the machine-power age. Had it stuck to its original business of making and selling harvesting machinery, it seems safe to venture it would no longer be a leading industry.

Today the company's output includes 89 products. For twenty years and more it has been making tractors, first for farm use, later for industry. They find a market for road building, forest conservation, snow plowing. Farm machinery has been constantly improved and new machines devised. The company had the problem of adapting all of its farm machinery to power operation.

The company embarked on the manufacture of light trucks, and this branch has been increasingly important. The company now produces a full line of motor trucks, from the half ton model to the ten ton unit.

Trucks Prove a Backlog.

When the company went into truck manufacture it was with an idea of selling modern transportation to the farmer. The trend, however, has been towards greater industrial use, and today farmers buy only 25 per cent of the company's output, with 75 per cent being sold for industrial and other use. During the years when farm machinery sales felt the crippling effect of the reduction in farm buying power the truck business grew in importance to the company.

The Pullman-Standard Car Manufacturing company is cited as another example of expansion to keep pace with invention. Originally it made sleeping cars. Some years ago it went from wood to all steel construction. When the new alloys came along, Pullman turned out the first cars in this light weight material, and out of its shops last October rolled the first lightweight, streamlined train with sleepers for transcontinental service. Now it is building more lightweight streamlined trains.

As to the oil industry, it is a notable example of how the research laboratories of private industry have been utilized to battle the depression by turning out new and improved products without which 200 miles an hour aircraft and high power, high speed automobiles and trains would not be possible.

New Terrorism Sweeps Cuba; 1 Dies; 21 Hurt

HAVANA, Cuba, March 12.—(AP)—Bomb explosions, injuring twenty-one persons, brought immediate drastic enforcement of the military governor's 9 o'clock curfew law tonight in a hailstorm of bullets from submachine guns, rifles, and pistols in the hands of police and soldiers. The bullet riddled body of an unidentified man was found in a suburb, raising the civilian death toll in the week-end violence to thirteen.

The paralyzing general strike showed signs of breaking up, but never in all its hectic revolutionary days was Havana in such a state of desolation and fear. Not 100 civilians of its 600,000 population were on the street.

Bent on nipping any new movement against President Carlos Mendieta's government Col. José Pedraza, military governor, slapped on the curfew order. At 9:25 a. m. shooting broke out in several parts of the capital.

Trounce Youths with Hose.

Half a block from the Associated Press office police descended upon a group of youths who had defied the curfew order, trouncing them with short lengths of rubber hose.

An epidemic of bombing and shooting in the early evening had been terrorism's answer to the announcement of the curfew law.

A bomb went off in a manhole, seriously wounding a policeman who was reporting from a nearby telephone box. Another exploded in a street car operated by two soldiers of the army aviation corps, seriously injuring one of them, Antonio Ramirez.

Two other persons were injured in a rear end collision between two street cars operated by emergency crew men.

An outburst of shooting followed the explosion of two bombs on Carlos Tercero street. The bomb wounded seven persons.

Earlier the government, backed by the strong hands of Army Commander Fulgencio Batista, started making good its threat to break the revolutionary strike seeking Mendieta's overthrow.

Issues Stern Warnings.

The administration issued stern warning to terrorists, saboteurs and the like that death would be the penalty for their offenses.

Government employés also were informed that two to five year prison terms might be meted out to them if they joined the strike.

A survey of government departments revealed that many posts had been filled with new employés, while numbers of old employés were seeking to get their jobs back.

Government officials almost unanimously expressed the opinion that the backbone of the strike, which started with the walkout of some 300,000 students and teachers, had been broken.

Most commercial establishments, both wholesale and retail, were functioning again today.

WORKERS PAID 6,000 LBS. OF 'CARTWHEELS' TO MEASURE SPENDING

Gadsden, Ala., March 12.—(AP)—In paper sacks and an occasional fruit jar, 3,000 employés of the Gulf States Steel corporation today carried their pay for two weeks—it was silver dollar pay day.

More than 6,000 pounds of "cartwheels" were distributed through the cashier's window in an effort of L. E. Geohegan, vice president and general manager, to determine how workmen spent their wages. It took twenty paymasters three hours to pay off the employés.

The butcher, the baker, and the banker in Gadsden didn't mind as the heavy silver dollars dropped on their cash registers instead of the usual "foldin' money."

BURGLAR FINDS CASH AND BLOWS IT—ALL TO PIECES

Chester Middaugh saw a strange scene yesterday morning when he opened the door of the Phillips Petroleum company branch office on the western outskirts of Aurora where he is employed.

Bits of green paper were strewn about the floor. A large hole had been torn in the ceiling. The furniture was riddled with chunks of metal. Windows were broken and filing cabinets overturned. And in one corner of the large room stood the reason of the debacle.

It was the office safe with its top blown off. In cracking the safe, an amateur burglar apparently had used a charge of nitroglycerin so large that it blew into bits the $480 he was seeking. The money was strewn about the floor in tiny fragments.

Police were amazed that the burglar was not killed. A 60,000 gallon tank of gasoline stood outside the door, and a feeder pipe from it ran under the floor.

LONDON TO FIGHT AUTO SPEEDERS WITH 'GONG GIRLS'

[Copyright: 1935: By the New York Times.]

LONDON, March 12.—A women's roadhog squad, composed of automobile parties of policewomen in not too plain clothes who may later be known as "the gong girls," has been appointed by Police Commissioner Lord Trenchard to help enforce the new thirty mile an hour speed limit in builtup areas.

If a motorist passes one of these secret police cars at a speed greater than thirty miles an hour the girls will sound a gong, police signs will flash on the car, and the offender will be summoned to police court.

Boy, 19, a B. A. in 20 Months; Health Breaks

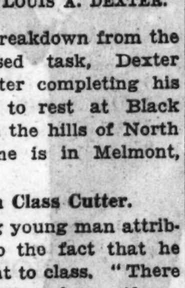
While 282 students of the University of Chicago were receiving their degrees yesterday in the 179th convocation exercises, the 283d, Louis A. Dexter, 19 years old, was recuperating in North Carolina from the strain of completing the regulation four year course in 20 months. No other student in the history of the university has equaled this feat. Dexter's degree of bachelor of arts was awarded in absentia.



LOUIS A. DEXTER.

Also Champion Class Cutter.

The hard working young man attributed his success to the fact that he "very seldom" went to class. "There is no point in attending classes if you can get the same information from a book," explained Dexter.

"If I had to do it over again, I'd do it faster. I could complete the course in a quarter less time."

Despite being a bookworm—Dexter can read and absorb almost 100 pages of textbook material in an hour while the average student assimilates less than 40 pages—he has not avoided extra-curricular activities.

Would Like to Play Football.

He has been a varsity debater, a member of the debate union, president of the Cosmos club, a contributor to student magazines, a member of the chapel council, and a Rhodes' scholarship candidate. His favorite sport was tennis, although he expressed a wish that he could have played football.

Dexter weighs 130 pounds, and is short. He wears thick lensed glasses.

As soon as he has rested enough, Dexter said he planned to return and plunge into the work of obtaining the degree of master of art. His plans call for experience on a small town newspaper for a while, then study for a doctor's degree, and finally teaching and administration in education.

Half of the degrees awarded yesterday by the university were graduate. President Robert M. Hutchins bestowed the degrees and Dr. Sharley Jackson Case, dean of the divinity school, delivered the convocation address on "The Profits of Education." Yesterday's ceremonies marked the end of the winter quarter.

JOHN STRACHEY IS SEIZED AFTER GLENCOE TALK

Move to Deport Him to England

Evelyn John St. Loe Strachey, British author and lecturer, who is regarded as one of the world leaders of intellectual communism, was placed under arrest last night in the synagogue of the North Shore Congregation Israel, Glencoe, as an alien subject to deportation.

Strachey had just finished a lecture in which he advocated the overthrow of the capitalistic system when he was seized by inspectors of the department of immigration, reënforced by a squad of Glencoe policemen.

Leading the arresting forces was Fred J. Schlotfeldt, director of the Chicago office of the department of immigration. Mr. Schlotfeldt acted on orders issued in Washington by Col. Daniel W. MacCormack, United States commissioner of immigration and naturalization, who ordered the seizure of the Briton on the ground that he had entered the country in December by means of false statements.

Under Secretary Perkins.

The immigration bureau is under Miss Frances Perkins, secretary of the department of labor.

Mr. Strachey was allowed to finish his talk, for which the lecture forum of the congregation paid him a fee, without being interrupted. He ended his lecture shortly after 10 p. m. and Mr. Schlotfeldt and Chief of Police William Helke of Glencoe then stepped up to him and asked him to accompany them into the private office of Rabbi Charles E. Shulman.

Apparently surprised, Mr. Strachey complied with the softly worded request. He and his captors were closeted in the rabbi's office for more than an hour and a half. On the office telephone the lecturer put in several calls to friends here and to his wife in New York, while Mr. Schlotfeldt talked with Col. MacCormack in Washington, supposedly to ask whether the prisoner should be locked up forthwith.

Freed on Promise to Appear.

At first Rabbi Shulman reported that the writer would not be released unless $500 cash bond was furnished. The final decision was that Mr. Strachey would be released on his own promise to appear in the office of Director Schlotfeldt in the postoffice building at 10 a. m. today. The director, by virtue of his office, is empowered to hold a hearing and determine what shall be done in the matter.

On his release, and before leaving for his quarters in the Hotel La Salle, the British author asserted that he would fight deportation. He also expressed his innocence of subversive tendencies.

"My lectures in America have been merely informative," he said. "I have never advocated anything in them. When I have anything to advocate I shall advocate it in my own country. My bond will be furnished in the morning."

Hopes to Finish Series.

He added that he hoped he would be able to finish his lecture program, the last speech being scheduled for March 28 in New York.

Members of the audience, which numbered more than 600, said Mr. Strachey did not urge the overturn of the government, but that he declared "a communist America would start further ahead than Russia now is," and that "we Marxists stand for total abolition of capitalism and substitution of a system based on public ownership and use." Questioners in the synagogue asked him if he believed the plans of Huey Long and Father Coughlin would work.

Answering another query Mr. Strachey said he believed he noted a growth of Fascist policy in the country, "particularly in Louisiana and Detroit."

Reasons for Arrest Told.

Col. MacCormack, in a long statement, told why the order for the arrest was issued. He pointed out that the author was given a visitor's visa at the American consulate in London in December and arrived at New York on Christmas day.

"In the course of his examination before the immigration inspectors he replied in the negative to the questions uniformly asked of immigrants and visitors intended to bring out whether they advocate or believe in overthrowing the government of the United States by force or violence or as to whether they are members of organizations having such aims or beliefs," said Col. MacCormack.

"There is no specific mention of communism in the law which requires

Venizelos Flees to Italian Isle; Rebellion Ends

BY DAVID DARRAH.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

SALONIKI, Greece, March 12.—The collapse of Greece's 12 day old revolt was completed today when Former Premier Eleutherios Venizelos fled from Crete to refuge on the Italian Dodecanese Island of Cassos and all units of the rebel fleet surrendered to the government.

The 71 year old Venizelos was quoted as saying: "I am going to retire from politics and I have decided never to return to my country. I assure you the revolution was just."

Loyal government officials resumed control in the Islands of Crete, Mytilene, Chios, and Samos. Gen. George Kondylis, the government's field commander, assigned cavalry to scour Macedonia and Thrace to flush the last isolated rebels from northern Greece and returned to Athens.

Kondylis Is Fêted.

In the capital Gen. Kondylis, acting Minister of War Gen. John Metaxas, and Premier Tsaldaris were recipients of a great public demonstration. The revolt had been an attempt to overthrow the Tsaldaris government.

Pericles Rhallis, former attorney for Samuel Insull Sr. and now governor general of Saloniki, stated special courts martial will be established tomorrow both at Saloniki and Athens to try those accused of participating in the revolution. He added that no indulgence will be shown those found guilty. There will also be a wholesale ousting of civil servants "who do not inspire the confidence of the government."

A government statement today asserted the loyalist casualties of the "grand push" Sunday and Monday in Macedonia were 10 dead and 91 wounded. Unofficial estimates place the monetary cost at twice that of the annual budget—a figure which will be a tax burden for many years.

Many Rebels Held.

The first arrest in Athens today was that of Gen. Papoulas, Greek commander in Asia Minor during the war with Turkey. Hundreds of persons suspected of rebel sympathies were under arrest along with 3,000 insurgent troops taken in the recapture of Macedonian towns.

Venizelos left Crete on the Greek flagship Averoff along with his wealthy wife, former Minister of Finances George Maris and former Minister of War Katechakis. They were landed at Cassos along with other rebel associates; then the Averoff, returned to loyal officers, steamed for Phaleron bay, near Athens, which it will reach tomorrow.

One international incident was revealed today when Premier Panayoti Tsaldaris apologized to Italy for damage done the Italian consulate at Kavala, which was struck by a shell while government vessels were bombarding the cruiser Helle in the harbor Sunday. Greece promised to pay for the damage.

Kamanos Explains Flight.

SOFIA, Bulgaria, March 12.—(AP)—Gen. Demetrius Kamanos, Macedonian rebel leader who surrendered to Bulgarian frontier authorities yesterday, said tonight the revolt collapsed because of the overwhelming numerical superiority of the government forces he confronted. Kamanos said he had not slept for the last eight days.

"Against 25,000 loyal soldiers with 120 pieces of heavy artillery and 50 bombing planes, I had only 6,000 men, very little artillery, and no airplanes," he declared.

HIT ROOSEVELT UTILITIES NOTE AS PROPAGANDA

Called 'White House Lobbying.'

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., March 12.—[Special.]—President Roosevelt quickly drew fire in the house today with a special message in which he sought to justify the proposed legislation he inspired for the extermination of public utility holding companies.

Representative Bertrand H. Snell [Rep., N. Y.], the minority leader, asserted that the President, in the very message in which he denounced propaganda against the legislation, was propagandizing in favor of it.

When the reading of the message in the house was concluded nearly the entire Democratic membership arose and applauded for more than a minute, an unusual occurrence which presaged certain passage of the anti-holding company bill. A little later Representative J. Walter Lambeth [Dem., N. C.] moved the printing of 50,000 extra copies of the message for distribution to the public, presumably by congressmen.

Called Pure Propaganda.

Mr. Snell leaped to his feet, asserting that the President's message itself is "pure propaganda for a measure pending before a house committee."

"If the President himself," said Mr. Snell, "is opposed to that kind of propaganda I do not think that this message should be broadcast to the people of this country so that they will send in their own propaganda letters to influence the committee."

Representative John G. Cooper [Rep., Ohio] followed Mr. Snell with some remarks in which he said that the pending bill is designed to bring about public ownership of utilities.

"What is to become of public utility stock held by the American people?" he asked.

Talks of Propaganda.

Mr. Roosevelt said in his message he had been watching "the use of investors' money to make the investor believe that the efforts of government to protect him are designed to defraud him. I have seen much of the propaganda prepared against such legislation—even down to mimeographed sheets of instructions for propaganda to exploit the most far fetched and fallacious fears."

The President said he is as unimpressed by this propaganda as by that against the securities exchange act last year. He did not mention the fact, however, that the criticism of the securities act forced the administration to consent to its modification to encourage such large securities issues as it is now proudly pointing to.

Fish Joins Attack.

"The President's message," said Representative Hamilton Fish [Rep., N. Y.], "is an amazing example of how far the present administration has become a government of propaganda. The trouble is that the President zigzags from right to left so continuously that public confidence is destroyed.

"But when the owners of utility securities try to protect their legitimate interests the President sends a message to congress denouncing their activities as propaganda while the committee is considering the legislation. It amounts to lobbying from the White House."

Representative John E. Rankin [Dem., Miss.] said the message answers "tons of inspired propaganda with which congress is now flooded and assures the American people that the utilities bill is designed to protect them from further plunder and exploitation at the hands of utility racketeers."

Fires at Insull Companies.

In defending the bill which would outlaw after five years those holding companies unable to demonstrate to the securities commission their necessity for the functioning of operating utility companies Mr. Roosevelt concentrated his fire on such structures as Samuel Insull built.

"Most of us agree," he said, "that we should take the control and the benefits of the essentially local operating utility industry out of a few financial centers and give back that control and those benefits to the localities which produce the business and create the wealth. We can properly favor economically independent business, which stands on its own feet and diffuses power and responsibility among the many and frowns upon those holding companies which through interlocking directorates and other devices have been tyrannical power and exclusive opportunity to a favored few. It is time to make an effort to reverse that process of the concentration of power which has made most American citizens, once traditionally independent owners of their own businesses, helplessly dependent for their daily bread upon the favor of a very few, who, by devices such as holding companies, have taken for themselves unwaranted economic power. I am against private socialism of concentrated private power as thoroughly as I am against governmental socialism. The one is equally as dangerous as the other; and destruction of private socialism is utterly essential to avoid governmental socialism."

Denies Destroying Investments.

The pending bill, said the President, will not destroy "legitimate business or wholesome and productive investment . . . will not destroy a penny of actual value of those operating properties which holding companies now control and which holding company securities represent in so far as they have any value." On the contrary, he asserted, the legislation would surround the "necessary reorganization" of holding companies with safeguards protective of the investor.

"We seek to establish the sound principle that the utility holding company so long as it is permitted to continue should not profit from dealings with subsidiaries and affiliates where there is no semblance of actual bargaining to get the best value and the best price," said the President.

"If a management company is equipped to offer a genuinly economic management service to the smaller operating utility companies it ought not to own stock in the companies it manages, and its fees ought to be reasonable. The holding company should not be permitted to establish a sphere of influence from which independent engineering, construction, and other private enterprise is excluded by a none too benevolent private paternalism.

Should Show Economies.

"If a management company is controled by related operating companies it should be organized on a truly mutual and coöperative basis and should be required to perform its services at actual cost demonstrably lower than the services can be obtained in a free and open market.

"We do not seek to prevent the legitimate conservation of investment in operating utility companies by legitimate investment companies. But the holding company in the past has confused the function of control and management with that of investment and in consequence has more frequently than not failed in both functions.

"Possibly some holding companies may be able to divest themselves of the control of their present subsidiaries and become investment trusts. But an investment company ceases to be an investment company when it embarks into business and management. Investment judgment requires the judicial appraisal of other people's management."

For such holding companies as are permitted to survive and for others during the five year interim a "comprehensive plan of public regulation and control is sound," the President asserted.

Says Most Must Go.

"Except where it is absolutely necessary to the continued functioning of a geographically integrated operating utility system the utility holding company with its present powers must go," he went on.

"If we could remake our financial history in the light of experience certainly we would have none of this holding company business. It is a device which does not belong to our American traditions of law and business. It is only a comparatively late innovation. It dates definitly from the same unfortunate period which marked the beginnings of a host of other laxities in our corporate law which have brought us to our present disgraceful condition of competitive charter mongering between our states. And it offers too well demonstrated temptation and facility for abuse to be tolerated as a recognized business institution.

"That temptation and that facility are inherent in its very nature. It is a corporate invention which can give a few corporate insiders unwaranted and intolerable powers over other people's money. In its destruction of local control and its substitution of absentee management it has built up in the public utility field what has justly been called a system of private socialism which is inimical to the welfare of a free people."

Ex-Mayor Walker's Brother Seriously Injured by Car

New York, March 12.—(AP)—Dr. William H. Walker, medical adviser to the New York State Athletic commission and a brother of former Mayor James J. Walker, was injured seriously today when he was struck by an automobile.

VOTE TO OBTAIN POWER OF TVA IN CHATTANOOGA

Support Bond Issue of 8 Million.

Chattanooga, Tenn., March 12.—[Special.]—Chattanooga's voters today indorsed an 8 million dollar general bond issue to establish a municipal electric system using Tennessee Valley authority power by an indicated majority of more than 2 to 1.

Thirty-two of thirty-three precincts gave 18,582 ballots for the bond issue and 7,837 against it.

Although the issue was not actually along those lines, many voters felt that in passing on the bond issue they were voting for or against the TVA.

Claims of Rival Forces.

A heavy rainstorm, followed by a drop in temperature and slushy snow, failed to keep the voters from the polls.

In the final days of the heated campaign the issue was narrowed down to claims of whether Chattanooga "would repudiate President Roosevelt's TVA program and run the risk of losing federal government agency branches here, together with an opportunity of getting a 28 million dollar power dam," or vote the bonds and "drive industry away, increase rents, and bankrupt the city."

Opponents of the bond issue, organized into the Citizens' and Taxpayers' association, argued that the issue was purely a local question, without significance to the TVA. Public power backers, however, asserted that approval of the bonds would mean coöperation with the federal agency.

Ballots were marked "for" or "against" a proposal to issue 8 million dollars in bonds to acquire the municipal electric system. The only direct mention of the TVA came in the stipulation that the system would use TVA power.

Company Will Fight.

Jo Conn Guild Jr., president of the Tennessee Electric Power company, private utility now serving Chattanooga, after returns indicated the bond issue had carried, declared, "We do not intend to sell out our business to the TVA, the city of Chattanooga, or any one else."

It also was indicated the power company and its holding company, the Commonwealth and Southern, will use the recent decision of Federal Judge William Grubb in a fight against relinquishing its service.

Judge Grubb ruled that the TVA could sell power only in the event it did not intend to produce surplus electricity in its principal activities—flood control and the other phases of its work.

Estate Justifies Title as Beau Brummell Conductor

John S. Hill, 5537 Drexel avenue, who died on Feb. 14, 1934, was known as the "Beau Brummell conductor" of the Chicago and Eastern Illinois railroad. The reason became clear yesterday when his estate was closed by Oscar S. Caplan, assistant to the Probate judge. An inventory listed 600 ties, 105 mufflers, 100 collars, 85 shirts, 54 pairs of gloves, 42 pairs of shoes, 27 hats, 7 suits, and 7 overcoats. The clothing and most of his $5,000 estate were left to a friend, John A. Storey, with whom Hill lived.

ANGRY DEPOSITORS CHASE EX-BANKERS FROM COURTROOM

Philadelphia, Pa., March 12.—(AP)—A crowd of angry depositors today chased three partners of a bankrupt private bank from a third floor courtroom in the Federal building to the street.

Shouting "stop thief," more than 200 men and women raced the partners, Alexander S. Berkowitz, Eugene Berkowitz, and A. Murray Spitzer, down two flights of stairs.

A woman struck Joseph Flannery, bodyguard to Federal Judge George A. Welsh, in the face with an umbrella as he tried to break up the disturbance, which followed a creditors' hearing. Mrs. David Scharf was arrested as the assailant.

Asks Girl Clerk for Bag; Exacts $35 to Put in It

A dapper young man asked for a paper bag last night in a Mrs. Snyder's candy store at 65 West Randolph street. Miss Doris Verschoore, 3730 North Whipple street, the manager, complied with the request and inquired what the sack was for. "To put money in," the youth explained, and threatened to draw a pistol from his pocket and shoot Miss Verschoore unless she enabled him to use it thus. She yielded $35. Only Miss Anna Jagiello, 4308 Kenmore avenue, a clerk, saw the incident.

Says Husband Left Her Stranded in South America

ILLINOIS HOUSE DELEGATION 23-1 FOR VETS' BONUS

Washington, D. C., March 12.—(AP)—Illinois' house delegation today stood 23 to 1 for payment of a bonus to world war veterans.

The lone opponent was D. C. Dobbins, Democrat of Champaign. His opposition, he said, was conditional upon whether some provision could be found for financing payment without inflating currency.

Michael Igoe, Democratic representative at large from Chicago, could not be reached because of his confinement to his home with a sprained ankle, and James A. Meeks, Democrat of Danville, was out of the city.

The state's two senators, James Hamilton Lewis of Chicago and William H. Dieterich of Beardstown, both Democrats, have expressed themselves as favoring immediate cash payment, provided it is consistent with federal finances.

MACDONALD ILL; REVIVE RUMORS OF RESIGNATION

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, March 12.—The severe chill contracted by Prime Minister MacDonald more than a week ago, which prevented him from attending the armaments debate in the house of commons last night, has revived rumors of his impending retirement as head of the national government.

No doubt is now entertained in the best informed political circles that MacDonald has been seriously considering for some time whether he can continue to sustain the burden of the office he has held since 1929 until the next general election.

No reconstruction of the government is contemplated, however, until after King George's jubilee celebration, which will continue well into the summer. Should MacDonald resign then, Stanley Baldwin, Conservative leader, probably would become prime minister.

LET NRA EXPIRE, MANUFACTURERS OF ILLINOIS URGE

Say 2 Years' Co-operation Proves Futility.

After nearly two years of active coöperation in an attempt to make the National Industrial Recovery act workable, the board of directors of the Illinois Manufacturers' association came out yesterday against revival of the act after its expiration on June 16. The board unanimously adopted a resolution terming the act "unsound in principle and impracticable in operation."

The action was considered significant because the organization has about 3,000 companies as members, and because the board recognized that some of these concerns receive at least temporary advantages from NRA.

Upsetting Effects on Business.

A statement signed by R. E. Wantz, president of the association, declares that higher prices due to NRA are retarding the sale of manufactured goods, thus retarding production and reëmployment. The statement also charges that NRA's disturbance of employer-employé relations, as well as other provisions of the measure, have caused widespread uncertainty and apprehension.

"The NRA has now been in existence for nearly two years," the Wantz pronouncement says. "It has been given a fair trial by the manufacturing industries of Illinois. The officers and directors have carefully watched the experience of these industries during this period.

"We have concluded that the entry of the government into the complex field of commercial and employment relationships comprehended in the NRA represents an impracticable and unwaranted intrusion into the proper field of private enterprise.

Road to Sound Prosperity.

"Reëmployment of labor and capital in private enterprise is the only sure road to social security, political stability, and economic progress. Programs which are unsound in principle and which involve or threaten fundamental changes in our economic structure create uncertainty, destroy confidence, and prevent a forward movement toward normal business conditions."

Many of the directors and members of the association have been prominently identified with NRA activities. Harold C. Smith, president of the Illinois Tool Works, was recently appointed a member of the industrial advisory board of NRA. R. Douglas Stuart, first vice president of the Quaker Oats company, is chairman of this board.

GROUP OF INVESTORS ATTACKS MESSAGE AS BLOW TO CONFIDENCE

Washington, D. C., March 12.—[Special.]—Surprise at the Roosevelt message was expressed today by the American Federation of Public Utility Investors, headed by Hugh S. Magill. In the course of the federation's statement it was said:

"The President makes a very plausible argument in support of the regulation of holding companies with which practically every one will agree. However, the real effect of his message is to advocate the passage of the Rayburn-Wheeler bill, which is one of the most autocratic and destructive measures ever introduced in congress.

"The President declares that he is not impressed by the petitions of literally hundreds of thousands of investors who would be directly affected by the passage of this bill. Nor does he seem to be impressed by the undeniable fact that the value of utility securities has actually declined more than 100 million dollars since this bill was introduced in congress on Feb. 6.

"These tremendous losses are not theoretical, but real. They fall not on the companies which the bill proposes to wipe out but upon millions of innocent investors. The fact that such losses on the part of such a vast number of worthy citizens does not impress the President seems to indicate a state of mind that listens to the brain truster, but coolly disregards the pleas of the people in the exercise of their constitutional right "to petition their government for a redress of grievances."

SENATORS URGE DOLE INSTEAD OF WORK PROGRAM

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., March 12.—[Special.]—By permission of Huey Long, the Louisiana dictator, the senate considered the five billion dollar work relief bill today, hearing insistent demands that it be cut down to a straight dole at a saving of 3 billion dollars.

Senator Long began a filibuster at the outset of the session, but subsided when it became evident that no action could be taken on the McCarran prevailing wage amendment. Senator Royal S. Copeland [Dem., N. Y.] and Senator Millard Tydings [Dem., Md.] led the movement for the straight dole, which was gaining momentum but apparently not enough to offset the pork barrel clamor of the western radicals.

Report on Former Expenditures.

Meanwhile Senator Harry F. Byrd [Dem., Va.] received a report from the treasury department showing that after almost two years the unexpended balance of the 1933 appropriation of 3 billion 700 million dollars for public works is still a billion and a half. The report showed that all the New Deal unexpended balances for all purposes were in excess of five billion dollars.

It is Senator Byrd's contention that four billion dollars cannot reasonably be spent on public works in one year, since it has required two years to spend a little over 2 billion.

Senator Tydings declared on the senate floor that this gigantic works fund, if appropriated, would result in a "national scandal" and said he would have no part in it.

"What is really happening," the Maryland Democrat added, "is that throughout the country, in anticipation of this appropriation, cities and towns are approving projects and sending in their applications without any regard for their merit or for unemployment. They are sending in projects that they wouldn't even consider in normal times. It is a race to see who can get there first.

Prefers Straight Relief.

"This money is being spent on soil erosion and other fantastic things that will not relieve unemployment and I am not going to vote for this bill; I am going to vote for straight relief."

Senator Alva B. Adams [Dem., Colo.] interposed that a year ago, when Secretary of the Interior Ickes stopped receiving public works applications, the total then pending was only 2 billion dollars, whereas the total had leaped to 14 billion dollars since the present bill came to congress.

Senator Copeland denounced the works program on the ground that it would not relieve unemployment in New York and other large cities with the largest populations on the dole.

City Idle Not Helped.

"There are two million on the dole in New York City," he said, "and this program will not help them. They are, in the main, milliners, dressmakers, garment workers, clerks, stenographers, accountants, nurses, craftsmen—people who can't go out with a pick and shovel on some construction projects. I can't find anything in this bill that will help those people, or people similarly situated in Chicago and the other large cities."

Senator Arthur H. Vandenberg [Rep., Mich.] said he agreed with Senator Copeland. The only logical solution, he said, would be to allocate the fund to the state authorities, according to their unemployed population.

"What's the matter with the logic of letting the states take care of themselves?" asked Senator Carter Glass [Dem., Va.], chairman of the appropriations committee.

Senator Vandenberg said he was for that idea "one thousand per cent."

Long started his filibuster in the hope of drumming up enough votes to put over the prevailing wage amendment and talked for an hour on his own amendment to increase the appropriation 1 billion dollars to pay expenses of college students. This was voted down 65 to 5.

Save Pork Barrel.

The only action on the bill today was the insertion of various phrases designed to protect pork barrel projects begun by the public works appropriation of 1933 from possible adverse rulings by Controler General McCarl.

Senator McCarran [Dem., Nev.] got in "irrigation and reclamation." Senator Costigan [Dem., Col.] got in "water conservation and transmountain diversion." Senator Barbour [Rep., N. J.] got in "coast erosion." And Senator O'Mahoney [Dem., Wyo.] inserted a clause to restore all funds to PWA impounded for the FERA.

URGES AMENDING CONSTITUTION TO WIDEN NRA RULE

Asserts Congress Should Control Business.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., March 12.—[Special.]—A constitutional amendment allowing congress to control all business may grow out of the questions of extending the NRA, senators considering the future of the recovery administration suggested today.

DONALD RICHBERG.
[A. P. Wirephoto.]

The suggestion was advanced by Senator Alben W. Barkley [Dem., Ky.] during a senate finance committee hearing at which Donald R. Richberg, New Deal spokesman, asked congress to write a "sound" definition of interstate commerce to guide the NRA.

Approximately 17 codes covering 3 million workers in service trades such as hotels and cleaning and dyeing shops may be abandoned by NRA under a "safe" definition of interstate commerce, Richberg explained and he hinted that minor codes having "secondary" importance to interstate commerce may also be dropped. There are between 250 and 300 codes in this class.

Barkley Makes Suggestion.

Senator Barkley's suggestion of a constitutional amendment extending federal control over business came after he had questioned Richberg about the problems of NRA control over industries which affect interstate commerce but which do not themselves come under federal interstate commerce powers.

"I think that some day congress must go farther than it ever has gone —even if it requires an amendment to the constitution—to effectuate the federal government's control over things which affect interstate commerce," Senator Barkley said.

Congress is blocked from such controls at present by the Supreme court interpretation of interstate commerce in the child labor decision, and therefore an amendment to the constitution may become necessary, he pointed out.

Richberg, when asked by Senator Pat Harrison [Dem., Miss.], committee chairman, about the administration's recommendation for handling industries on the border line of federal constitutional powers, passed the question directly back to congress.

"My recommendation would be that you write into this bill a definition of interstate commerce which would be surely and safely sound in the light of court decisions," Richberg replied to Harrison.

Must Drop Many Codes.

"I think that under that definition it will be necessary to drop many of these codes," the New Deal coördinator continued. "I think the NRA should do the big job before it and let the fringes alone."

"If they are not eliminated, what is the alternative?" Senator Harrison wanted to know.

"Voluntary agreements can be made by the President with local trade groups, and insignia can be used to educate the public," said Richberg.

The 17 existing and pending service trade codes which Richberg has inferred would be the first to be eliminated by a definition of federal interstate commerce powers are hotels and restaurants, 900,000 employés; laundries, 233,000 employés; barber shops, 200,000 employés; beauty shops, 168,000 employés; bowling and billiard halls, 160,000 employés; automobile storage, 130,000 employés; cleaning and dyeing, 110,000 employés; advertising distributing, 100,000; advertising installation, shoe rebuilding, real estate brokerage, car and outdoor advertising, funeral service, commercial signs, tourist lodges, and locksmiths, fewer than 100,000 each.

Attack on Roosevelt Arouses Senator.

Washington, D. C., March 12.—(AP)—Fists clenched, William G. Shearer, vociferous big navy advocate, today brought an abrupt end to a turbulent senate munitions committee hearing by advancing upon a committee member who had called him "cowardly."

The name of President Roosevelt, himself, was included in a list of "anti-Americans" which were found in a pamphlet published by Shearer in 1928.

Makes Charges Himself.

As was expected, Shearer made a lot of charges himself, among them that Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler of Columbia and Bernard Baruch, financier, were "anti-American." Baruch has been a favorite target of Father Coughlin and Huey Long.

Nye said Baruch, adviser to several Presidents, would be called to testify. He is expected to appear on March 25.

Called an Editorial.

Shearer said the pamphlet, listing the name of the President with others under the heading "Knaves or Fools" was an editorial of a chain of newspapers.

He conceded, however, that he published the material in his pamphlet without naming its source.

"Are you so cowardly that you hide behind the cloak of these newspapers?" Senator Bone snapped.

"I don't like that word cowardly," Shearer said, rising from the witness chair and swinging down the aile. Chairman Nye shouted and pounded for order.

"Take your seat," he roared at Shearer.

BILL TO CONTROL COAL APPROVED BY SENATE GROUP

Washington, D. C., March 12.—(AP)—While in one quarter of the capital a senate subcommittee late today approved the Guffey bill to make coal production a public utility, another heard a labor chief accuse Appalachian soft coal operators of promoting strike talk as a means of increasing this month's sales.

"You're playing with fire!" was the shout directed at operators by John L. Lewis, president of the United Mine workers, at the joint wage conference drawing up new wage-and-hour contracts to succeed those expiring March 31.

In reporting favorably on the Guffey coal bill the senate subcommittee nevertheless recommended a number of amendments. One of them would provide allocation of production on the basis of 1934 production.

Ickes Questioned on Moses Affair

Secretary Ickes in three poses yesterday as he answered reporters' questions in Washington concerning the abandonment of the administration plan to oust Robert Moses from the New York Triborough Bridge authority.

DEFEAT OF ICKES IN MOSES' CASE HAILED AS JEST

"Pleasant Topic" Is Secretary's View.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., March 12.—[Special.]—In ten enigmatic words Secretary Harold L. Ickes today explained his surrender, revealed yesterday, in the administration's offensive to oust Robert W. Moses as tri-borough bridge authority of New York.

"The Rock of Gibraltar isn't what it was before airplanes," was Ickes' reply when reminded by newspapermen that only last Friday he had insisted that his famous "order 129" of last December stood "like the Rock of Gibraltar."

Basis of Old Order.

The order held that no one could hold a public works administration post and a municipal post at the same time. At its issuance it was reported that the order was aimed directly at Moses, who is also park commissioner of New York.

In promulgating the order Ickes was seen by observers as settling a White House political grudge. Moses had sided with Al Smith during his feud with President Roosevelt before the 1932 campaign.

Yesterday Ickes revealed that on Feb. 26 he had written to Mayor La Guardia of New York that the order was nonretroactive, so that it would not operate against Moses. At the same time he disclosed he had advanced another $1,600,000 for the bridge project.

"Pleasant Topic," Ickes Says.

"Why should I clear it up?" Ickes answered. "It has been such a pleasant topic of discussion."

Ickes declined to say his construction of the order was "a defeat" for the administration, adding that "newspapers are fully capable of forming their opinions." He refused to say why he and other high officials refused to make public the decision that the order had been construed to allow Moses to continue in his post.

SEARCY OFFERS PLAN TO DIVIDE RELIEF BURDEN

House Expected to Debate Two Bills Today.

BY STANLEY ARMSTRONG.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Springfield, Ill., March 12.—[Special.]—Senator Earl B. Searcy, minority leader, today introduced a resolution in the senate calling for a division of relief administration in Illinois, the state to provide for its unemployables and the federal government to take care of those able to work.

In the house the representatives deferred debate on relief measures until tomorrow, when two bills providing for cash relief and giving disbursement authority to counties and townships come up as a special order of business.

Report Democrats' Strategy.

Reports state that the Democratic strategy will be to allow one of the house bills to pass. When this measure arrives in the senate it is to be snowed under by the heavy Democratic majority, according to the rumors, and a Democratic drafted bill substituted for it, thus giving that party credit for whatever action is taken.

Illinois' costs for the maintenance of the unemployables can be held to at least 30 millions, according to Senator Searcy, which is six millions less than the amount fixed by Washington as the quota for relief to be raised annually by this state. The senator said he believes the cost could be reduced further by changing the form of administration.

"Under this plan," said Senator Searcy, "Illinois would be obligated to care for her regularly unemployed, abnormal though the number probably is at this time. The federal government, on the other hand, admittedly responsible, to a degree at least, for legislation which makes for or against idleness among the able-bodied, would save the responsibility of taking care of them.

Cites Democratic Convention.

"The growing tendency to destroy state lines and make everything and everybody answerable direct to Washington is one that is causing genuine alarm among thinkers of both major political parties. I maintain that state sovereignty ought not to be abolished to the extent that it is threatened.

"My idea is that Illinois should serve notice on official Washington that we are going to do it this way, and then let Washington carry on the elaborate system with employables if our federal burocracy still feels that the taxpayers' pocketbooks are bottomless. In my opinion, President Roosevelt won't say 'no' to Illinois with the next Democratic national convention only fifteen months away."

The resolution was held at Searcy's request on the calendar for future reference. He said he would urge early action on it.

C. P. TAFT TELLS BAR BENEFITS OF CINCINNATI PLAN

Home rule and a city manager form of government can do for other cities what has been done in Cincinnati, Charles P. Taft, Cincinnati lawyer, told members of the Chicago Bar association at a luncheon in their headquarters at 160 North La Salle street yesterday.

Cincinnati was in the hands of a corrupt political machine in 1911, when the movement for home rule began, according to Mr. Taft, who is a son of the late former President Taft. With proper leadership the citizens became united in their desire for better government, he said, and the corrupt rule was overthrown and the city manager plan adopted in 1925.

"Under the plan," he said, "grafting on contracts and patronage have been eliminated. Representative government is a fact. Since 1925 the city's bonded debt has shrunk to $28,000,000 from $35,000,000. Our city government has been greatly simplified. We now seek to extend these benefits to the county government."

Consolidation of Chicago's park districts, Mr. Taft said, was a step in the right direction.

REALTY 'CLIENT' AND HIS PARTNER SWINDLE WOMAN

Complaints to authorities yesterday revealed that two men, posing as client and attorney, are attempting to defraud persons who have advertised real estate for sale in Chicago newspapers.

The two men defrauded Miss J. E. Larkin, 3627 West 62d place, of $10 and tried to get a like sum from Mrs. James W. Sullivan, 4206 North Mozart street. Mrs. Sullivan became suspicious, refused to deal with the men, and notified the authorities.

The usual method of operation, authorities said, is for the "client" to agree to purchase the real estate. The "attorney" then insists on a Torrens deed. On finding that the advertiser does not have one the man posing as the attorney agrees to handle the matter for a fee of $10.

Mrs. Sullivan described the "client" as a man of slight build, 5 feet 7 or 8 inches tall, and of nervous make up. The attorney, she said, is about 6 feet tall, weighs about 160 pounds, and is well-dressed.

STATE ASSEMBLY DISCARDS ENNUI; SESSION LIVELIER

More than 800 Bills Face Members.

BY PERCY WOOD.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Springfield, Ill., March 12.—Special.]—A new vigor was discernible in the Illinois legislature today. Perhaps the fresh aroma of spring in the air brought the activity, but whatever the cause, scores of bills were introduced, committees met and held lively arguments, the sessions in each chamber were spirited, and even after all was over for the day many of the members lingered at their desks or gossiped in the halls, seemingly loath to leave.

It was a sprightly rebirth of what has been, to date, a very dull session. The senators and representatives who skipped down to Florida or Hot Springs after the primary elections were all back at work, and there was plenty for them to do. More than 800 bills are in the hoppers already.

New Bills Watched.

With all the willingness displayed, there wasn't much on the calendar to provoke marked industry. Much of the work accomplished was of secondary importance, but among the new measures introduced were several packed with legislative dynamite.

This description, for example, fitted a resolution presented by Representative Harry L. Topping [Rep., Kankakee], which would authorize the voters to pass on a constitutional amendment reducing the house membership from 153 to 51, or to the size of the senate. Under its provisions, many believed, minority representation would be seriously impaired. It was regarded as a step toward the unicameral, or one house assembly, recently enacted in Nebraska.

Would Increase Pay.

The Topping resolution would not extend the terms of house members beyond their present two year tenure, but it would increase their pay, making it $4,000 instead of $3,500 for the biennium. Whatever is to be done with it will first be considered by the house executive committee. It was not regarded probable that incumbents would relish a change in the law providing for the election of one instead of three representatives from each of the 51 districts.

Congressional reapportionment, a subject with which the legislature has struggled for the last several sessions, was also reopened through a bill presented by Representative Frank W. McClure [Dem., Abingdon]. It was an unusual measure to come from a down-stater inasmuch as it would increase the congressional districts in Illinois from 25 to 27 and give Chicago and the metropolitan area half of the districts.

Cook county now has ten congressmen. Under the McClure bill it would be given thirteen outright while the Fourteenth district would include the Cook towns of Lemont, Orland, and Rich, as well as the counties of Du Page, Kendall, Grundy, and Will. The two congressmen-at-large would be given new districts. The McClure bill was referred to the congressional reapportionment committee.

In the house elections committee this afternoon Representative Richard J. Lyons [Rep., Libertyville] secured approval of his bill prohibiting the nomination of candidates and the printing upon the ballot of the party appellation or title of the communist party.

Like action was also taken on the bill sponsored by Representative Edward P. O'Grady [Dem., Chicago] requiring that teachers in all educational institutions who are compensated from state funds take an oath of allegiance to the United States and the state of Illinois.

L. P. BONFOEY, STATE AERO CHIEF, INJURED IN CRASH OF PLANE

L. P. BONFOEY.

Harry W. Johnson, chief inspector of the bureau, who was flying with Bonfoey, received a severe scalp injury. George C. Roberts, Bonfoey's pilot, was not hurt.

Bonfoey had two fractured ribs and possible other injuries. Johnson came here for treatment. Twenty stitches were required to close the wound in his scalp.

Bonfoey had two fractured ribs and possibly other injuries. Johnson came here for treatment. Twenty stitches were required to close the wound in his scalp.

He explained the plane was en route from Chicago to Washington when it was forced down.

"The snow and mist got so thick we could not see anything, and we had to land," he said. "The pilot picked out what seemed to be a good landing place, but a little tree rose suddenly in front of the plane. The plane turned over when it side-swiped the tree."

U. S. GETS READY HERE TO TRY ITS 1ST MURDER CASE

Orders for a special jury venire were issued yesterday at the United States courthouse as the government prepared for the trial Monday of John Paul Chase for the slaying last Nov. 27 of Inspector Samuel P. Cowley of the department of justice. The trial will be the first under a federal statute providing for murder trials in the federal courts, with death as the penalty in cases in which federal agents are slain while on duty.

Cowley and Special Agent Herman E. Hollis were shot to death at Barrington in a highway gun battle in which Lester Gillis [Baby Face Nelson] also was mortally wounded. Chase is charged with the Hollis murder, too, but the government elected to try the Cowley case first.

A special venire of fifty in the courtroom of Federal Judge Philip L. Sullivan will be questioned on Monday by United States Attorney Dwight H. Green, Brien McMahon of Norwalk, Conn., special assistant to the United States attorney general, and Defense Attorney W. W. O'Brien. At O'Brien's request federal agents brought Mrs. Lester Gillis, widow of Nelson, to Chicago yesterday from Milan, Mich., where she is serving an 18 month sentence for harboring John Dillinger. She was at the Barrington battle. Attorney O'Brien interviewed her and announced that her first hand story of the fight, if told to the jury, would not "hurt the defense theory" of self-defense against unrecognized assailants. Since Prosecutor Green said last night he "had not decided" whether to put Mrs. Gillis on the stand at Chase's trial, she will be back in Milan today.

LAWYER'S WORDS OF 1920 RISE TO PLAGUE HIM NOW

The remarks made by a lawyer while he represented one side in a case fifteen years ago were thrown back at him yesterday as he represented the other side.

In 1920 Attorney R. H. Radley appeared for the city of Peoria before the Illinois Commerce commission, then known as the Public Utility commission, and charged that the Peoria Water Works company had been mulcting citizens of Peoria since 1898.

Yesterday Harry R. Booth, counsel for the commission, recalled this quotation during a hearing in which Radley appeared as counsel for the water company to fight a rate reduction being sought by the city.

Assistant Commissioner Farrell ruled that Booth might make use of the facts contained in the 1920 record, but that Radley's remarks could not go into the record.

ROOSEVELT MAPS LAWS TO BLOCK GOLD TEST SUITS

Congress Will Be Asked for Legal Barriers.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., March 12.—[Special.]—President Roosevelt today decided to ask congress for legislation blocking all further legal tests of his gold policy.

Legislation, probably forbidding the Court of Claims to take jurisdiction in any case growing out of the government's abrogation of its gold payment promise, may be requested of congress in the near future.

The decision to ask for such laws apparently was reached this afternoon at a White House conference attended by Attorney General Homer S. Cummings, Herman Oliphant, general counsel of the treasury; Stanley Reid, counsel for the Reconstruction Finance corporation; and Angus McLean, assistant solicitor general. All these lawyers helped in arguing or preparing the recent government gold cases before the Supreme court.

Seek to Close Loopholes.

Attorney General Cummings would make no definite comment at the conclusion of the conference except to warn newspaper men that they should "keep their ears to the ground; there may be some news."

The conference, following on the heels of a similar one at the White House yesterday, is known, however, to have discussed the question of legislation to close up loopholes in the Supreme court gold decisions, especially that decision in which the court held that the abrogation of the gold clause in government bonds was unconstitutional.

Two questions were before the President and his conferees: First, is any legislation necessary to supplement the decisions? Second, if such legislation is necessary, what form shall it take?

Mr. Roosevelt is understood to have decided affirmatively on the first question, demanding that legislation be prepared. Whether the exact form of the legislation has been decided upon is uncertain. Previous plans, however, have indicated that the government merely will seek to block future suits in the Court of Claims.

Scoffs at Taft Suit.

Attorney General Cummings today scoffed at such a suit filed yesterday by Charles A. Taft, son of the late President and chief justice, on behalf of the Dixie Terminal company of Cincinnati.

"It is so ingenious that it is safe to say there is nothing to it," Mr. Cummings said of the Taft suit.

Mr. Taft bases his claim for $1.07 damages on that section of the Supreme court Liberty bond decision which holds that the government could not abrogate the gold clause in its own bonds. Having breached the contract, the government cannot exercise the option in the contract to call the bonds for redemption prior to the maturity date without paying in gold, Taft argues. His client holds a $50 Liberty bond which the treasury has called for redemption on April 15 and for which they refuse gold.

By simply denying the Court of Claims' jurisdiction in such suits, congress could stop them in the future. The government cannot be sued without its consent.

SABATH GIVES DINNER SEEKING HARMONY IN ILLINOIS DELEGATION

Washington, D. C., March 12.—(AP)—Illinois' third bid at complete biparty harmony on congressional matters was made tonight when Representative Adolph J. Sabath [Dem., Chicago], dean of the house and chairman of the Democratic delegation, gave a dinner for his colleagues.

Republicans attended as well as Democrats.

While announced to be a strictly informal, friendly gathering, where, as Sabath said, "We can get acquainted and settle down to discussion of what must be done for Illinois," the delegation after dinner broke into groups to settle political differences and organize for legislation advantageous to the state.

PINK SLIP REPEAL ACTION IS FACING DELAY IN SENATE

Washington, D. C., March 12.—(AP)—Scant possibility of early senate action on repeal of the "pink slip" was conceded toady by Democratic leaders in view of a counter proposal of opponents who want complete publicity on income tax returns.

The senate finance committee postponed until tomorrow consideration of the proposal already approved by the house at the request of Senator Robert M. La Follette [Radical, Wis.] who submitted the substitute to make all returns available for public inspection.

All hope of senate action by March 15, the date all income returns must be filed under the law, was abandoned because of the prolonged discussion it is expected to inspire.

Senator Pat Harrison [Dem., Miss.], chairman, issued a warning to those filing returns, to fill out the pink slips giving totals of incomes, pointing out that a penalty was imposed for failure to do this. He added, however, there was plenty of time for the senate to act on repeal before the pink slips could be made public by the treasury department, since this requires from three to six months.

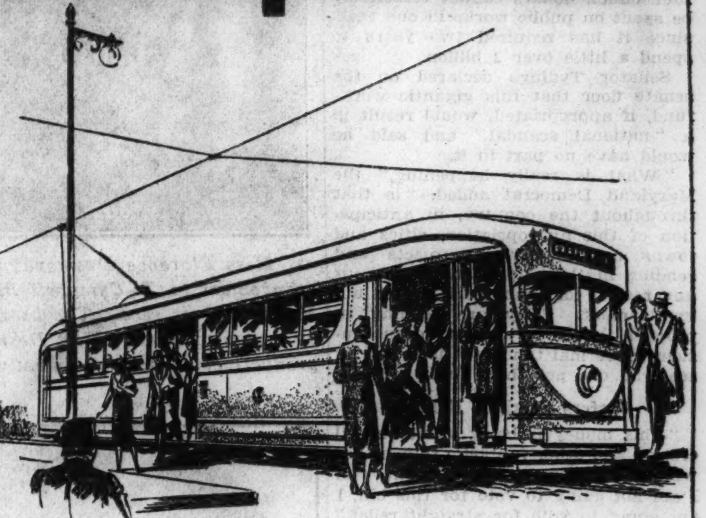
The Street Car in Local Transportation



In 1926 the Chicago Surface Lines carried 75 per cent of all persons in Chicago using local transportation.

Today it carries 80 per cent.

The two competitive services divided 25 per cent of the business nine years ago; today they divide but 20 per cent.

When the depression closed factories, it reduced the volume of riding on public conveyances. Surface Lines business in 1934 was 25 per cent below its peak year; but one of its competitors had lost 44 per cent and the other 37 per cent as compared with their peak years.

These facts are significant

- Every large city has its own peculiar transportation problems—and Chicago is no exception. Spreading over 200 square miles, and embracing scores of thriving business, industrial and residential communities, it needs inter-neighborhood transportation. The Chicago Surface Lines provides that form of transportation.
- Although street cars carry more people to the loop daily than both of the competitive services combined, only 18 per cent of the 2,000,000 daily street car riders enter the central business district.
- The gridiron of Surface Lines street car and bus routes serves every section of the city. Ninety-eight per cent of the population and 84 per cent of the city area are within three blocks of its tracks or bus routes.
- Chicago is many cities in one. Surface Lines transportation developed these outlying communities, and serves their local needs effectively.
- Surface Lines service will continue to be the dominant factor in local transportation in Chicago. It meets the peculiar needs of this city, just as subways meet the peculiar needs of New York City, where the density of population is five times as great as in Chicago.

N. Y. SUPPORTING ARMY OF ALIENS ON RELIEF ROLL

Records Kept Secret by FERA Officials.

BY WILLARD EDWARDS.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, March 12.—[Special.]—This city is supporting an army of more than 200,000 aliens at a monthly cost of more than $2,800,000.

This was determined in an investigation completed today which resulted also in the almost incredible disclosure that aliens, in many instances, are given preference over American citizens by those charged with the duty of distributing relief funds in the nation's largest municipality.

New York spends more than 20 million dollars monthly, most of it supplied by the federal government, on the needy and idle. The most recent report showed 1,457,811 individuals, representing 331,872 families, on the relief rolls.

No Official Citizenship Records.

There are no official records regarding the foreign born, who have not sought citizens' papers, who are among those receiving relief. Relief officials expressed horror when asked if any effort had been made to tabulate the aliens on their lists.

"Unemployment relief, whether direct or in the form of projects conducted with relief funds, is extended [illegible] regard to citizenship or noncitizenship," declared Bruce McClure, personal assistant to Administrator Harry L. Hopkins, recently.

The estimate of 200,000 aliens on the relief rolls is based upon figures produced in a report compiled by Frederick Sasse, national commander of the United States Army Ambulance Service association, and upon an investigation by a reporter in many of the relief stations of the city.

Call Estimate Too Low.

Several observers declared the estimate too low. According to the 1930 census there were 681,335 known aliens in New York City. According to a committee which made a survey for the New York State Chamber of Commerce, there are approximately 5 million aliens, registered and otherwise, in the United States, of whom one-fourth, or 1,250,000, live in New York.

These observers did not hesitate to express the opinion that from 300,000 to 500,000 New York aliens are receiving relief from the United States while withholding allegiance from their benefactor.

On one subject all those questioned were in agreement. The aliens in this city are those who stage the disturbances. They lead the marches on the city hall and the demands for more money. They make the speeches in Union Square attacking the government and advocating a communistic form of government to be achieved by a revolution.

Number Grows Constantly.

The number of aliens on relief is constantly growing, it was revealed. Definite figures were gathered showing that the relief workers, a great many of whom are in sympathy with the soviet union's attempt to spread the communist doctorine in fertile fields here, favor aliens in preference to citizens.

In his capacity as secretary to the president of the borough of Queens in New York Sasse was enabled to tabulate the aliens on relief projects in his district despite the efforts of relief officials to keep such records secret. A similar report was made by John J. Reardon, commander of an American Legion post.

Both Sasse and Reardon were interested in complaints that war veterans were being shelved in favor of aliens on work relief projects. Their findings revealed what they united in terming "a disgraceful and unbelievable condition."

Aliens Displace Veterans.

"Not only were aliens given preference in the hiring of persons on relief projects," declared their reports, "but veterans were laid off and aliens hired in their place. These aliens had lived in this country from five to thirty years without applying for citizens' papers, according to their own statements."

When a letter calling attention to this situation was sent to Relief Administrator Hopkins a reply was sent by Joseph J. Mayer, who bears the title of "chief of correspondence division of the FERA."

"As you know, all employment on work division projects," wrote Mayer, "is given on the basis of the need of the individual and his family, as determined by the social service section of your local emergency relief administration. It is probable that the veterans are receiving pensions which are greater than the budgetary allowances under the rules of this administration."

Reardon wrote another letter to President Roosevelt, in which he referred to the President's statement to a Legion commander in Texas that "a very definite and distinct preference is given to veterans" in the awarding of jobs on relief projects. He pointed out the preference was rather for aliens than for citizens in New York. He received a formal reply that his letter had been referred to the New York emergency relief organization.

From Relief Official.

Other correspondence displayed by Reardon included a letter from Robert Dixon, assistant director of the emergency relief bureau. He wrote:

"Under the rules and regulations there can be no differentiation between applicants because of noncitizenship. An alien is accorded the same consideration as a citizen, and no preference is given a citizen employé when it becomes necessary to separate workers from the pay roll. There are no records available showing the number of aliens now employed."

Sasse declared that the attitude of the relief workers in response to his complaints was "astonishing."

"After I found that there had been scores of veterans fired from the relief rolls to be replaced by aliens," he said, "I made my complaint. Instead of remedying the situation the organization in a few weeks had tripled the number of aliens on the rolls seemingly as a spiteful reply to my complaint."

Fostering Communism.

The relief workers, Sasse said, were fostering communism from two angles by their methods.

"Not only do they encourage communism by giving preference to the aliens on the relief rolls," he said, "but by denying similar benefits to citizens they foster a discontent with the government which makes normal good citizens open an ear to communistic theories."

Statistics in the Reardon-Sasse report disclosed that on one federal project in Queens, half the workers were aliens and most of them had been in the country from ten to twenty-eight years without indicating a desire to become citizens. In the same district several veterans had been laid off for no apparent reason, the report stated. The workers on this particular project were paid $11.20 a day.

It is the hope of the Legion posts in New York to start a national campaign which would result in legislation giving preference to war veterans and other citizens over aliens in the allotment of employment on federal relief projects, Reardon declared.

BARUCH CLAIMS PRIEST IS WRONG ON NAME IN HIS RADIO SPEECHES

New York, March 12.—[Special.]—Bernard Mannes Baruch had only a wide smile today in answer to the radio attack made last night by the Rev. Charles E. Coughlin. The radio priest repeatedly called him "Bernard Manasses Baruch." Baruch explained his middle name was Mannes.

The priest had said: "I will dare confront the Herods by name and by fact even though my head be served on a golden platter; even though my body be sawed in twain as was that of the Prophet Isaiah for having [illegible] name of Manasses!

"Today there is another Manasses, your lord and master, Gen. Johnson. I refer to Bernard Manasses Baruch, whose full name has seldom been mentioned, but which name from this day forth shall not be forgotten."

The name Mannes was given to the Baruch baby in 1870 in a little South Carolina town because a man named Mannes gave to Simon Baruch, the child's father, a confederate uniform and a sword to carry on the battlefields. Baruch today confirmed that story. He is writing a book and planning others.

MELLON HEARING WITNESS QUIZZED ON MERGER DEAL

Pittsburgh, Pa., March 12.—(AP)—In an all day cross-examination the government today pushed its charges that Andrew Mellon profited more than 6 million dollars upon which he should have paid an income tax in the transaction that placed the McClintic-Marshall corporation under control of the Bethlehem Steel.

F. R. Shearer, attorney for the internal revenue bureau, carried Earle J. Patterson, former secretary-treasurer of McClintic-Marshall, through the details of various stockholders and directors' meetings at which preliminaries of the 21 million dollar deal were handled.

Mellon is protesting before the U. S. board of tax appeals a $3,089,000 assessment on his 1931 income—more than one million dollars of which the government charges is due from the McClintic-Marshall transaction with Bethlehem.

Patterson said that while the merger was pending, McClintic-Marshall, on advice of counsel, decided to segregate into one holding company all the assets which Bethlehem did not want.

These assets, with a book value of 44 million dollars, included 83½ per cent of the Koppers Company of Delaware, stock, cash, and other securities. The new concern was called the Union Construction company.

The witness, on direct testimony, had identified various contracts and minutes of the meetings of the seven subsidiaries of McClintic-Marshall, accepting a proposal by the Union Construction company for their assets—contracts which Mellon's counsel claim are legal transactions making both the transfer of assets to Union and Bethlehem nontaxable until actual cash should be acquired by the individuals from the proceeds.

Shearer had Patterson describe the meetings of stockholders and boards of directors of the seven subsidiaries. There were 20 meetings, all on Dec. 31, 1931, with 15 of them in the McClintic-Marshall offices in Pittsburgh during the afternoon and evening.

Shearer brought out that at the Pittsburgh meetings only four men were present, C. D. McClintic, H. H. Marshall, Patterson, and E. A. Gibbs, and that the minutes of the subsidiary concerns showed these four every ten minutes changed from a stockholders' meeting to a directors' meeting. Shearer claimed this process went on until all had approved the transactions.

Using proxies, the McClintic-Marshall companies of New York, California, and Illinois met in Buffalo, San Francisco, and Chicago, respectively, said Patterson.

The government is trying to prove its claim that the contracts were but a screen behind which the McClintic-Marshall corporation sought to liquidate part of its holdings to avoid taxes.

INVITES JOHNSON, COUGHLIN, LONG TO STAGE DEBATE

Atlantic City, N. J., March 12.—[Special.]—Mayor Harry Bacharach today invited Hugh S. Johnson, Senator Huey Long, and the Rev. Charles E. Coughlin to debate their differences in the convention hall here on Saturday night, April 13. In a telegram to Gen. Johnson the mayor said:

"Millions who listened to your recent radio broadcast wish to hear you, Father Coughlin, and Senator Long from the same platform."

Mayor Bacharach sent similar telegrams to the senator and to the radio priest. He explained that he selected April 13 as it preceded Palm Sunday, "when this resort will be thronged with thousands of visitors."

NEW DEALERS ENJOY FLORIDA OUTING, SUNSHINE

Jesse Jones, on Fisher's Yacht, Lauds Thrift.

BY PUTNEY HAIGHT.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Miami, Fla., March 12.—[Special.]—During the winter season just closing along Florida's southeast coast an impressive number of the stars, of greater and lesser magnitude, of the New Deal administration have visited here and hereabouts. They have dropped in quietly upon the gayety and luxury of the resort colonies. Presumably the parade of New Dealers throughout these communities of this Riviera was not exactly in line of governmental duty, although one such visitor used time that might have been utilized at the race tracks, night clubs, yachting or swimming or golfing, in a formal defense of the NRA. By and large the visits principally were for pleasure. None may be quoted as considering the outing a hardship.

War Secretary Awaited.

Due here at the end of the week is the secretary of war, George Henry Dern, and arrangements have been made for a fitting reception and holiday diversions. The committee of one hundred, made up of wealthy industrialists who have winter homes at Miami Beach, will attend to some of the formalities and a possible item in the visit may be a trip to the exclusive Coco Loba Cay club.

Others of the administration personnel who have been in evidence as dropping in for a fling at the exotic life of South Africa in winter include:

DANIEL C. ROPER, secretary of commerce.

JAMES A. FARLEY, postmaster general.

REXFORD G. TUGWELL, undersecretary of agriculture.

WILLIAM A. JULIAN, treasurer of the United States.

James Roosevelt Arrives.

James Roosevelt, son of the President, while not of the official family, came to board the Vincent Astor yacht Nourmahal, which later may figure in administration vacation plans.

All the administration visitors have been received and entertained amid honors commensurate with their importance. Florida and Miami officials did considerable fawning, though denying that the fact that Florida is looking for some $40,000,000 relief funds was a motive.

Jesse H. Jones, during his stay, was the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Frederic John Fisher of Detroit on their palatial yacht Nakhoda. Mr. Fisher, whose industrial interests include General Motors and Fisher bodies, spared no lavishness during the visit. Mr. Jones seemed to enjoy the outing immensely.

Would Encourage Thrift.

"No one must be allowed to suffer for the lack of life's necessities, we are all agreed, but self-reliance and thrift must be encouraged and rewarded. Money must be made valuable enough to work for, but not so valuable that people cannot earn a living working for it."

Richberg's Host Is Absent.

Mr. Richberg was to have been the guest of Frank E. Gannett of Rochester, proprietor of a newspaper chain in Atlantic seaboard territory, who maintains a mansion at Miami Beach. Through some inadvertency that arrangement miscarried. Mr. Gannett was unavoidably absent. The Richbergs were put up at the fashionable Flamingo, however, during their stay. They were lionized among the beach winter set and were active socially under the wing of Mrs. Gannett, who did the honors. Mr. Richberg took occasion to discuss the NRA before a meeting of the committee of one hundred. He otherwise enjoyed himself by land and sea.

Mr. Farley came down for a rest, he said, and went immediately to the Biltmore after leaving his train. He had many visitors from Washington, New York, and points west, but the news hawks at his quarters at the Biltmore were unable to identify these guests and that record is a blank.

"I'm here for golf and sleep and on as many afternoons as I can get out to Hialeah," Mr. Farley said. He spent one day dedicating a new postoffice at Sarasota, however.

Tugwell's Visit Is Brief.

Mr. Tugwell's visit was brief. He came here from Washington and stopped only a day on his way to Key West and the dry Tortugas islands. On his return he passed another day at the beach, but carefully avoided any social attentions or public appearances.

Mr. Roper came down to Miami on the department of commerce ship Eala, stayed a few days, and returned with a promise to come again before the season ended. He said, during his visit: "Everywhere people are more prosperous than they have been in many years, and it is this new found prosperity that enables so many to spend their winter vacations in Miami."

Mme. Secretary Frances Perkins has been expected in these parts, but has not yet reached Miami.

MISS PERKINS TAKES PICTURE OF HERSELF--FROM PHOTOGRAPHER

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., March 12.—[Special.]—Secretary of Labor Frances Perkins today forced a newspaper photographer to turn over to her a picture of her which he had snapped when she appeared before the senate education and labor committee.

As Miss Perkins took the witness chair before the committee, the photographer's flashlight momentarily dazzled the room and attracted her attention. She turned to the offending camera man at once and demanded that he surrender his plate to her.

The photographer turned to Senator David I. Walsh [Dem., Mass.] for advice. Secretary Perkins explained that she did not allow impromptu snapshots of herself but that she would be glad to pose for the camera man after testifying. Senator Walsh nodded to the photographer. He handed a photographic plate to Miss Perkins, and, tucking it in her purse, she turned to the committee ready to testify.

Now the question is: Did the photographer hand her a blank plate and keep the one on which he had snapped her picture?

JUDGE TELLS GIRL TO TRY SOAP ON HER VOCABULARY

Miss Marie Gibson, 22 years old and red haired, who lives at 2645 Washington boulevard, was arrested Feb. 22 for unladylike comments about Policeman Lee Black of the Racine avenue station for arresting her friend, John Schuler, 38 years old, 745 North Waller avenue, on a charge of driving an automobile while intoxicated.

She was arraigned before Judge Joseph A. Graber in Automobile court yesterday, and Policeman Black blushed when Judge Graber asked him to repeat what the girl had called him.

"Perhaps," the judge said, "six months in jail would improve this lady's language." Miss Gibson wept.

"Go home," the court commanded, "and wash your mouth with soap." Judge Graber also continued Schuler's case until Aug. 15 on the defendant's promise to quit drinking.

PLAYMATES SAY LAST GOOD-BY TO GIRL AUTO VICTIM

Brother, 10, Near Death; Hit on Street.

BY MARCIA WINN.

It was three o'clock yesterday afternoon, school was just out for the day. Children flashed past on skates. Somewhere a hand organ was grinding out "Sidewalks of New York."

Three sober faced children paused on the threshold of Hales' funeral parlor, 3615 West Cermak road. The oldest one, a boy of 10, took a firm hold on the hands of his little sisters. Then they went in.

The body of Carol McAdam, 6 years old, lay in a coffin inside. Her yellow hair, usually tousled, was combed carefully. A white taffeta hairbow was perched on one side. In her hands were clasped three narcissus flowers. On her feet were new white kid slippers.

Farewell to Playmate.

The children paused before the coffin. They made no sound. Their eyes were wide and frightened. From the back of the chapel came a murmur of talk.

Some one was talking to the child's father, Charles S. McAdam of 2229 South Keeler avenue.

"Do you drive a car?" came the hushed undertone.

"I did," laconically replied the father. "I don't think I will any more."

While Mr. McAdam kept watch at the funeral chapel, Mrs. McAdam sat at St. Anne's hospital. Tossing on a bed inside was Carol's brother, Robert. Concussion of the brain. Condition: perilous.

Robert is 10, four years older than Carol. Together they got off a street car at North and LeClaire avenues Sunday afternoon. For a moment they paused on a safety isle. Then they started to cross, Carol a step in advance of Robert.

Swift Death from Car.

Suddenly, an automobile was upon them. Robert reached out, tried to pull Carol back by her shoulder. Carol, killed instantly, was knocked from the street to the curb. Robert was caught and dragged by the car for some distance. The automobile was driven by Police Sergeant Gustav Melcher, 1644 North New England avenue.

"He said he was going 20 miles an hour," the children's father was speaking in a mechanical monotone, "but that little tot only weighed 40 pounds. If he had been going just 20 miles an hour she couldn't have made that dent in his fender. She had on new shoes, just bought Saturday—and you know it takes considerable force to tear a heel off a child's shoe."

Funeral services will be held at 2 p. m. tomorrow from the funeral chapel. The Rev. A. P. Landgraf, pastor of the Mildred Avenue Presbyterian church, will officiate. Interment will be in Forest Home cemetery.

TEAMSTERS LOSE SPECIAL STATE'S ATTORNEY PLEA

Chief Justice Denis E. Sullivan of the Criminal court refused yesterday to allow Attorney Joseph T. Harrington to file a petition asking appointment of a special state's attorney to investigate an alleged conspiracy of State's Attorney Courtney and Mayor Kelly to interfere with the activities of the Chicago Coal Teamsters, Chauffeurs, and Helpers' union. Attorney Harrington charged the officials sought to favor the International Brotherhood of Teamsters, a rival union affiliated with the American Federation of Labor.

"The removal of a duly elected public officer and the substitution of some one else, although authorized by statute, ought to occur only when the protection of the public urgently demands it," Judge Sullivan said.

"For the judicial branch of the government to interfere with the people's chosen representatives when they are endeavoring to suppress crime would be an action fraught with grave possibilities to the public peace and protection. It would be a public tragedy."

Judge Sullivan also denied a motion that Sergt. Thomas J. Kelly and Assistant State's Attorney James V. Cunningham be held in contempt of court because six members of Chicago coal teamsters' union were booked for disorderly conduct after being discharged in a writ of habeas corpus.

James H. Gehring, 38 years old, of Gary was killed yesterday when his automobile crashed into the Indiana Harbor Belt Line viaduct at Broadway in Gary. Gehring, who was employed by the receivers of the First National bank of Gary, is survived by a widow, Coyola.

Nick Salon, 38 years old, of Hammond was killed yesterday when the automobile in which he was riding crashed into a truck driven by Tony Vass of Chicago, near Hammond. The driver of the automobile, Paul Korick, 47 years old, of East Chicago, Ind., was injured seriously.

One death in Cook county yesterday raised the county's fatality list so far this year to 170. Up to 4 p. m. yesterday there had been 140 trafic deaths in the Chicago city limits since the first of the year, and the number of injured totaled 2,731. Yesterday's death:

Unidentified man, colored, about 35 years old. Fatally injured when he was struck by the car of a hit-and-run driver last night at Polk and Des Plaines streets. The victim died in the County hospital. The body was removed to the county morgue.

Suicide Verdict in Death Leap from Hotel Window

A coroner's jury investigating the death of Louis C. Moeckel, 58 years old, of New York yesterday returned a verdict of suicide while temporarily insane. Moeckel leaped to his death from a seventeenth floor window in the Palmer house Monday afternoon. No motive for the death was established. George G. Powers, head of the Powers Spring company, testified that he had talked with Moeckel by telephone earlier in the day and that at that time Moeckel spoke optimistically of business prospects.

NATIONAL SAFETY PRIZE AWARDED TO MILWAUKEE

Auto Death Rate Rises in All but 4 of 600 Cities.

Milwaukee was announced yesterday as winner of the national trafic safety contest of the National Safety council. Its automobile death rate was 10.8 for each 100,000 population, as compared with an average of 19.1 for the more than 600 cities in 31 states which participated. Chicago's rate was 27.5.

Besides winning the grand prize, Milwaukee also won the high award in the group of cities of 500,000 population and over. Other winners in the population group are: 250,000 to 500,000, Providence, R. I.; 100,000 to 250,000, Fort Wayne, Ind.; 50,000 to 100,000, Schenectady, N. Y.; 25,000 to 50,000, Dubuque, Ia.; 10,000 to 25,000, Massena, N. Y.

Evanston, which nosed out Milwaukee for the grand prize last year, merited no better than honorable mention in its population group this year.

Only Four Cities Report Declines.

Milwaukee was one of only four cities which experienced declines in their automobile fatality rates last year. The others are New York City, Pittsburgh, and San Francisco. Most cities had sharply increased fatalities in 1934, it was pointed out.

New Jersey, Minnesota, and Arizona were declared winners of the interstate contest, which was judged in three regional groupings.

The grand prize, a plaque bearing a record of Milwaukee's trafic safety achievements last year, will be bestowed on March 28 in a special program broadcast on a national radio hookup. Speakers will include Secretary of Commerce Daniel C. Roper and Gov. Harold G. Hoffman of New Jersey.

Bronze plaques will be given also to the winners in the six population groups. The actual awards will be made in the winning cities by representatives of the National Safety council, all the ceremonies to be united through the medium of radio.

Points Considered in Contest.

While Milwaukee's death rate was lower than that of other large cities, the fatality rate scored a maximum of 50 points in the judging. Other factors entering in the selection included thorough accident reporting and recording, trafic planning, trafic law enforcement, child safety, and public education.

Judges in the contest were Thomas H. McDonald of Washington, D. C., chief of the United States bureau of public roads, chairman; Harold Buttenheim, editor of American City magazine, and John E. Long, president of the National Safety council.

FIRE DAMAGES DOCTOR'S OFFICES.

TRAFIC CHARGES MADE AGAINST 29 STREET CAR MEN

Motor Club Acts; Spy Plan Assailed.

BY HAL FOUST.

The Chicago Motor club yesterday filed complaints with Capt. David Flynn of the police trafic division against twenty-nine street car motormen. The Chicago Surface Lines employés have been reporting trafic violations by automobile drivers for six days.

The police captain announced that he will now operate a two way "spy" system, with the street car men "telling on" the automobile operators and the motorists telling on the motormen for trafic ordinance violations. Capt. Flynn, acting as disciplinarian, said he will scold the motormen as he has scolded the motorists.

Club Employé Makes Study.

The Chicago Motor club assigned an employé, Homer Owen, to a detective job of watching for trafic ordinance violations by the trolleys. After twelve hours' observation, Mr. Owen reported twenty-nine instances of street cars slipping a bit from city trafic regulations.

In twenty-three minutes during the morning rush hour at the intersection of Clark and La Salle streets, opposite Lincoln park, four street cars were reported to have started across the street on the amber light that precedes the red. The city code calls for a stop for this amber where it is safe to do so. The numbers of the street cars were turned over to the police department, if any one is interested.

It's a Dangerous Interval.

Sixteen of the twenty-nine alleged violations involved this movement on the amber light. It is during this interval between the green and the red that most of the vehicular collisions happen at signal controled intersections.

Seven of the alleged violations consisted of stopping street cars on the pedestrian cross walks. One of these instances, during the noon hour at Foster avenue and Clark street, caused school children to walk around the street car in the rear as well as in the front.

In most of the remaining cases the street cars went through a stop sign without a complete stop, after the style of an automobile slipping into second gear at a reduced speed.

"In none of these cases was the violation flagrant," said Joseph H. Braun, general counsel for the motor club. "All of them are merely examples of slipshod conduct in trafic. Automobile drivers are just as guilty as street car motormen of this type of carelessness. Our only purpose in this survey was to establish this fact.

Disapproves Private Sleuthing.

"The club doesn't approve of private citizens doing police work whether they are at the control lever of a street car or the control wheel of an automobile. If the cops who now idle at street corners, ostensibly on patrol duty, will pay some attention to trafic enforcement there will be no semblance of an excuse for organizing vigilantes."

C. H. Evenson, superintendent of transportation for the Chicago Surface Lines, said the motormen would sign warants should the police desire court prosecution on the complaints made by the street car employés. He revealed also that last Saturday a motorman was suspended a day without pay on the report of a citizen that the street car man had run a red light.

G. O. P. LEADERS BALK AT PLEDGE TO AID WETTEN

Impatience with Nominee Shown at Meeting.

BY PARKE BROWN.

Signs of impatience among Republican ward committeemen toward their party's nominee for the mayoralty, Emil C. Wetten, reached the point yesterday where a number of them threatened not to support him actively in the April 2 election, now less than three weeks away.

Attention was called to the widespread dissatisfaction of the organization at a luncheon of committeemen where those present refused to sign a sort of pledge to put up an active battle for Wetten. All fifty of the ward leaders had been invited. Sixteen appeared. The signing up proposal was made informally, but it was given such a cold reception that the actual effort to obtain signatures was never made.

The affairs of the party in Chicago are in such a condition that the organization has demanded a form of showdown from the nominee by requesting him to name a date when he will meet with the city central committee and talk business, including the important topic of finance.

No Comment from Wetten.

Efforts to communicate with Mr. Wetten about these developments were unsuccessful. At the Seneca hotel apartment to which he has clung for several weeks with an explanation that his physician will not permit him to leave there because of a high temperature resulting from flu, it was said that he was sleeping and that he would telephone the caller when he awoke. There was no answering call.

The luncheon effort to awake the dormant G. O. P. was made by James B. Waller, committeeman for the 43d ward. He issued the invitations.

Some of the committeemen who attended the Waller luncheon said they felt they were not called upon to start work unless the nominee set the example. They pointed out that he had not named his campaign manager, that he had not opened a headquarters or announced a future opening, that he made no primary campaign, and that he had left undone all of those things a nominee is expected to do. They expressed sympathy for the nominees for city clerk and treasurer, Otto M. Webb and Charles W. Swanson.

Runoff Election Pleas Denied.

County Judge Jarecki yesterday dismissed the petitions of Ald. James C. Moreland and former Ald. John J. Hoellen seeking aldermanic runoff elections on April 2 in the Forty-first and Forty-seventh wards. The election board has proclaimed the election of William J. Cowhey in the Forty-first and of Ald. Albert F. Schulz in the Forty-seventh. Some further court action may be sought by Moreland and Hoellen.

Judge Jarecki ruled that the petitions were faulty legally and refused to sanction their amendment. Counsel for the petitioners, including Charles S. Deneen, former United States senator, contended unsuccessfully that a majority of the vote—required for election—must be based on the entire number of ballots cast, including the defective ballots not counted for any candidate. Judge Jarecki overruled this contention.

Told to Give Furniture to Ex-Wife; Sends Miniatures

On Feb. 14 Superior Judge Rudolph F Desort ordered Harold Benjamin, 5741 North Kimball avenue, a janitor, to turn over to his former wife, Betty, 5042 North Washtenaw avenue, the household furniture and toys of their children which he had held since her divorce, September, 1933. Yesterday Mrs. Benjamin appeared before Judge Joseph B. David, sitting in the absence of Judge Desort. Carrying a set of toy furniture and a toy train, she ruefully explained they were all her husband had returned. Judge David instructed her to come back when Judge Desort returns from Florida.

Michael Fengel Jr., 26 years old, went to the undertaking establishment at 716 North State street and identified his father's body.

BOARD CONSIDERS DEBT REFUNDING MEASURE TODAY

State Bill to Defer Payment Drafted.

A bill to be presented in the state legislature at Springfield which, if passed, would permit local governments to defer payment on a great portion of their maturing bonded indebtedness through a refunding plan will be considered by the Cook county board today. It was indicated yesterday that a majority of the board members are in favor of the measure and will urge its support in the legislature.

The bill was drawn by Henry Cutler, attorney and bond expert, with the approval of the citizens' committee on public expenditures, and a copy was sent yesterday to Clayton F. Smith, president of the county board. Mr. Smith referred it to Thomas J. Matousek, chief county examiner of titles, who prepared the resolution in its favor for submission to the board today.

Seek to Avoid Tax Raise.

ccording to the bill the refunding of bonded debts would avert sharp increases in tax rates during the next few years and would tend to maintain a uniform tax level for the next twenty years. At present the county is in default on $8,121,782 in bonds and interest because of the depression and the delay in tax collections within the last few years.

The county's total bonded debt of 48 million dollars matures, with interest added, before 1955. But the peak in payments due will be reached within the next five years, and by 1945 70 per cent, or $33,600,000 of the debt, will have matured. Further defaults and weakening of the county's credit appear imminent unless the refunding plan is adopted, Mr. Matousek said.

The proposed legislation would allow the county and other local governments to refund their debts without putting such a course to a vote of the people. In the county's case, Mr. Matousek stated, it would only be necessary to refund about 24 million dollars of the present outstanding bonds. The new refunded bonds would not be sold, but would be exchanged for bonds coming due within the next few years.

Choice of Retiring Bonds.

The new bonds would mature at various periods up to 1955 and the county would have the option of retiring them earlier at any interest date if funds were available. The added tax rate to pay interest on the new bonds would never be allowed to exceed 75 cents p r each $100 of assessed valuation of property.

"I believe people holding the present bonds would be willing to exchange them for the new bonds," Mr. Matousek declared, "because they would be assured there would be no default in the latter. Furthermore tax rates would not be sharply increased within the next few years, but could be leveled out over the twenty year period because with the old bonds retired the money to pay principal and interest on them would not have to be raised by high levies in the near future.

The county is the first of the major local governments to consider the refunding proposal. The total funded debt of the city, board of education, forest preserves, sanitary district, and park districts is $386,459,701. In addition bonds of these governments totaling $20,393,350 (with interest) are in default. The periods during which the bulk of the payments on these issues would have to be met, unless there is a refunding, coincides with those for the county.

SAMUEL INSULL HOPES DAYS OF TRIAL ARE OVER

State and U. S. Silent on Dropping Cases.

BY PHILIP KINSLEY.

Samuel Insull was in high hopes yesterday that he has seen the end of the criminal prosecutions to which he has been subjected for the last two years. His second acquittal Tuesday night, on an embezzlement charge brought against him by the state, was the immediate cause of this optimism, but in addition the acquittals of his brother, Martin, and of Marshall Sampsell of the Insull group lent substance to his hopes.

Since no definite announcement of the abandonment of future prosecutions has come from federal or state sources, Samuel Insull has decided to maintain his silence and to be prepared for any further move against his freedom.

"We have heard, of course, of the unofficial reports that the other cases were to be dropped," he said yesterday, "but until this is done I have decided to say nothing, except that I am delighted with the verdict."

Prosecutors Prove Reticent.

States Attorney Courtney informed Chief Justice Denis Sullivan of the Criminal court recently that the success or failure of the prosecution of Insull on the $66,000 embezzlement charge would determine his future course on other embezzlement charges. Mr. Courtney is expected to issue a statement in a few days.

United States Attorney Dwight H. Green had no statement to make yesterday as to the disposition of the pending federal criminal case against Insull and associates, in which the charge is the transfer of money of the Corporation Securities company after the officials knew it was in a bankrupt condition.

It was reported in Washington that Attorney General Cummings was preparing to order the abandonment of the prosecution.

Insull's Series of Trials.

Samuel Insull has gone through five trials in the last two years, three in Greece and two in this country.

His latest ordeal ended at midnight Tuesday when a jury in Judge Cornelius J. Harrington's courtroom returned a verdict of not guilty after two and a half hours of deliberation. This case had been on trial for a week and embraced in its issues the whole question of the intent of Insull in using the money of the utilities companies which he controled to save them from disaster in the spring of 1932. He did not save them, but the jury decided that his motive in paying the brokerage accounts of his brother was an honest one. They took five ballots, the first one being six to six and the last one unanimous for acquittal.

Believes Delay Wise Course.

Insull and his attorneys have commented on the wisdom of holding these trials off for two years. In the state of the public mind two years ago they are convinced that they would not have had a fair trial. Insull has observed a distinct change in public sentiment toward himself since his return to this country. While at one time he received a great many abusive letters, these have dropped to almost nothing. People are curious about him, but they are no longer hostile.

Martin Insull is in the same position as his brother. If the pending cases against him are dropped he will return to Canada to go into business. Samuel Insull also expects to go to work again.

KELLY'S SCHOOL STORE LIQUOR BILL PASSED BY ILLINOIS SENATE

Springfield, Ill., March 12.—[Special.]—The senate today passed two liquor bills. One, sponsored by Mayor Kelly of Chicago, would prohibit the issuance of a liquor license to any store where the majority of customers are minors of school age or where the principal business is the sale of school supplies. The other authorizes local liquor commissioners to administer oaths to witnesses.

Confirmation of the appointment by Gov. Horner of Mrs. George V. McIntyre, widow of the late Municipal court judge, as public guardian in Cook county, was voted. Mrs. McIntyre replaces Bridget Sullivan, who has held the office for several years.

Among the new bills introduced today were:

P. J. Carroll [Dem., Chicago]—Creates board of examiners for chiropractors.

W. L. Finn [Dem., Iuka]—Permits municipalities to issue 5 per cent certificates of indebtedness to finance improvements and extensions in electric light systems, payable out of operating revenues.

Francis J. Loughran [Dem., Chicago]—Requires court reporters to be registered with department of registration and education.

Parry C. Boeke [Dem., Freeport]—Provides that forfeited taxes real estate for 1933 and preceding years may be paid in 10 annual instalments.

PER CAPITA DEBT HERE $223 LESS THAN NEW YORK'S

The per capita debt in Chicago is $33, as compared with $256 for New York City, Robert B. Upham, city controler, revealed yesterday as he completed a survey of the city's debt situation.

The total New York funded debt is $2,308,116,020, against whch is credited $472,560,101 in sinking fund assets, leaving a net debt of $1,825,555,919. The per capita debt was reached by estimating New York's population at 7,154,300 men, women, and children.

The Chicago total funded debt is $125,240,000, sinking fund assets totaling $9,241,295, making a total net debt of $115,998,705. Estimating Chicago's population at 3,541,700, the $33 figure is reached.

Since Mayor Kelly came into office in 1933, the Chicago funded debt has been reduced by $11,016,900, Mr. Upham pointed out.

assert world-renowned doctors of this new discovery

"THE BIGGEST STEP FORWARD in years in the treatment of constipation and related ills such as indigestion, skin troubles and run-down condition," says Dr. Richard von Stenitzer, chief medical consultant at the famous Consular Academy in Vienna.

TODAY, in clinics everywhere, remarkable results are being obtained in cases of chronic constipation by a new fresh food recently developed—the new Fleischmann's Yeast—which contains certain "protective substances" the body needs. Lack of these substances is at the root of most constipation.

Unless your stomach and intestines obtain from your diet a sufficient supply of these "protective substances" to digest food fast enough and get rid of the wastes—constipation usually results, and you suffer from colds, skin troubles and poor digestion—feel "run-down."

No other food supplies enough

No diet—not even those containing leafy vegetables and fruits—contains enough of these substances. No laxatives supply them. But this new fresh yeast is so rich in them that it "conditions" the entire digestive tract.

Begin today to overcome constipation by eating 3 or more cakes of the new Fleischmann's Yeast daily, a half-hour before meals—plain, or dissolved in water. At grocers, restaurants, soda fountains. You'll eat, sleep and work better when rid of digestive sluggishness. Start eating Fleischmann's Yeast now!

TAKING CATHARTICS? Cut down on them gradually as Fleischmann's new Yeast corrects your constipation. No other food is as rich in Vitamins A, B, D, G and other protective substances needed for health. This new fresh yeast should help you to be free of constipation permanently.

PURE MILK GROUP AVERTS BREAK AT ANNUAL SESSION

But Pfister Is Defeated in Director Race.

A threatened insurrection in the ranks of the Pure Milk association, bargaining agency for 18,000 dairy farmer members, spent itself in stormy debate at the association's tenth annual meeting in the Auditorium hotel yesterday.

Just before adjournment the 365 delegates present adopted a resolution praising the work of the management, including Don N. Geyer, general manager, and A. M. Krahl, editor of the Pure Milk magazine, whose resignations had been demanded in an earlier resolution which failed to find a second.

The major casualty of the day was H. A. Pfister of Prairie View, Ill., president, who was defeated as a director of the seventh district by Wilbur Swayer of Gurnee. Since the president is chosen from among the directors, Pfister cannot now be renamed as head of the association. This was a victory for Maurice McDonald of Woodstock and Sam Warback of Plato Center, who fought Pfister's reëlection.

Janesville Member Elected.

L. A. Markham of Janesville, Wis., was elected director of the first district to succeed Harry Hook of Brooklyn, Wis. Directors reëlected were: Third district, Charles W. Schmaling of Delavan, Wis.; fifth district, Ole Stalheim of Harvard, Ill.; ninth district, Arthur Hartman of Hampshire, Ill.; 13th district, Howard Klett of Elwood, Ill.; 15th district, William Krieter of Crown Point, Ind., and 17th district, Albert P. Brucker of Monterey, Ind.

The verbal attack on Geyer's management during the business meeting was led by State Representative Frank McCarthy of Elgin, whose opposition to principles of the association dates back to its foundation.

McCarthy charged that Geyer's administration had been marked by "terroristic methods." He accused Geyer of being under the influence of the milk dealers and with having failed to support efforts by association members to obtain state legislation on milk that would protect farmers.

Both Heckled Frequently.

At one point Geyer leaped to his feet and with shaking finger shouted that he supported such a bill for Illinois two years ago, but that the bill was vetoed by the governor. He termed McCarthy's statements "false and misleading." Both men were frequently booed and heckled.

McCarthy indorsed a proposal to regulate the farmer's price for milk on a "cost of production" basis. Geyer opposed this, defending the present "base and surplus" plan.

The effort to bring the question of the resignations of Geyer and Krahl to a vote was made by H. D. Kelsey, a member of the Lake county board of supervisors. He proposed the resolution, but no second was offered.

Expect to Name Leader Today.

It was indicated that the new president will be chosen at a meeting today in the association's headquarters at 608 South Dearborn street.

Among those mentioned as Pfister's successor are Leo Mullooly of Clinton, Wis., director of the 2d district, and Glenn L. Morgan of Westville, Ind., director of the 16th district. It was considered likely that the new president will be chosen from Wisconsin or Indiana, in accordance with a widespread desire that the presidency be shared in turn by each of the three states from which the association draws its membership.

Manager Geyer reported that the association during the last year marketed a total of more than a billion and a half pounds of milk for $25,372,744. The average gross price paid members of the organization for all milk was 1.68 cents a hundred pounds. The association's checkoff was 3 cents a hundred pounds and the adjustment fund assessment amounted to an average of .0355 cents a hundred pounds.

New England Leader Talks.

W. P. Davis of Boston, manager of the New England Milk Producers' association, told the farmers at the meeting that his organization members were now paid $2.78 a hundred pounds for class 1 milk, as against $1.25 in May ,1933. He credited this advance mainly to the consolidation of practically all of the producers' marketing agencies in the New England milk territory. Part of this increase was due to the AAA licensing agreement covering the Boston market, he said.

In connection with the election of directors, it was explained that only those representing the odd numbered districts were up for election this year. Directors for the even numbered districts will be subject to a vote next year. There is no eleventh district.

Tribune's Aid in Hunt for Pair Is Told.

CRIMINAL COURT.

Jack Urban, burglary, sentenced to 1 year to life in the penitentiary by Judge Denis E. Sullivan.

Luther Nolly, larceny, sentenced to 1 year in the Bridewell by Judge Donald S. McKinlay.

McKinley Harris, robbery, sentenced to 1 year to life in the penitentiary by Judge Harry B. Miller.

A crippled ex-convict and his wife, who are in custody at the detective bureau, were identified yesterday as the house servants who on Dec. 1, 1933, robbed the home of Miss Edith Hoyt, 920 New Church road, Lake Forest.

The identifications were made by Miss Hoyt from photographs of the couple, who were arrested here Monday night after a search that led throughout the country. The police of several cities had sought the pair for a number of similar burglaries.

The man held is Orin J. Brown, who under the name of Van Eck once served a sentence in Joliet prison for automobile theft. His wife, Esther, is a diminutive red haired woman who, to further their burglary plots, posed as a cook in wealthy homes while her husband worked as a butler.

Hired Through Want Ad.

Miss Hoyt hired the couple after Brown inserted a want ad in THE TRIBUNE and showed her forged references. One reference was given by a Milwaukee doctor, who was later discovered to have had a criminal record. Identification of the couple came about largely through the work of James Gavin, TRIBUNE reporter, who was assigned to the case when it was learned that a TRIBUNE ad had been used.

The activities of the Browns were traced for weeks and minute descriptions of the pair were furnished to police departments all over the country.

Immediately after the arrest of the Browns on information furnished by the Los Angeles police, Gavin identified them as the Hoyt burglars. Mrs. Brown admitted the burglary to the reporter, but later denied it to the police. Miss Hoyt was reached in Boston and verified the identifications from descriptions. Later she made the identifications positive after receiving photographs of the couple.

Miss Hoyt Wires Tribune.

Miss Hoyt's telegram to THE TRIBUNE said: "Identify the Browns beyond any doubt by photographs just received."

It was not indicated whether she would return at once to Chicago to testify against the Browns. Last night it was considered possible that the couple would first be returned to Los Angeles for trial. They are charged there with looting the home of an attorney where they were employed as domestics.

The arrest of the Browns here was made in an apartment at 309 Wisconsin street. In the flat detectives found a trunk containing jewelry, silverware and personal belongings identified as having been taken in the Los Angeles burglary and another one at Tulsa, Okla.

Yesterday Mrs. Brown guided Sergt. Ray Dooley on a round of insurance adjusters on a round of pawnshops, smelting concerns, and second hand clothing stores. Stolen silverware valued at $2,000 and stolen clothing worth several hundred dollars were recovered.

FARMERS TO RECEIVE 4.02 CENTS A QUART FOR FEBRUARY MILK

Dairy farmers are to receive an average price of $1.87 a hundred pounds (4.02 cents a quart) for a total of 108,079,347 pounds of milk delivered to Chicago distributors during February.

These figures were announced last night by Frank C. Baker, federal milk market administrator for the Chicago area, in his last report on sales of milk to be made in this territory under the license agreement of the Agricultural Adjustment administration. The agreement was recently discontinued by Secretary of Agriculture Wallace.

CRITICIZE THREAT OF RAIL STRIKE AS 'PREMATURE'

Threat of a strike of trainmen of the Indiana Belt Line railroad, in protest over the order of the national mediation board for an election to settle a jurisdictional dispute, was characterized by the board yesterday as "inappropriate and premature."

The criticism was contained in a telegram from the board to A. F. Whitney of Cleveland, president of the Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen, who was in Chicago Monday conferring on the proposed walkout. The telegram said plans for the election are going forward. The national board will not hear arguments against the election until after it has received the report of G. Wallace Hanger, staf mediator who is preparing for the poll in Chicago, the telegram said.

The point at issue is whether the trainmen's or the conductors' brotherhood is entitled to represent the yard conductors of the Belt Line railroad, at present under the jurisdiction of the trainmen.

HELD TO JURY IN HOLDUPS.

Mitchell Fadzski, 22 years old, 1732 West 14th street, identified as the man who robbed attendants in eight garages last Thursday night, was held to the grand jury in bonds totaling $165,000 by Judge Joseph A. Graber in the Automobile court yesterday.

JURY COMPLETED TO TRY WOMAN IN $25,000 FRAUD

A jury was selected yesterday in Judge Cornelius J. Harrington's court to try Miss Bertha C. Burnham, 41 years old, on a charge of embezzling $25,000 from the Evanston real estate concern of Quinlan & Tyson, by whom she was employed for eleven years.

After opening statements the jurors were dismissed, while Defense Attorney Charles H. Soelke challenged the right of the state to place in evidence the confession of Miss Burnham. The state held that the defendant had confessed peculations totaling $72,000 and had kept careful account of the money stolen. Only $25,000 of this sum was mentioned in the indictment, the state held, because of the statute of limitations.

Under questioning by the defense attorney in the jury's absence Howell Tyson Jr., treasurer of the company, told of Miss Burnham's confession when a shortage was found in her accounts. Miss Burnham, the auditor of the firm, and Tyson met at the latter's home at 2733 Lincoln street, Evanston, on Dec. 30, to go over the confession, according to the testimony.

"Didn't you act as host and furnish drinks all around?" Soelke asked.

"I did serve one round of drinks," Tyson said.

"Wasn't that an unusual proceeding?" the defense attorney asked Tyson.

"It was done to save Miss Burnham embarrassment," the witness answered. "We did not want the matter known at the office at that time."

It also was brought out that Miss Burnham worked for some time after her alleged embezzlement had been discovered. She also made a trip to Michigan with the consent of the company during the interim between her confession and arrest, according to the defense attorney.

KARPIS-BARKER GANG LINKED TO POLICE SLAYING

Bullets Tie Suspects to Shooting Here.

The gang headed by Arthur [Doc] Barker, now in custody, and the fugitive Alvin Karpis, so-called Public Enemy No. 1, were linked yesterday with the fatal shooting of Policeman Miles Cunningham after a daring robbery of four federal reserve bank messengers at Jackson boulevard and La Salle street on Sept. 22, 1933.

Harold E. Stassen of South St. Paul, Minn., county attorney of Dakota county, announced that he had received information from Washington that the Karpis-Barker gang was connected with the slaying of Policeman Cunningham and with the $30,000 Swift & Co. pay roll robbery in South St. Paul on Aug. 30, 1933.

Shown by Ballistics.

The connecting links between the crimes were brought out by ballistic tests of machine gun bullets, Attorney Stassen said. Barker, now awaiting trial for the $200,000 kidnaping of Edward G. Bremer, St. Paul banker, was arrested in an apartment at 432 Surf street on Jan. 8.

Department of justice agents seized a machine gun in the Barker apartment and discovered through laboratory tests that it was stolen from the car of a South St. Paul policeman at the time of the Swift pay roll robbery there.

"Through ballistic tests," Attorney Stassen said, "we also have established that the bullets which felled Officer Cunningham in Chicago came from one of the machine guns used in the South St. Paul robbery.

"A machine gun bullet taken from a telephone post near the scene of the South St. Paul robbery matched perfectly with the bullets used by the bandits in the Chicago robbery when they shot the policeman in their getaway."

Karpis and Harry Campbell, who shot their way out of a trap in Atlantic City, N. J., a few months ago, were known to have associated with Barker at the time of the South St. Paul and Chicago holdups, according to police.

Attorney Stassen said that serial numbers on the machine gun had been obliterated, but tests at Washington established definitly that it belonged to the South St. Paul police force.

Surround Bank Guards.

The Chicago robbery occurred when four employés of the federal reserve bank were taking two sacks of first class mail to the bank from the postoffice. The robber gang, riding in two cars, leaped to the street, surrounded the bank employés, and threatened them with shotguns. One of the cars was abandoned at the scene.

At Adams and Halsted streets the bandit car collided with another automobile and overturned. Policeman Cunningham was shot to death as he approached to investigate the accident. The bandits then commandeered the automobile of a passing motorist and escaped.

Agents Move to Deport John Strachey.

the deportation of any person who believes in or advocates the overthrow of the government of the United States by force or violence. It has, however, been firmly established by many decisions of the courts, that membership in the communist party or advocacy by an alien of the principles of communism constitutes belief in or advocacy of the overthrow of the government of the United States by force and violence."

Writings Reveal He Is Red.

Further, MacCormack said, there had been numerous complaints since the entrance of the lecturer concerning his communism. His writings were examined and, according to the commissioner, they showed Mr. Strachey was not merely a philosophical communist but an active advocate of communism.

"In one of these publications," the statement averred, "he uses the term 'we communists' and in another refers to himself as a 'communist drummer, peddling Marxism instead of pink pills.'"

Because the author's published statements are so obviously opposed to the answers he gave the inspectors at the port, the commissioner asserted, the issuance of the warant was mandatory on him.

"Outrage," Says Publisher.

The arrest caused something of a furore among friends of the lecturer in New York. His wife, who came to America with him, appealed to the American Civil Liberties union for advice and was informed by Dr. Harry Ward, chairman, that the organization would furnish legal help and "make the government prove its charges."

Donald Friede, publisher in the United States of the Strachey works on economic and political subjects, also came forward with a comment.

"This action is an outrage," he said. "It is a late date to discover that his political tendencies make him worthy of deportation."

Son of London Editor.

Mr. Strachey, who is only 33 years old, is the son of the late John St. Loe Strachey, who was editor for many years of the London Spectator. The son was educated at Eton and Oxford. He was for a time a leader in the British Labor party.

He resigned from this group several years ago and became aligned temporarily with Sir Oswald Mosley. The latter is the leader of the Fascist element in British politics. Mr. Strachey did not long hold allegiance to the Mosley group.

He denies that he is a member of the communist party, admitting only that he is a sympathizer with the philosophy of that group. His books, "The Coming Struggle for Power," "The Menace of Fascism," and a new one soon to be published, deal with the Marxist philosophy as a way out of the world's dilemmas.

Woman Cashier Stares at Bandits; Calls Police

Four boys about 15 years old stepped up to the ticket office of the elevated station at California avenue and Van Buren street last night, and one of them pointed a pistol at Miss Catherine McDonald, 4928 Jackson boulevard. Instead of handing over the receipts, Miss McDonald stared coolly at the youths and telephoned for the police. "You can't fool me, boys," she remarked. "I've been held up before. That's only a cap pistol you have." The boys fled.

WOMAN FOUND DEAD IN HOME.

Mrs. Ida Birnbaum, 67 years old, was found dead in her home at 722 West Marquette road yesterday after neighbors had not seen her for several days. Death was attributed to a heart attack.

COURTHOUSE GUARDED AFTER SHERIF DRIVES RELIEF SEEKERS OUT

McAlester, Okla., March 12.—(AP)—Deputies guarded the Pittsburg county courthouse tonight, determined to prevent re-entry of hundreds of unemployed who had camped four days in its corridors.

Sherif H. H. Sherill evicted the demonstrators early today, threatening to fill the building with tear gas if they remained. The men, women, and children left sullenly, some of the colored members being hastened by nightsticks. All were escorted to the McAlester city limits. The group had demanded relief, clothing, and promises of steady rations from the state or federal government.

Most of the demonstrators wandered to Krebs, coal mining town three miles east of here. Bryan Burton, Krebs mayor, had invited them to cook their food at the Krebs city hall.

GERMAN DECREE MAKES OUTCASTS OF 139 PERSONS

[Copyright: 1935: By the New York Times.]

BERLIN, March 12.—The official gazette today published a new list of 139 persons, mostly Jews, who have been deprived of German citizenship by order of Magnus von Levetzow, Berlin police president.

The order, which bars any appeal, asserts the persons named acquired Prussian citizenship between Nov. 9, 1918, and Jan. 30, 1933. A perusal of the list reveals, however, that a large proportion of them were born in Berlin and other Prussian cities, thus being Germans by birth. The order makes no attempt to explain this contradiction.

As a rule persons thus deprived of citizenship become "stateless," and, though deportation is difficult because no country will accept them, they become subject to the laws governing aliens in Germany, which require even a permit to work. In most cases, therefore, deprivation of citizenhip is tantamount to a sentence of starvation.

TAX PAYMENTS ON INCOME PASS 8½ MILLION MARK

Income tax collections in the Chicago area up to 5 p. m. yesterday totaled $8,539,982, as compared to $7,659,988 up to the same hour last year, it was announced by Carter H. Harrison, collector of internal revenue. The total number of returns to date totaled 36,900, as compared to 36,800 for the corresponding period a year ago.

The largest individual tax payment made so far was a $192,000 first quarterly payment on a tax of $768,000. The smallest tax paid was one of 3 cents on income for the entire year. One taxpayer deducted 15 cents for charity and submitted three tags, purchased on various tag days, as proof. The deadline for filing returns for 1934 income is midnight next Friday.

Forced to Share Bed with Dog; He Asks Divorce

Los Angeles, Cal., March 12.—(AP)—Claiming he was forced to share his bed with a dog and to endure the dog and a cat as table companions, Omar M. Patten filed suit today for divorce from the mother of a film actress. Convinced throwing a wife to the floor and handling her roughly also constitutes ground for divorce, Mrs. Florence L. Patten filed a complaint. Mrs. Patten is the mother of Jean Patten, known in the films as Jean Lakin. She will be a witness for her mother.

Bride of Week Slashes Wrists in Suicide Effort

Mrs. Anna Hoffman, 31 years old, a bride of a week, was taken to St. Francis hospital in Evanston last night in a serious condition after she had slashed her wrists, swallowed a sedative powder, and turned on the gas in her one room apartment at 829 Foster street, Evanston. The attempted suicide happened Monday night, but police were not notified until Mrs. Hoffman was brought to the hospital last night. She was found by her husband.

Admits Identity at Trial of Young Radical.

Miss Virginia Ballance Bash, 22 years old, a student at the University of Chicago and a pink, who has been arrested several times in radical demonstrations, was revealed yesterday for the first time as the daughter of Maj. Gen. Louis H. Bash, quartermaster general of the United States army.

Miss Bash admitted her identification when she appeared in the Municipal court of Judge Eugene Holland to testify in the defense of Jack Kling, 22 years old, secretary of the Young Communist league. He is being tried before a jury on a charge of unlawful assembly brought after he was arrested last May 4 at 50th and State streets while speaking in a demonstration sponsored by the League of Struggle for Negro Rights.

18 Police Guard Court.

Eighteen police guarded the courtroom on instruction from Judge Holland, and searched every one entering for weapons. Judge Holland said he had been informed that communistic literature had been distributed urging "sympathizers" to "pack the courtroom and free Jack Kling."

Among the pamphlets found was a publication the "Upsurge," designated as the "official publication, National Student League, University of Chicago Branch." V. Bash was listed as the editor.

Miss Bash gave her address as 5535 Blackstone avenue, and said she was studying zoology at the university. She has been a member of the student league for two years, she said. She was asked by Assistant State's Attorney John C. Connery if she was interested in communism.

Her Interest in Communism.

"I am interested in communism as a much discussed topic at the university," Miss Bash replied. "I am interested in arguments both for and against it." A defense objection prevented her from answering if her father knew of her interest in communism. In his Washington home last night, Gen. Bash said he knew nothing of his daughter's radical activities.

In her testimony Miss Bash asserted she had seen notices advertising the meeting, and that in company with Miss Joan Walter, of Lockport, had attended the demonstration. Twenty minutes after her arrival, Miss Bash said, the police drove up and arrested Kling. Herbert Newton, Negro husband of the former Jane Emery, who was arrested at the same time, was fined $100 on an identical charge by Judge Edgar A. Jones.

Detective Harry Scholtz and other policemen testified they first warned Kling to disperse the crowd since there was no permit for the assembly, then drove around the block, and on their return arrested him. Kling, they charged, exhorted the crowd to "stand and fight."

Kling denied the charges. He said he had been a member of the Y. C. L. for seven years, and was paid $20 a week for his work as secretary. His case will be given to the jury this morning.

Miss Bash and other university students were arrested July 8 for passing out literature which police feared might incite trouble between the Negroes and white people at the Jackson park beach. Again at a popular gathering place for Red demonstrations at 55th street and Ingleside avenue, she and eleven others were arrested Aug. 18. She was released on both occasions.

SELECTION OF ALASKA MIGRATION FAMILIES DELAYED FOR PARLEY

St. Paul, Minn., March 12.—[Special.]—Selection of 200 families and 400 unmarried laborers from the northwest for migration to Alaska from submarginal and drouth lands was delayed here today by state directors of the project.

Dr. R. W. Murchie, president of the Minnesota Rural Rehabilitation corporation, announced corporation directors from Minnesota, Wisconsin, and Michigan have been called to Washington for a conference Wednesday to complete details of the plan.

The migration is to take the group to an 8,000 acre tract in the Metanuska valley of Alaska, where a new community would be established with dairying as its principal industry. Each family would be given a 40 acre tract and the laborers would be employed in construction of roads and other forms of communication. The group would be transported and housed at government expense until the project is self-supporting.

Selection of the families would be made through the Federal Emergency Relief administration, although the decision to go would be left with the eligible individuals.

SEE CUBA FACING TEST OF ABILITY TO RULE ITSELF

Island Turmoil Disturbs U. S. Officials.

Washington, D. C., March 12.—[Special.]—Present difficulties in Cuba are decidedly disturbing to officials here, despite their determination that the United States shall not intervene directly in the affairs of the island republic over which, until recently, this country held the threat of armed intervention if peace and order were not maintained.

Particularly disconcerting is the fact that a dog fight between the politically ambitious has developed, thinly masked behind the veils of political parties and creeds.

Unofficial remarks on the situation by officials here are all optimistic, but it has become obvious that Cuba is now facing the expected test of whether it is capable, in fact, of governing itself. It had been hoped that with the economic aid offered by a favorable trade treaty political factions in Cuba would pull together to demonstrate the ability of Cubans to govern themselves.

Situation Seen as Unpleasant.

With the operation of British owned railroads being hampered by strikes and the interests of the nationals of the United States and other countries endangered, the situation has, in the opinion of most observers, unpleasant possibilities.

Col. Fulgencio Batista, the power behind President Mendieta's government, has a somewhat radical background. Brought to power in the fall of 1933, by the revolt of the noncommissioned officers of the Cuban army, his political past is regarded by some as not particularly reassuring.

As the dominant figure in the Cuban army, however, he was able to bring a modicum of order out of a situation so disturbed that three new presidents had succeeded each other within the space of a month.

Desirous of enforcing peace, he has realized the necessity of coöperating, to an extent at least, with the government in Washington.

Gets No Coöperation.

His hope and that of his colleagues to establish constitutional government and to hold elections has failed thus far, however, because of the failure of almost all other important political elements to coöperate. Elections originally set for December were put off until March and now have been shoved forward again.

In the meantime the radical "autenticos" who elevated former President Grau San Martin to power, and other left wing elements, including communists and syndicalists, have plotted against the government, keeping political passions alive by creating a constant state of turmoil.

The detonation of bombs about the island has been frequent. In October, which was supposed to be relatively calm, a state closely approaching terrorism existed on the island, and American and other business men had constant threats made against their lives.

Foreign Policy Report.

On Jan. 27 a report by the Foreign Policy association which, in the opinion of many observers, took little cognizance of the difficulties facing the government, held that "the government of Carlos Mendieta has done little to remedy the abuses that caused the revolution of Aug., 1933, when President Gerardo Machado was overthrown."

This report, circulated throughout the island, is credited by some with having brought the present labor and left wing revolt to a head. Leaders prepared for such a movement as early as last July, and they have kept up a campaign of sabotage and disorder which has hampered the government in all its moves.

There are at present no fewer than seventeen left wing parties and groups in Cuba shading from mild radicalism to communism. While these organizations are probably not extremely dangerous, they form a trouble nucleus and constantly attempt to stir up strife.

HAUPTMANN TRIAL AND CAPTURE COST A MILLION DOLLARS

Trenton, N. J., March 12.—[Special.]—It cost a million dollars to track down and convict Bruno Richard Hauptmann for the Lindbergh kidnaping and murder.

This estimate was made today by Assistant Attorney General Joseph A. Lanigan when he appeared before the joint legislative appropriations committee and won a supplemental appropriation of $80,000 to pay bills remaining from the trial.

The total cost of the trial itself, Mr. Lanigan said, will reach $130,000. The rest of the staggering cost of the country's most celebrated criminal case was shared by police of New Jersey, New York City, and other parts of the country and the federal government during the two and a half year search for Hauptmann.

Senator Charles E. Loizeaux of Union county estimated New Jersey's share of the entire cost as more than $300,000.

TRUCK LOAD OF AUTOS BOMBED; 2 MEN INJURED

Two men were injured, one seriously, early today when two bombs were exploded on a truck loaded with four new Ford automobiles en route from the company plant in Hegewisch to East Moline, Ill. They are Lester Mudie, 25 years old, 7020 South Chicago avenue, the truck driver, and Stephen Page, 23 years old, owner of a barbecue stand at 9458 South Western avenue.

The bombing took place in front of the stand. Mudie, parking his truck nearby in 95th street, went into the lunchroom and was eating when the first blast went off. It shattered the window of the stand. Mudie ran out and the second blast, from a bomb placed under the hood of the vehicle, hurled bits of metal into his legs.

Page, who also ran out, was slightly cut. Both men were taken to the Little Company of Mary hospital. The driver said he knew of no personal reason for the bombing, but added that one of the trucks of the company for which he works, the Dealers' Transport of 7001 South Chicago avenue, was bombed in Detroit recently. The concern employs nonunion chauffeurs exclusively.

SLAYER SUSPECT LYNCHED FROM AUTO 'GALLOWS'

Slayden, Miss., March 12.—(AP)—Ab Young, colored, was hanged to a tree in a schoolyard three miles east of here this afternoon by a mob of approximately 50 white men.

Young, seized in connection with the fatal shooting Saturday night of Hardy Mackie, 45, state highway worker, went to his death singing a hymn.

He was placed atop a small automobile, a rope around his neck. The other end of the rope was suspended to a tree. One of his captors drove off in the car.

FRANCE TO RUSH ITS NAVY UP TO TREATY LIMITS

Will Spend 66 Million for Four New Ships.

BY EDMOND TAYLOR.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, March 12. — In the same "they drove me to it" spirit which marks every forward step in European rearmament these days, France today officially announced that its navy would be boosted to the limit of the Washington treaty as soon as possible.

The announcement came in the form of a bill filed by the government in the chamber of deputies for construction of two 35,000 ton battle ships. The first one, for which appropriations were asked in the present bill, will be started at once. The keel for the second will be laid later this year. Appropriations also were asked for two destroyers, making a total expenditure of about $66,000,000.

Calls Ships Replacements.

The preamble of the bill termed the two new dreadnaughts replacements for two obsolete ships of the line—the Courbet and the Paris.

It added that France would have liked, in the interests of economy and naval disarmament, to replace the obsolete dreadnaughts with heavy cruisers under the maximum Washington treaty tonnage, but that since other countries — meaning Italy — already had built or announced their intention to build 35,000 ton vessels, France had no choice but to do likewise.

The naval bill was expected, but the chamber was in commotion today over the government's plan to increase France's land armaments by doubling the term of compulsory service for its conscript army. The cabinet was in some, though not great, danger over the issue following a row at this morning's council of ministers.

Cabinet Members Split.

The cabinet agreed on the necessity for two year service, but there was violent disagreement as to how to go about it.

The right wingers in the cabinet wanted to ask the chamber to vote a law officially setting the term of service at two years. The left wingers wanted the government to take advantage of the emergency clause in existing legislation, which authorizes the government to prolong service by decree for six months or a year under exceptional circumstances.

The four lean years—1936 to 1940—legally can be considered as such an emergency, so the left wingers merely wanted the government to warn the country of its intention. The class for this April would be under arms for eighteen months, the class for next October for two years, and so on until 1940.

This appears to be a pseudo-quarrel, but the general staff and conservative political circles consider that an important question of principle is involved. If the government merely exercises the powers allowed by the existing legislation, they argue, the left parties might come into power in a year or two and revert to one year's service overnight, whereas if a new law is voted, future cabinets will be bound by it.

The political battle is waxing bitter. The Socialists have launched a nation-wide campaign against increasing the service, demanding that Premier Pierre-Etienne Flandin dissolve the chamber and call new elections as an indirect plebiscite on the issue.

Premier Flandin will probably get out of the quandary by asking the chamber of deputies on Friday for a blanket vote of confidence, giving the government a free hand in deciding the problem.

OPENS CAN OF RELIEF ROAST BEEF; FINDS 2 WORKMAN'S GLOVES

SAN JUAN, Porto Rico, March 12.—(AP)—Laureano Ruiz, whose economic situation is not of the best, received from the relief rations station here a can of roast beef supplied by the government and marked "not to be sold."

Ruiz prepared the roast beef, together with other relief groceries, for supper. After heating the can he found some difficulty in opening it. His family gathered around to watch.

GERMAN CHURCH TAX IS REDUCED BY 20 PER CENT

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, March 12.—A 20 per cent reduction in the church tax was decreed by the Nazi government today. This, observers believe, will further weaken the position of the church and strengthen that of the Nazi state by increasing its popularity with the taxpayers.

Heretofore Germans paid a church tax amounting to 10 per cent of the income tax. The funds were divided between the Catholic and Protestant church groups.

The Protestant church, which is split by a conflict between the Nazi primate, Ludwig Mueller, and the anti-Nazi opposition, is in financial difficulties, which it is assumed the present measure will further increase.

STALIN DEMANDS MORE FREEDOM FOR THE FARMER

Says Tastes of Individual Must Be Respected.

MOSCOW, March 12.—(AP)—Joseph Stalin, general secretary of the central committee of the communist party, today made one of the most important statements of soviety policy in recent years when he declared that individual tastes and needs must be respected on soviet farms.

"As long as family and children exist, these interests must not be neglected," Stalin said.

Rejecting the proposal of a group of delegates to the recent collective farm congress to reduce individual holdings of farmers, Stalin said:

Says "Squeezing" Won't Do.

"It is better to admit openly and honestly that there should be private housekeeping on collective farms—small but private."

He explained that this should be in addition to the collective households for the satisfaction of common needs. Stalin told the proponents of reduction that they represented a minority view.

"You are facing a mass collective movement embracing millions of householders," he said. "If you want to succeed under present conditions, you must think not only of the collective but also the individual interests of farmers."

The policy of "squeezing" the farmers will not do, Stalin declared. "It is wrong," he added.

The proponents wanted to reduce the garden patches allowed each collective farmer for his individual needs to one-tenth of a hectare. The allowance finally was fixed at one-half hectare and in some cases one hectare. [A hectare is about two and one-half acres.]

Farmers to Study Plan.

Stalin's reply to the proposal was quoted by Jacob Yakoffleff, manager of the agricultural section of the central, committee of the communist party, at a meeting of the Moscow and Leningrad members of the party.

The new constitution for the collective farm structure, in which the size of the garden patches was fixed, was adopted by the farm congress but the farm colonies are given three months in which to discuss and elaborate it. It is estimated that 240,000 farms will participate in the discussion.

As part of the campaign to remove children from street influences, it was decided that parents who neglect the home education of their children will be subjected to public trial in the Moscow soviet.

ANOTHER FIGHT FOR THE REPUBLIC.

John Steele, head of THE TRIBUNE news service in Great Britain, discussing the other day the sentiment manifested by all classes toward the king, underlines the fact that republican means a form of government. The reminder is timely when the legislative branch of our republican form of government has almost abolished itself and is working with the executive to overawe the judicial branch and create an actual dictatorship pretending to be a democracy. This proceeding, which certainly represented no mandate from the people, will soon leave nothing of our republican form of government but a hollow shell.

Which suggests some parallels in our political history. The first of these appeared not long after the founding of the republic, when the Federalists, who had been so influential in the formation of that form of government, took advantage of the power they had acquired under its forms to defeat its purposes and abuse its strength. The first Republican party was formed to preserve the endangered republic. But in due time the party which under the inspiration of Jefferson had preserved the republic went astray, becoming the defender of slavery and a foe of the Union born with the republic. Upon this betrayal the second Republican party appeared, organized by leaders more loyal to the republicanism of Jefferson and his allies than the party claiming the inheritance of his principles. The republic had found defenders again in Lincoln, Medill, Seward, Greeley, Hamlin, Trumbull, Sumner, and other leaders of thought and action. Generations have come and gone under its benignant sway and now another party has gone astray and is using the power acquired under its processes to destroy it. The cult of dictatorship, smugly clothed in promises of a more abundant life and tall talk of a planned economy, has its self-seeking imitators and competitors in many of the states. There is little difference in the utterances of Mr. Roosevelt and Huey Long save that between a Harvard accent and nigger talk, while in Minnesota, Rhode Island, Massachusetts, Indiana various brands of dictators are exploiting credulity to their own profit.

There is as much need for a Republican party as there was in 1800 and 1860, perhaps more.

A STROLL IN THE PARK.

All that Mr. Arthur Evans has said about the attractions of the Chicago park system is true but there is one fault which needs correction. To get into most of our parks the citizen in search of recreation has to cross a street made perilous by automobiles. Once in the park he is lucky if he can chart a course which will allow him to stroll for as long as fifteen minutes without coming to another dangerous crossing.

The parks were laid out in horse and buggy days. Since then the roadways have been widened in many places and the crossings, which were not dangerous forty years ago, have become hazardous. Perhaps the failure to do much for the pedestrian's safety is to be regarded as an addition to the recreational advantages of the park system. The pedestrian is to overcome hazards comparable to those created for the golfer. If that is the idea it is a bum one.

A NEW TANGLE IN THE MAKING.

The coördinator of transportation has been rightly commended for the businesslike methods adopted in attacking his problem. First he undertook to learn what it was all about by mailing questionnaires far and wide. In this manner he developed a wealth of statistical data dealing with transportation that has never before been available.

But in supporting his bill for the regulation of highway transportation, which is now having the attention of the interstate commerce committee of the house, he is convincingly demonstrating the fact that a man can become so steeped in these details that he loses sight of the larger aspects—"cannot see the city for the buildings." His mass of statistics clearly shows that if the highway and railway transportation industries were regulated, stratified, and their rates related by law, all could live comfortably side by side in an orderly and coördinated fashion.

He has, however, entirely overlooked the fundamentals of his problem: [1] That the price of transportation may not be predicated on the needs of the transport agencies, but will always be dictated by the needs of commerce. [2] That the shippers of the land will turn from truck transportation as they did from rail transportation the moment that regulation attempts to congeal its flexibility.

Just what methods will be adopted by commerce to avoid the advanced costs that are clearly admitted by the coördinator—and are perhaps the real objective of the measure—are problematical; but we might suggest both decentralization and private transport. Let congress place its stamp of approval on this measure and the country will in the near future have a highway transport quandary on its hands just as surely as similar ill advised legislation gave us our railroad dilemma.

LOCAL AND STATE CENSORSHIP.

A bill has been introduced in the assembly to abolish local boards of censorship over motion picture and stage shows and create a state board. That will give five more jobs for state organization politics to play with, but before this measure is enacted the Illinois communities should let their representatives at Springfield know whether they prefer to have their protection from censors of their own choosing or from a committee appointed by the governor. If the change is proposed in good faith the reason for substituting state for community control should be fully aired.

On the face of the matter at least it would seem that a community ought to retain the authority to say what sort of entertainment it is to have rather than to have the judgment of a state board imposed upon it. The standards or likes and dislikes of one community may not be those of another or those of a state board. But they affect only the community. We do not see any reason why a state board appointee from Rockford or Chicago, for example, should decide or help to decide what the people of Cairo or Danville or Aurora are to have for their own entertainment. Nor is there any reason to expect that a state board will have better standards than the local boards or administer censorship any more honestly and efficiently.

If there are practical difficulties which make local control ineffective they should be weighed against the right and advantage of local self-government, which is having a hard time to survive these days. If censorship is needed and desired by areas not now reached by local boards, and a state board is to be set up to provide for them, its jurisdiction should be confined to them and local control should not be abolished in any community that prefers it.

RABIES.

Health officials have called attention to the recrudescence of rabies in this community. In the winter months a year ago only two of the dogs whose brains were examined in the city laboratories were found to be infected. This year the number has increased to twenty-eight. Ninety-six persons who were bitten by rabid dogs in recent months have been ordered to take the Pasteur treatment, and one child, whose case was not reported until a month after he was bitten, has died of the disease.

Fortunately the health and police officials are alive to the situation. Fortunately, too, the methods for preventing the spread of hydrophobia are fully understood.

In all probability the disease has reappeared because the ordinance requiring all dogs to be muzzled when outdoors has not been rigorously enforced for a number of years. Dog owners should be instructed that no further laxity in this matter will be permitted, and they should be encouraged at the same time to have their animals immunized for the protection of the dogs themselves as well as humans. Every effort should be made to remove stray dogs from the streets and alleys.

Warm weather is only a few weeks ahead. More children and more dogs will be playing on the streets, adding greatly to the menace unless the problem is faced frankly and attacked vigorously. This year is the fiftieth anniversary of Pasteur's dramatic demonstration of his preventive of hydrophobia. It would be a sorry commentary upon the intelligence of this community if, fifty years after the disease was conquered, it should cause any more deaths.

HE READ A BOOK.

Whatever we think of progressive polygamy in Hollywood, our hearts bleed for the grand duchess of cinema bed scenes who has just divorced her third husband.

That callous brute, she charged, made a practice of sitting up in their connubial chamber until all hours of the morning reading books. It seems plain that the sin charged was one of commission and not omission, since she also related that (plainly as a result of his outrageous eccentricity) he was sarcastic, embarrassed her at social functions and refused to mingle with her guests.

Imagine, if you can, the torment of this brave little girl as she swept into some gay ballroom. With a gracious smile to rival sirens, she sought to hide the bitter knowledge that they were already pointing out her escort as the man who read a book. Judged by the mental standards of the community, the fellow was nuttier than a flagpole sitter.

[Richmond, Va., News Leader.]

The three young women in the group had just come from the Christian Youth conference and were ready to report. "The conference went on record," one of the trio announced, "as favoring Sincere Light Petting." The capitals were obvious in her tones.

A masculine member of the party, who had not attended the conference, questioned her further. There was no fooling about it; they had taken a vote, and it was unanimous.

The mere male uttered an audible sigh and pondered. Sincere Light Petting—what is it, and what its inspiration? Are emotions to be turned on and off as if by an electric switch? And are they definable in any precise classification save that of decency? So reasoning, the male reminded the conferees that spring lies just beyond the end of the icy highway; that the forsythe brambles are starred like the bypaths of heaven; that narcissus spikes are tickling the grass blades; that crocuses are rooting up with golden snouts; that kites are in the air; that baseball pitchers are coaxing winter-bound muscles to relax; and that little girls are sitting in rows on porch steps with the wind blowing over their knees. It seemed to him that something was lacking from the deliberations of the youth conference. Suddenly it dawned on him.

"Didn't they," he asked timorously, "say anything about love?"

"O, yes," the young women amended casually, "we did mention that, too."

We oldsters shall not despair then! Even if youth en masse has gone on record in favor of so mechanistic a thing as Sincere Light Petting we hold that something else is in the air. Spring is coming and there must be romance somewhere.

Granted, Edward, but you didn't stop there. You went on to say, "The society people don't need the money. The professional actor does." Ah, Mr. Cantor, you have never heard society people tell how it is with them during these sad, dark days. If you had, Mr. Cantor, you would not say the society people don't need the money. Instead of that you would break down and sob like a child and you would give them a dime apiece and look in the ice box to see if there was some of that cold roast beef you had yesterday or anything left from the veal loaf for the poor things to eat.

The Republicans foam at the mouth and snap viciously at everything in their path when the pink slip is mentioned because they say the publishing of the amount of our wealth will aid and abet the wicked old kidnapers. Yes, it may work against those of us who have much money. But when the kidnaper reads my pink slip and finds out that I have one dollar and sixty-five cents in cash, two plugged quarters, a Canadian dime, two canceled street car transfers, and a rain check to a baseball game last summer he's going to scratch my name off his list. So the pink slip will help me even though it sics the kidnapers on others. After all, the darned thing works both ways.

THE GOVERNMENT is going to replace 658 millions of our bank currency with some other kind of currency. I can't understand what it's all about, but I expect it's a grand idea. The only thing is that I get awfully jittery whenever one of those New Dealers down in Washington picks up a silk hat, waves his wand around it, and says, "Hocus pocus!" I'm worried stiff to know what he's going to pull out of that hat.

ROBERT A. And the same day four Hollywood cinema queens sued for divorce, but they didn't get anywhere like the publicity that young Mr. Taft did. Some time the Hollywood cinema kings and queens are going to wake up and then, instead of suing for divorce, they'll sue for gold payments on their Liberty bonds. The trouble with Hollywood is that they're so old fashioned out there.

MEDICAL MANAGEMENT OF OLD AGE.

IN these days of great progress in medicine we are giving much thought and attention to the expectant mother and the young infant, to heart disease, tuberculosis, blood diseases, and to many other conditions. All of these merit constant study, but we sometimes fail to consider adequately the particular group of ailments from which older persons suffer. We are inclined to a fatalistic philosophy and may say, "O, well, Mr. J. is past 70 and has lots of things wrong with him. He will just have to grin and bear it." This is an utterly unthinking, unsympathetic, even inhuman attitude.

It is required of the physician that he give just as careful and assiduous attention to those who are going down the western slope of life as to those tiny mites of humanity who are witnessing the first dawn of a new day.

Most of the illnesses of elderly people are really minor. Nevertheless they call for great resourcefulness on the part of the physician and a careful physical examination at every visit. We must recognize that with age circulation is retarded, metabolism is lowered, muscular activity is lessened, and fatigue comes on more quickly. The aged need more heat than do young persons, and their resistance to infection is less.

Then, too, we must bear in mind that mental changes accompany physical changes; that sometimes like an old tree with its branches and trunk gnarled and knotted the disposition may be a bit crabby or faultfinding and the tastes finicky. Occasionally we see a mellowing of heart and mind that is as beautiful as it is desirable, with a kindliness and thoughtfulness of others that perhaps was not so obvious during the years of greater alertness. At any rate, changes in disposition must be regarded as part of the ageing process and treated as such.

Where the use of drugs in younger persons may be wisely delayed or limited, in those beyond middle life they may be used much more freely. Tonics that contain strychnine, arsenic, and phosphorus are frequently of great value, as is alcohol in certain cases. A glass of port wine once a day may be a real aid. Sedatives such as bromides, chloral, hyoscine, or phenobarbital may be used to promote sleep and drive away the terrors of the night, while salicylates may be employed for pain. Each and all, however, must be used with a keen sense of discrimination.

Much can be done in helping an old person plan the day so that time shall not drag. Exercise, diet, reading, the afternoon nap, visitors—all must be regulated. If the individual is required to carry the burdens of a business, and if some rest during the day seems impossible, two half days spent at home may restore body reserves.

More frequently than not correct habits of eating will add greatly to the comfort of the aged. We know that with lowered metabolism and decreased activity these patients need less food. They must be steered away from food fads. The diet should be balanced, palatable, well cooked, and not constipating. We must not be too free with our "don'ts." Even though some minor personal habit may not be conducive to longevity, let it continue. The happiness and comfort lost by prohibiting this or that may defeat the objective.

About 4.8 per cent of our people attain the age of 60, and 2.4 per cent reach the age of 80. This means that we must direct more attention to rendering comfortable the existence of those in the sixth, seventh, and later decades of life. As long as the old clock keeps time, wind it, oil the works, and now and then polish its rosewood case. Some day, perhaps all too soon, it will cease to tick.

YOU ARE RIGHT.

L. T. M. writes: I am troubled with a bronchial cough and at times, when I stoop over to pick up anything from the floor, I will have a spasm of coughing that will last two or three hours. My family says I only imagine that stooping over starts me coughing. Am I not right?

REPLY.

You are quite right in recognizing that your stooping posture brings on coughing. You no doubt have a chronic bronchitis, possibly bronchiectasis, that is, dilated bronchi that contain pus and mucus. When you stoop this material flows toward the larynx and brings on coughing.

One of the best treatments of chronic bronchitis is to assist the lungs to drain by lowering the head and raising the hips, that is, the head should be lower than the body. In this way much of the material will be expectorated. Perhaps you have noticed that a coughing spell may come on when you first go to bed, or when you turn from one side to another. Drainage is increased by certain types of posture.

FLYING STORIES

BONNY'S DREAM.

Bonny had a dream. His inventor's eyes gleamed with the light of it. His days lived with the hope of it. His nights moved with its vision.

Because of his dream we called him Bonny Gull. He dreamed of building an airplane with metal, wood, and fabric to emulate the sinewed, feathered grace of a soaring gull.

He studied gulls. He studied them dead and alive. He studied their wonderful soaring flight alive. He killed them and studied their lifeless wings. He wanted their secret. He wanted to re-create it for man.

He might have asked God. He might have asked God and heard a still small voice for answer: "Render unto Cæsar what is Cæsar's and unto God what is God's. Render unto man his own flight and leave to the gulls their own. Man's flight is different because his destiny is different. He doesn't need the gulls' flight."

But Bonny envied the gulls. He killed hundreds of them, yes, thousands, and buried them in the field. He built an airplane from what he thought he had learned from their dead bodies.

He built an airplane and took it out to fly. Engineers who had never studied gulls, but who had studied man's flight, told him he shouldn't do it. They pointed out to him how the center of pressure would shift on his wings. But Bonny glared his glittering faith at them, snuggled his dream in close and flew.

He took off all right. He roared across the field, and if he didn't sound quite like a gull he looked the part. He rose into the air for all the world like a giant gull. He pulled off in a steep climb, and the wise men wondered if again they were proven wrong by an ignorant fanatic.

Their wonder didn't last long. When Bonny tried to level out, he nosed over and dove straight into the ground, like a gull diving into the ocean for a fish.

We rushed out to the wreck. Bonny was quite dead. There were scattered around him not only the remains of his own gull wings, but thousands of the feathered remains of other gull wings. He had dived straight into the shallow grave of all the gulls he had killed.

WHY MANY REFUSE JOBS.

Libertyville, Ill., March 6.—While initiating our local better housing campaign the attention of the Libertyville-Mundelein district organization has been called to one practice followed in dispensing local emergency relief [and we understand this practice is quite general] which strikes us as being absolutely appalling.

At a joint session just held of our executive and publicity committees it was pointed out by members who have been in close contact with the administration of local emergency relief that many people on relief are very reluctant to accept private employment and go off the relief. At first the members of these committees were inclined to condemn and denounce such people as lazy, good for nothing loafers, bums, and rogues. However, when we learned the real reason for much of this reluctance every member who was present declared that if he were on relief today he would be reluctant to accept private employment.

We find that those on relief are instructed to notify the relief administration upon obtaining private employment, and that, regardless of whether it is known how long the private employment may last, the name of any relief client so employed is immediately and completely stricken from the relief rolls and the client cannot get back on without making out an entirely new application and going through the same procedure as though he had never been on relief, all of which takes several weeks' or months' time, during which the relief client and his family have to suffer through such distress as may arise. In fact, I understand that those who are on relief work are notified that if they obtain other employment they cannot get back on relief work for a period of thirty days. I have been reliably informed that some men in this community who secured temporary private employment last summer were unable to get back on relief work rolls for periods of three and four months after making applications to get back on. How willing do you think those men will be to accept temporary private employment this year? Or, for that matter, permanent private employment if they are not absolutely sure of its permanency?

As a result of this practice, relief clients either endeavor to conceal the fact of obtaining private employment of short or uncertain duration or else they refuse to accept such employment altogether. It is, in fact, difficult to see how any sane person would do otherwise in view of the circumstances. Men on relief work should be encouraged in, and not discouraged from, obtaining private employment. WILLIS A. OVERHOLSER,

CERTAINLY MORE NOISE.

Western Springs, Ill., March 10.—Recently a booking agent in New York believed that the Hauptmann jury would be a fine vaudeville attraction and offered each member of the jury a tempting contract. Don't you think the professional troupe of Long, Coughlin, and Johnson would attract more attention and make more money? JACK PIERCE.

THE MYTH OF BRITISH SUPERIORITY.

Chicago, March 9.—Alleged British superiority certainly does annoy THE TRIBUNE as shown by its editorial today on this subject. At no time has your paper proved that the British authorities suppress crime news, although it is true that many of the papers will not give much publicity to unsavory crime news, such as gets front page publicity here. That, in my opinion, is a defect of the press, but your journalistic colleagues are to blame.

The American press goes out after the news as you state, but much of it is afterward denied by the parties concerned, and I have been amazed at the number of my fellow citizens who tell me when I quote a newspaper statement, "O! That's only in the paper and you know what the papers are like in regard to accuracy and truth."

Suppose, as you suggest, the English press gave bold accounts of crime would that make England really lawless, especially when one remembers that the British police do not carry guns and that a policeman even in a tiny American village must carry a gun for protection?

Servility in the presence of a title is a rotten English habit of mine, but the same habit exists in republic America in its wealthiest and presumably best educated circles. In Chicago the alleged leader of society would not even condescend to talk to her servants, yet she was American born and presumably educated in the democratic principle of her native country. Americans of position are so fond of titles that THE TRIBUNE recently supplied a list of "peers" of Kentucky and many of our public officials with corrupt records are nevertheless referred to as honorable or even "excellency"—an amazing state of affairs to a true republican like the writer, in spite of his upbringing in monarchical Britain.

Your item about the pepper boom cannot be answered because, as you point out, the official investigation has just begun.

In addition to the unarmed police force THE TRIBUNE fails to point out how little corruption exists in public life in Great Britain and how vast and unending is corruption in America.

Ignore British snobbery and get busy and make our country, or at least our city of Chicago, so lawful that, as in Great Britain, money may be carried through the streets without the use of armored cars.

While you fuss about the British, innocent citizens not of Britain, but of Chicago, and also members of its police force are being attacked and sometimes killed. How many British are shot in holdups?

In conclusion please persuade your staf to increase its accuracy by using the terms British king and British premier and not English king and English prime minister. ALEXANDER LINDSAY.

ACHIEVEMENT OF THE AAA.

Wilmette, Ill., March 9.—Last spring I got so intrigued with the New Deal plan to grow wheat with reverse English that I decided to apply the idea to my own business, which is—I mean was—advertising. I had been telling 'em all my life. Why shouldn't I get paid for not telling 'em?

I had often thought that, if I were rich, I would be glad to pay a qualified gentleman a respectable weekly stipend as a stand-in to listen to my wife tell her woes of the day before I got home at night and thus relieve me of that apparently unavoidable conjugal duty which still remains tedious even after the first hundred years.

So I worked up a direct mail campaign outlining my qualifications as a wailing wall and presenting my proposition. You'd be amazed at the way it took hold. Or maybe you wouldn't. A lot of men told me they'd be glad to pay me a thousand a week, if they had it, for such a service. Soon I had all the business I could handle. My sympathetic clucks are a work of art, if I do say it. The ladies are comforted, their husbands relieved, and I have found a detour from the broad highway that was leading me direct to the sherif. And just think, if it hadn't been for the AAA I never would have thought of it. SOB BROTHER.

ABOUT UTILITIES.

La Grange, Ill., March 8.—It is about time that our chiseling politicians and a minor portion of the public quit persecuting and harassing our public utilities. Every one knows that we get more efficient service for our money from the utilities than from any other line of service.

When I say service, I mean 24 hour service, 365 days a year. Three years ago I was gravely ill, with three doctors in attendance. At 3 o'clock in the morning the doctors decided on emergency treatment to save my life. However, certain medicines were needed and we called our telephone operator and stated our case. For the next 45 minutes she devoted herself entirely to calling pharmacists in their homes, in an attempt to get them to get up from their beds, go down to their stores and prepare the medicine. She called us back every five minutes to inform us of her progress and at last she succeeded.

If the utilities were owned by the government, it would have been necessary to have an act of congress or an amendment to the constitution to secure this service. R. H. WIGGINS.

TEACHING ALIENS TO BE DEMOCRATS.

Jonesboro, Ill., March 8.—I read in the papers that the government at Washington is planning to educate nearly 350,000 aliens in Illinois. Why not use the money to return them to the countries they came from? We are told "Educate them to be good Americans." My notion is they are to be educated to be straight Democratic voters. The teachers will all be Democrats. They will all be instructed from Washington just what to teach.

MRS. L. W. RODGERS.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, March 12.—In preparation for carrying all first class mail to the empire by air, Imperial Airways intends soon to place orders for 50 luxury airliners.

These airplanes will not be built, however, until the dominions and colonies agree to pay the necessary premium for being brought into the British government's high speed mail service, which was announced in December. Representatives of the postoffice and of the air ministry are now in India on a tour of the empire seeking such agreements.

Seek Greater Speed.

A cruising speed of 120 miles an hour—a fifth faster than the cruising speed of the airliners on the London-Paris run—will be demanded of the first 50 new airliners. Later constructors will be asked to produce machines with a cruising speed of at least 200 miles an hour. It is believed that eventually an economical cruising speed of 220 miles an hour can be achieved.

It is probable that before the first 50 new airliners are built Imperial Airways, perhaps through the air ministry, will order long range seaplanes for the Atlantic service, which, because of the difficulties to be overcome, is lagging behind the services to India, Africa, and Australia. It is now believed that the Atlantic service will be by way of the Azores and Bermuda to New York or Washington in conjunction with Pan-American Airways. The northern route via Canada to Chicago is considered too difficult to be profitable, at least until extremely fast airplanes can be constructed.

It is the established policy of Imperial Airways not to attempt a service unless it can be made to pay. The company has found that flights of between 300 and 400 miles are the best, since it is not necessary to carry great loads of gasoline. Longer flights require a heavier load of gasoline and that means reduced speed.

"There is no sense taking gasoline on a joy ride," says the company.

Plan New Air Lines.

Many new air lines will also be started and existing services will be expanded in May. Out of the way cities in the British isles will be brought within a few hours of each other. People who now must make long journeys by rail and boat will be able to reach many cities on continental Europe in a single day. They will be able to fly, for instance, in a single day from Belfast, northern Ireland, to Amsterdam, Holland; Hamburg, Germany, and Malmo, Sweden, as well as to Berlin and other cities.

The chief developments will be to link Aberdeen, Scotland, and London, via Hull, by daily service; Belfast and the Isle of Man, in the Irish sea; Belfast and Manchester; Liverpool, Dublin, and Carlisle, Scotland; Kirkwall, tourist center in the Orkney Islands, and Lerwick, Shetland Islands; Inverness, northern Scotland, and Lerwick, via Wick or Thurso, at the tip of Scotland.

Aberdeen, in northeastern Scotland, and Glasgow, southwestern Scotland, may be joined by a daily air service which will extend on to the Isle of Man, making connections there with the Belfast line.

How air-minded Great Britain has become is shown by the fact there are 73 civil airdromes in the British Isles, besides six seaplane stations, and there are, in addition, about 60 landing grounds.

AUSTRALIAN BAR SETS UP FUND TO PROTECT CLIENTS

Use Money to Pay Trust Defaults.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

SYDNEY, Australia, March 12.—Attorneys in New South Wales are to submit to a voluntary tax to establish a fund out of which losses will be made good to clients of defaulting lawyers. The fund will be established under legislation soon to be passed by the state legislature.

This fund, to be known as the solicitors' fidelity guarantee fund, will be created by a tax of from $15 to $50 on each member of the profession in the state. When the total contributions reach $500,000 the levies cease.

The move for the creation of such a fund to make restitution to defrauded clients of attorneys came from the profession itself. In recent years defaults by lawyers acting as trustees for estates have been increasingly numerous. The situation grew so acute that the reputation of the profession was felt to be at stake.

Seek Public Confidence.

In addition, the pressure of competition of state administered investing institutions, with government backing of the investments, forced the lawyers to realize that they must take drastic action to convince the public that it was not unsafe to employ a lawyer as a trustee. Consequently the State Bar association declared for the establishment of a fidelity guarantee on the lines of a fund created in New Zealand some years ago.

The provisions for this new scheme are ingenious. To enable the fund to accumulate to the point where it will be of some use it is provided that for the first ten years no more than $25,000 may be claimed against any one lawyer. Aften ten years the total is raised to $50,000 for each attorney involved. One client may not claim more than $10,000 and a person having a claim is forced first to prosecute the solicitor concerned under the law and obtain a conviction against him for improper use of trust funds. It is provided, however, that the courts may excuse a client from this action in certain cases.

There is also to be created a disciplinary committee consisting of the leading members of the bar, whose names will be put before the chief justice by the State Bar association. This committee will investigate complaints against any solicitor, and will have power to strike him from the rolls. Appeal against its decisions must be made to the courts.

Outline of New Zealand Fund.

In New Zealand, where a similar fund now stands at an unrevealed total, the provisions of the scheme, which was also put through by parliament at the express desire of the law profession, place no limit on the amount which may be claimed by a defrauded client, nor on the sum which the committee administering the fund may pay in respect of any one default. Lawyers are forced to have their trust funds audited by accountants on a list approved by the district law society; each month the auditor must be furnished with a list of balances in trust funds held by the attorney, and at least three times every year the auditor must check the accounts to specified dates.

The New Zealand plan, which began to operate in 1929, also provides for extra levies if the national council of the law society deems it necessary. Defalcations are repaid out of the fund set up without necessity of prosecution to the stage of conviction. The money is handed over as soon as a claim is revealed to be a sound one.

The law society extends its check still further by insisting that all receipts for trust moneys given by its members shall be on specially numbered forms issued by the society. Further, the society insists that its members keep their own and their clients' moneys separate. Recently it pushed a case to the Appeal court and gained a ruling that failure to do this is conduct rendering a lawyer liable to be struck off the rolls.

"MY LIFE," AN AUTOBIOGRAPHY

BY WINSTON CHURCHILL.

Early in 1921 Mr. Lloyd George became disturbed about the middle east. After the revolt in Iraq had been suppressed we were left with more than 40,000 troops, British and Indian, in that country at a cost of more than £30,000,000 a year. Obviously this could not continue. He urged me to go to the colonial office and offered me very wide powers to deal with Palestine and Iraq.

Very nearly at this time was Egypt placed also in my charge. I accepted this new commission. I formed a special department at the colonial office to deal with middle east affairs. I proceeded to Cairo, where I gathered all the authorities who understood the middle east. In particular I compelled Col. Lawrence to come to our aid. All my advisers were staggered by this. "What, wilt thou bridle the wild ass of the desert?" Such were the cries they raised.

However, this great man, one of the most remarkable beings alive in our time, came along and for fifteen months was a docile serviceable official. With his advice and that of other able men we took decisions at Cairo in the spring of 1921, the bulk of which remain to this day untouched by all the changes of government which have occurred meanwhile.

What He Accomplished.

These decisions were few and simple. We turned the army out of Iraq, saving twenty-five millions a year and Sir Hugh Trenchard undertook to keep peace and order with only airplanes and armored cars. The military authorities mocked at this, but he made good his undertaking, as he makes good every undertaking into which he enters. We gratified the Arabs and paid a debt to them for their help in the war by making the Emir Feisal king of Mesopotamia. His son rules there today. We placed his brother, the Emir Abdullah, in Transjordania, over which he still presides. We prescribed the relative zones of the Zionists and the Arabs in Palestine. I had to use all my long-built up influence and friendship with the French to reconcile them to this kind of policy which they thought conflicted with the different course they had taken in Syria. Altogether I do not think much complaint can be made against the way in which these very dangerous tangles were straightened out. I owe much to the brilliant men whose advice I sought and took and to the rest of the cabinet who accepted the solutions we offered.

Warfare in Ireland.

While I was primarily concerned with these Arabian problems the murderous warfare in Ireland had reached its climax. As a result of a long series of negotiations and desperate hagglings, the Irish treaty was signed in the winter of 1921. This is not the place to argue the pros and cons. I was a signatory of the treaty. England has always carried out her part of it, not only faithfully, but generously. Unhappily the reputation of the Irish nation has been stained by a shameful breach. However, I still have hopes of Ireland. She will come home some day, though not probably in my lifetime.

Once the treaty was signed southern Ireland as a dominion fell constitutionally into the sphere of the colonial office. In my capacity as secretary of state I became chairman of the cabinet committee upon Irish affairs. My colleagues gave me aid when I required it, and wide freedom of action at other times. Thence forward I conducted all the arrangements with the Irish leaders, both north and south. I dealt with all the parliamentary situations in the house of commons, and put the treaty into operation. This task occupied me during the whole of the year 1922.

Collins Does His Best.

One can hardly imagine a more anxious and unpleasant business. Mr. de Valera from the beginning repudiated the delegates he had sent to London, and set to work to destroy the treaty by every means in his power. Civil war broke out in southern Ireland taking the form of murder and counter murder. The plight of the loyalists, old soldiers and gentlefolk, was pitiful. We had to disentangle our police and military from the factions which were tearing at each other, and intrust the weak provisional Irish government, composed of gunmen and headed by Michael Collins, with the responsibilities of order and justice. Collins did his best indeed; he gave his life for the treaty he had signed. So also in a way did that far stronger and bigger man, Arthur Griffith. Meanwhile scarcely a day passed without horrid tragedies.

Although they were fighting each other fiercely both the Sinn Fein parties bayed and glared at Ulster. Ferocious murders and ambuscades took place along the border in Belfast. A hateful vendetta of assassination was waged between the Catholics and the Orangemen. Parliament and the British public were ashamed, furious and miserable by turns, but by very large majorities they stood by the government and the treaty.

Four Courts Seized.

The culmination was reached when a high-souled fanatic, Rory O'Connor, seized the Four Courts in Dublin, and when Sir Henry Wilson, the former chief of the imperial staf, was murdered on his doorstep in Eaton square. Upon this and under the pressure which I put upon him Michael Collins attacked the Four Courts with the new Irish Free State army. The British troops remained neutral in their fortified camp of the Phoenix park. But we lent him cannon and ammunition with which eventually the Four Courts were battered in, and Rory O'Connor and his desperadoes became the prisoners of their own conspiracy-comrades of a few months before.

I pursued a perfectly plain straightforward course. I carried out the treaty rigidly and thrust the responsibility for the government of southern Ireland upon the men who had claimed it. At the same time I made it clear that the Protestant north would be supported and protected in every way. I gathered several brigades of troops in the north, and when the raiders from the Free State crossed the disputed frontier line, I made a large forced march against them, and with cannon-fire and overwhelming strength expelled them.

Cosgrave Stands Out.

Gradually the situation cleared. That great Irishman, Sir James Craig, reëstablished order in Belfast. When in August Arthur Griffith died of heart failure and Collins was killed in an ambush the worst was over. A quiet, potent figure had stood in the background sharing the dangers of the rebel leaders without taking part in all they had done; in Cosgrave the Irish people found a chief of higher quality than any who had yet appeared. To the courage of Collins he added the matter-of-fact fidelity of Griffith and a knowledge of practical administration and state policy all his own. At his side rose the youthful Kevin O'Higgins, a figure out of antiquity cast in bronze. These three restored order in Ireland by ancient methods and with no great effusion of blood. The people in their turmoil, confusion and distress felt the stimulus of a will-power calm, intense and ruthless. The attempt to break down the Dail by murdering its members individually was countered in the following way. On two deputies being shot almost on the steps of the parliament house, Rory O'Connor and three of his leading associates were awakened and shot without trial on a December morning. They had been residing in easy confinement in Mountjoy prison since their surrender at the Four courts. They met their fate with equal astonishment and fortitude. A year before Rory O'Connor had been best man at the wedding of Kevin O'Higgins.

I take pride in the fact that I preserved the confidence both of Craig and of Collins, as long as he lived, and of Cosgrave thereafter; and I should be very contented to be judged upon my handling of this most odious and torturing business.

Unexpected Always Happens.

Nothing happens but the unexpected. I really thought that I had done rather well at the colonial office. The settlement of the middle east in 1921 and the bringing into force of the Irish treaty in 1922 were very considerable undertakings. Never had I made more successful speeches in parliament than in these two years.

But just as things were straightening out and I seemed about to reap a reward in public opinion, Mr. Lloyd George's government was overthrown by Mr. Baldwin and Mr. Bonar Law. These two gentlemen, one of whom was a minister at the time, carried a party meeting of the Conservatives at the Carlton club against the government. Mr. Lloyd George resigned and everything broke into pieces.

A general election followed immediately. I could hardly take any part in it. At the height of the political crisis I was struck down by appendicitis and had to undergo a most grevious operation without which I should certainly have died. The electorate of Dundee had been enormously enlarged by the war-time franchise bill and the tide ran strong against members of the late administration. I was carried in an invalid chair through the last two days of the contest amid infuriated crowds.

Losses All Come at Once.

When the votes were counted I had lost by a very large majority the seat which I had held for fifteen years. At the moment when I thought I had deserved somewhat of the public, and in the twinkling of an eye I lost my appendix, my secretaryship of state and my seat in parliament. Such are the vicissitudes of political life, against which a happy home and a buoyant disposition are the best protections.

MICHAEL PUPIN, NOTED INVENTOR, SCIENTIST, DEAD

His Coil Revolutionized Telephone Progress.

New York, March 12.—[Special.]—Dr. Michael I. Pupin, 76, professor emeritus of electro-mechanics at Columbia and one of the outstanding scientists and inventors of the world, died of heart disease today in the Harkness pavilion of the Columbia-Presbyterian Medical center, where he had been undergoing treatment for the past five weeks.

Since 1931 the noted physicist had been an invalid, partially paralyzed. Stricken with influenza early in February he was taken to the hospital from his home. Since he retired in 1929 from his active professorship he had continued his research, directing work from his home.

Born in Banat.

Dr. Pupin, who was born in Idvor, Banat, then a province of Hungary but now in Jugoslavia, on Oct. 4, 1858, of peasant parents, produced inventions during his lifetime which revolutionized telephony, wireless telegraphy and the X-ray.

The "Pupin coil" used in putting telephone and telegraph wires underground was considered the greatest achievement of the inventor. It made possible the New York to San Francisco telephone lines, the Boston to Washington underground cable, and the submarine cable between England and Holland.

One of Dr. Pupin's highest honors came in 1932 when he received the John Fritz gold medal, previously awarded to Herbert Hoover and Marconi.

Discovers Rapid X-Ray.

In 1896 the professor discovered a rapid method of X-Ray photography, which shortened the time of exposure from about an hour to a few seconds. He also invented a method of electrical tuning, later purchased by the Marconi company and practiced universally now in radio-telegraphy. The method of receiving wireless signals through electrolytic rectification of high frequency oscillations also was his discovery.

In 1888, Prof. Pupin was married to Sarah Katherine Jackson of New York in London, who died some years ago.

News of the Radio Stations

BY LARRY WOLTERS.

WILLIS COOPER.

Willis Cooper, NBC continuity chief and author of those gruesome "Lights Out" productions heard at midnight Wednesdays over WENR, has spent a most unhappy week. Hard boiled radio listeners have been kicking about last week's playlet, "After Five O'Clock," saying it was too mild. Some have charged him with going soft. Other gluttons for the macabre have gone so far as to brand him a sissy. Cooper admits that last week's opus wasn't quite up to standard—it concerned a guy harassed by his subconscious mind and wound up mildly with three suicides. Cooper's plea was that he was merely trying to mix them up a bit.

Cooper brooded for several days and then resolved to give them something they would remember him by. Tonight he will present his masterpiece of fiendishness which he calls "Sepulzeda's Revenge." "It will satisfy all who insist on HORROR with capital letters," Cooper said yesterday. In this one Cooper warms up on a cleaver and trunk murder and tops it off with an episode in which a husband beheads his wife. Last Wednesday night Willis didn't rest well but tonight he will sleep like a baby.

Producers of Fred Allen's show are yelling for a breathing spell. They are more than 16,000 calls behind in taking care of requests for tickets to see his broadcast. . . . Ted Fio-Rito, who opens on WBBM from the Edgewater Beach early in June, has just been engaged to make another picture for Warner Brothers. It's titled "Broadway Gondolier" and features Dick Powell and Ginger Rogers. It's to be finished a few days before Fio-Rito starts for Chicago. . . . Phil Spitalny's all-girl orchestra is moving from the CBS spot opposite Rudy Vallee Thursday nights to 8:30 Tuesday evenings early next month.

Kelly's Body Put in Grave Beside His Parents.

James Thomas Kelly, the penurious ex-convict and man of mystery, who dickered with flophouse keepers for two bit rooms while hoarding an estate valued at more than $140,000, was buried yesterday in Calvary cemetery beside the bodies of his father and mother.

The burial followed the exhumation of Kelly's body from the Lithuanian National cemetery in Justice Park last Saturday for an investigation that developed after his death on Feb. 26. The exhumation was ordered by the Probate court to determine whether Kelly had been poisoned.

This suspicion arose after investigators discovered that seven persons were making an effort to seize Kelly's estate through a fraudulent will. The seven were indicted on Monday and at the same time it was established that Kelly had not been poisoned.

Hunt Source of Wealth.

While the body of the miser, who was 55 years old, apparently was laid to rest for the last time, investigators were at work yesterday to uncover the source of his mysterious wealth. Kelly's only occupation since his release from Joliet penitentiary in 1911, as far as could be learned last night, was that of a news butcher on railroad trains, with a small weekly income.

Jack Rubens, chief investigator for the Cook county public administrator's office, headed the investigation with the assistance of Assistant State's Attorney Julius Sherwin, who will prosecute the alleged will forgers. Unless relatives of the ex-convict are found—and last night there was no indication that Kelly had any surviving kinsfolk—the estate will be claimed by the state of Illinois.

It consists so far of $94,000 in stocks and bonds found on Monday in a safety deposit box, and $47,200 in savings bank deposits. Other caches of the miser's wealth may be discovered, the investigators believe.

Missouri to Seek Estate.

Illinois' claim to the estate will be contested by the public administrator of Missouri, who maintains that Kelly's legal residence was St. Louis. The news agency for which he is believed to have worked has its headquarters at St. Louis, and Kelly had rooms in that city from time to time.

The room Kelly last occupied in St. Louis was examined yesterday but nothing of value was found there. A savings account of $1,200 was uncovered, however, in a St. Louis bank.

A safe deposit box in the Mid-City National bank, 801 Madison street, which Mrs. Bella Butman is said to have maintained under another name, is to be opened today. Mrs. Butman, who described herself as Kelly's common law wife and was named residuary legatee of the estate in the fraudulent will, is one of the seven under indictment.

Tells of Kelly's Penury.

Kelly died in her home at 6743 Irving Park boulevard, where she took him from her flophouse at 651 Madison street. Rubens announced that unless Mrs. Butman gives permission for the box to be opened to determine if any more of Kelly's wealth is concealed there, he will ask an order from the Probate court.

A rooming house operator appeared yesterday with a claim for $10 against Kelly's estate. He is Lucian Forty, a blind man, who lives at 116 South Loomis street. He said the $10 claim was for five weeks' room rent which Kelly had owed him since November of 1933.

"I have known Kelly since 1926," Forty told Investigator Rubens. "He then roomed with me at 316 Aberdeen street, and paid $2 a week. But he always paid his rent in driblets of a quarter or a half a dollar. He was even too stingy to eat a good meal. He would stay with me six or seven months, then go to St. Louis for a few months, and then return."

Kelly's last appearance, Forty said, was in 1933. He asked Forty to trust him for his rent, the rooming house operator declared, maintaining that a friend was coming to share expenses with him. The friend never arrived, and Kelly disappeared.

Unable to Find Relatives.

Although it was reported that Kelly was supposed to have been married and to have two children, Rubens said his investigation showed that the ex-convict had always been a bachelor. His mother died on March 23, 1892, and his father on Oct. 27, 1905. There were two brothers and a sister, but Rubens has been unable to find any trace of them.

Kelly's prison term was for murder. He killed a man in a saloon quarrel, Rubens said.

FLOODS DRIVING HUNDREDS FROM VALLEY HOMES

Cairo, Ill., March 12.—[Special.]—Thousands of acres of rich farm land in Illinois and other states in the lower Mississippi river valley are inundated tonight as flood waters continued to rise in the wake of three days of incessant rainfall.

More than 500 refugees were rescued in the Poplar Bluff section of Missouri. Appeals for workers and funds were sent from that district to the national Red Cross organization. A National Guard company patroled a nearby levee.

The flood situation in southern Illinois remained acute today, although clear weather prevailed. Families were being moved out of outlying districts of Harrisburg and its suburbs as streams, fed by the recent heavy rains, continued to spread out over the low areas.

Floods Delay Trains.

Four railroads reported washouts in the southern end of the state. A washout of the Illinois Central near Grantsburg completely disrupted service over that section of the line for a time. Passengers were taken by automobile to Metropolis where they resumed their journey by rail.

Tracks of the Missouri and Pacific were washed out north of Pinckneyville. A washout between Broughton and Eldorado disrupted schedules on the Louisville and Nashville. The Big Four reported washouts south of Vienna.

Large sectors of southern Indiana were menaced by flood waters which followed one of the heaviest single rains the state has known since the 1913 flood. The Wabash river was rising more than inch an hour at Vincennes.

Highways and railroads were reported under several feet of water near Princeton and Winslow, Ind. The Patoka river overflowed its banks near Petersburg. There four and a half inches of rain fell in 40 hours. There was 5.38 inches of rain at Evansville. Several Ohio river points in Kentucky are flooded.

Sleet Storm Farther South.

Pontotoc, with a population of about 2,500 in north Mississippi, was struck last night and damaged to the extent of about $100,000, largely in the business section.

On the outskirts of Macon, Ga., the wind tore a path about four hundred yards wide and more than a mile long, demolishing small houses and blowing down trees. Schools were closed.

Today's snow hit the Tennessee River valley of Alabama, but elsewhere in that state rains fell, measuring as much as three inches at Gadsden.

River Escapes Its Banks and Bass Eat the Goldfish

Poplar Bluff, Mo., March 12.—(AP)—Mrs. S. L. Marshall's goldfish were bait for Black river bass today. Mrs. Marshall had 1,000 goldfish, which she said she valued at $5 each in a concrete pool in her yard. Black river flood waters stand six feet over the top of the pool.

Printer's Error Would Prevent 'Babies' Epidemic

Oklahoma, City, Okla., March 12.—(AP)—A bill appropriating $10,000 to prevent epidemics of babies, was approved by the Oklahoma house today. It was a printer's error. The money will be spent to combat rabies.

MASONS COMPILE CHARITY TO FIGHT LOTTERY CHARGE

Officials of the Medinah Shrine temple, conducting three charity dances on May 27 in an effort to replenish a treasury depleted by donations to charitable enterprises, compiled a list yesterday of donations made by the temple in the past 14 years as evidence of the good faith of the organization. Sale of the tickets, which include chances for merchandise prizes as well as admission to the dances, has been termed a lottery and criticised as such by Illinois state Masonic officials.

In 14 years the Medinah temple has given $878,000 for relief, included in the benefits being the Illinois Masonic Orphans home, Mississippi flood relief, indigent masons, the Shrine hospital for crippled children, and kindred organizations, according to Norman J. Kissick, recorder of the temple. He said that criticism had been made by Masonic officials of prize drawing in the benefit dance ticket sales, and he replied that the tickets are not being sold in the name of Masonry but only in the name of the Shrine temple.

"We feel by reason of our record of philanthropies," he said, "that we are doing good and that the tickets are for a worthwhile enterprise. In fact the dances are well worth the cost of the tickets, which cannot cost more than 35 cents. The merchandise chances are merely to further the sale."

GIANT CLIPPER PLANE SETS U. S. FLIGHT RECORD

Baltimore, Md., March 12.—(AP)—Record for American made planes was claimed tonight by Glenn L. Martin, airplane manufacturer, after the giant clipper ship No. 7 finished an hour and a half flight over Chesapeake bay, carrying a gross weight of 51,000 pounds.

Commenting on the "highly satisfactory" flight, Martin said no other airship built in this country ever had flown with a gross weight of 51,000 pounds. It was manned by a crew of six, and was loaded with 4,000 gallons of fuel, weighing 24,000 pounds, and lead ballast.

Martin said the clipper took off from a halt in 37 seconds—eight seconds within the specifications for that gross weight. The flight was one of a series of tests being made by the Glenn L. Martin company, its builder, before application is made to the department of commerce for a license.

Kansas Governor Signs Capital Punishment Bills

Topeka, Kas., March 12.—(AP)—Gov. Alf M. Landon today signed two measures establishing death as an alternate penalty for first degree murder in Kansas and hanging as the method of execution. They will be effective upon publication in the statute book about June 1. Capital punishment was abolished in 1907 although there had been no legal hangings by the state for 37 years prior to that time.

N. Y. PARK CASINO FIVE YEAR GROSS IS THREE MILLION

City Gets Total Rental of $42,500.

New York, March 12.—[Special.]—While the city was receiving $42,500 in rentals from the Central Park casino over a five year period, the casino grossed $3,096,153 and Sidney Solomon received $260,612 in salary and dividends. This was revealed today at the trial before Supreme Court Justice Edward S. Dore of the Dieppe corporation's suit to restrain Park Commissioner Robert Moses from ousting it from control of the casino.

Mr. Solomon, who is president of the corporation, and manager of the casino, drew $156,000 in salary and $104,612 in dividends, during the period, it was shown. The figures were for the five year period ended March 31, 1934. They were contained in a summary of the report of Ernest E. Wunderly, public accountant, submitted in evidence by Assistant Corporation Counsel William B. Herlands.

City Gets 1.36 Per Cent.

The analysis showed that the city's share during the five year period amounted to 1.36 per cent of the gross revenues.

The figures were introduced by Mr. Herlands in an attempt to show that income from the casino's operations had amortized the investment and that the high prices charged, such as the 40 cent cups of coffee referred to in Monday's testimony, were no longer necessary. The annual rental of $8,500 to be paid the city was fixed in the ten year lease, which expires in 1939.

The summary prepared by Mr. Wunderly gave the average annual gross income as $619,231. Profits for the five years, before deduction of Mr. Solomon's salary, were given as $381,366, or $76,273 average annual profits. The salary of Mr. Solomon, only officer of the corporation, averaged $31,200.

During the five years, Mr. Wunderly's report showed, the corporation received $65,902 from coatroom, washroom, doorman, and parking concessions, $29,368 from "complimentary accounts," and $912,418 from cover charges.

The battle over prices that should be charged in a public park was continued when Charles H. Tuttle, counsel for the Dieppe corporation, resumed his cross-examination of Edward Levine, head of the Central Park Catering company, which holds the concession for the recently opened Tavern-on-the-Green and an option on a restaurant at the northern end of the mall.

Mr. Tuttle brought out that at The Brass Rail, operated by Mr. Levine at Seventh avenue and Forty-ninth street, the table d'hote luncheon was 55 cents, while 85 cents was charged at the Tavern-on-the-Green. Mr. Levine insisted, however, that greater patronage at The Brass Rail permitted lower prices, and that portions were larger at the Tavern. When Mr. Tuttle pointed out that apple pie cost 25 cents at the Tavern and only 15 cents at The Brass Rail, Mr. Levine remarked that "you get a piece of cheese with it at the Tavern."

Begin Picking Jury to Try 3 Ex-Highway Policemen

Selection of a jury to try three former county highway policemen on charges of accepting bribes was begun yesterday before Judge Donald S. McKinlay. The defendants are Joseph Cantello, 39 years old, 508 Deming place; Sam Lucas, 42, of 1541 Orchard street, and Angelo Borello, 36. They are charged with accepting approximately $5,000 from members of a highjacking ring.

FIND 1865 TRIBUNE IN CORNER STONE OF BURNT CHURCH

A copy of THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE nearly seventy years old was taken yesterday from a corner stone of the Congregational church of Milburn in Lake county. The paper was found by workmen clearing away the debris left by a fire that demolished the building on Jan. 12.

THE TRIBUNE, dated Sept. 26, 1865, was placed in the corner stone at the time the church was erected in 1865 by Newport township farmers who had just returned from the civil war.

The church caught fire and burned while it was being warmed for the annual dinner of members of the Milburn Mutual Fire Insurance company.

The building was a landmark in northern Lake county. The congregation which used it was organized in 1841, only a short time after Lake county was opened to white settlers by a treaty with the Indians. A new church building is to be erected on the old foundation.

CITY OLDER THAN HISTORY IS GOAL OF 2 CHICAGOANS

Blacketts Head for Petra in Trans-Jordan.

BY RUTH DE YOUNG.

Interested in the world's byways more than its broad highways, Mr. and Mrs. Hill Blackett of Winnetka are about to treat themselves to an adventure that a Baedeker or Burton Holmes might envy.

Across the Atlantic, through the Mediterranean, over the desert, they are going to the ancient city of Petra in Trans-Jordan, halfway between the Dead Sea and the Gulf of Akabah, where history was made milleniums before it was ever written.

On Saturday they will sail from New York on the Conte di Savoia. Disembarking at Naples, they will proceed through Egypt to Luxor, famous for its temple built by Amenophis III., then to Jerusalem, and by motor through the Syrian desert to Ma'an, a prosperous adobe village circled by gardens of figs and palms and more remotely by untold miles of chalky white sand.

Bedouins and Emaciated Mules.

From Ma'an, where they will arrive on or about March 30, they will motor northwest past the spring of Ain Musa to Elji. Word of their coming will have been relayed to the Elji police station so a happy troupe of Bedouins will be on hand to meet them with riding mules and pack horses. Most of these beasts of burden are so emaciated that they bear somewhat of a resemblance to ancient ruins of the surrounding country. When Mark Twain traveled through the Holy Land, it will be recalled he named his horse "Baalbeck"—"because it was a magnificent ruin."

Once on horseback the real adventure of the trip will begin for Mr. and Mrs. Blackett. Situated in a natural amphitheater fully three miles in circumference and surrounded by mountains of the most fantastic shape, Petra's only approach or entrance is by way of the Sik, a deep rock cleft two miles long and from 10 to 40 feet wide. Slowly upon their mounts the Blacketts will move through this passage watching the perpendicular rock walls climb hundreds of feet into the air on either side and the Wadi Musa, the source of Petra's water supply, creep along beside them.

Travel with Armed Escort.

Their escort will be a mounted Arab police officer and a Bedouin guide, both armed. It was not until after the world war that the most intrepid travelers dared approach Petra for fear of the Bedouins, and even now visitors make the trip only under the protection of armed guards.

The real thrill of the passage through the cleft will come just at its end when El Khuzneh or Pharaoh's Treasury looms into view. In reality a Temple of Isis carved out of high rock, it seems at first sight unreal. With varying light its color ranges from marble white under the moon to red in the brilliant rays of the sun and to deep mahogany when the shadows creep along the walls. No wonder Petra has been called "The rose red city half as old as time."

Although there are 1,000 temples cut into the living rock of Petra's stupendous cliffs, El Khuzneh seems to personify her antiquity best of all.

While Mr. and Mrs. Blackett are seeing these monuments they will stay at the little camp that has been built by Thomas Cook & Son for the accommodation of visitors.

After four or five days in and about Petra Mr. and Mrs. Blackett will travel back to Alexandria where they will board their steamer for home. According to present plans they expect to be in Winnetka the end of April.

Morrisons in Istanbul.

Now in Istanbul—as the government of Mustapha Kemal Pasha has renamed Constantinople—are Dr. and Mrs. Charles Clayton Morrison, who left Chicago more than a month ago on the S. S. Samaria. Many an experienced traveler has linked Istanbul's golden horn with Petra as "places to be visited."

To walk the streets of Istanbul is to come face to face with twenty centuries of history. An Egyptian obelisk and a bronze column from Delphi stand in what was once the great Hippodrome. The porphyry monument, known now as the Burnt column, was erected by Constantine to mark the center of his forum.

Dr. Morrison wants to spend several weeks in Turkey, for as editor of the Christian Century he is making an intensive study of the near east. James Boring, who arranged his trip, has already assisted him in interviews with high government officials in Egypt, Palestine, and Syria.

Miss Jane Morrison, who is attending the University of Florence in Italy, will join her parents in Athens.

Frank Hibbards in Mid-Pacific.

In mid-Pacific this week are Mr. and Mrs. Frank Hibbard, who are headed homeward aboard the Matson liner Mariposa after several glorious weeks in New Zealand. They will come in sight of San Francisco's Golden Gate March 23, and then they will entrain immediately for Chicago.

According to reports that have filtered back home, Mr. Hibbard has had a grand holiday of trout and salmon fishing.

With every liner going to Bermuda or the West Indies filled to capacity, it isn't at all surprising that vacationists meet their next door neighbors in Andalusia, Curacao, and Kingston. As soon as the Britannic returns from the cruise it is now making through the Caribbean it will prepare to fare forth again in the same direction.

Chicagoans embarking on its next trip Tuesday include the J. W. Taylors and Mrs. David McDougal of Geneva, who will travel with her father, William B. McIlvaine, and her sister and nephew, Mrs. Blanchard Randall Jr. and Blanchard Randall III. of Baltimore.

The motor liner Kungsholm, leaving New York today on another of its pleasant West Indies cruises, numbers in its passenger list Mr. and Mrs. James W. McCulloh, Mr. and Mrs. J. G. Chapline and their daughter Marjorie, and Sidney M. Spiegel and his daughter Katherine.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, March 12.—Steps to end imprisonment for debt, which in 1932 accounted for half the prison population of England and Wales, are being taken by the British government.

A circular is being sent by the home secretary, Sir John Gilmour, to all magistrates calling on them to make a drastic reduction in the number of persons sent to prison for debt. In addition, a bill will be moved in the house of lords, which recently debated what some peers called "a savage system and a survival of a barbaric past," making imprisonment possible only as a last resort to punish willful defaulters.

24,272 Jailed for Debts.

In 1932, the last year for which statistics are available, 20,416 people were sent to prison for nonpayment of fines, alimony, or taxes, and 3,856 more went to jail for nonpayment of County court debts. This number, Lord Arnold, Laborite peer, said, was half the prison population of England and Wales.

A committee that investigated the whole matter for the home ministry recommended that a person should not be sent to jail unless the court had given special consideration to the question of imprisonment. This would mean that many convicted persons would be fined only and would have time to pay. If they defaulted, they could not be sent to prison before appearing again in court.

Dickens Waged War.

A century ago Charles Dickens waged war in his novels against imprisonment for debt, and his books were instrumental in ending abuses. But not all imprisonment for debt. Lord Merrivale, former president of the divorce division, said recently that so far as the rich and middle classes are concerned the wickedness of the system exposed by Dickens has gone, but that the poor still suffer. He said such a reproach on the law must be removed without delay. When he was a judge, he said, he frequently had had to reduce allowances to wives to save men from being jailed for nonpayment.

Taxpayers often are jailed for failing to pay, and Lord Arnold said that in some instances the tax collector advanced the money out of his own pocket to keep taxpayers from going to jail. Only wilful default or culpable negligence should be punishable by a jail sentence, he said, urging the house of lords to take speedy action.

Hollywood, Cal., March 12.—[Special.]—A slight sting on the right hand of Mary Boland, film actress, sustained while picking flowers in her yard, sent her to bed today on orders of her physician, who said it was possible she had been bitten by a black widow spider.

'MISS 1936' MUST BE STREAMLINED AND PETITE, SAY EXPERTS

New York, March 12.—[Special.]—"Miss 1936," petite and streamlined and representing the current trend in womanly beauty, was presented tonight at the 12th annual convention of the International Beauty Shop Owners. The pretty but passe figures of Miss 1935 [ampler] and Miss 1934 [taller and droopier] attended her, by way of contrast.

The pre-dated beauty queen, the very last word in smallness, is Miss Marian Quigley, 23, ballet dancer, who weighs exactly 100 pounds, is 5 feet 1½ inches tall, and has "natural blonde" hair. The other calendar beauties, in reverse order, are Miss Marion Pierce and Miss Ethel Hampden, the latter an actress who appeared in the recent Broadway production of "Dodsworth."

Having established night before last [by means of applause] that form, rather than hair, is a woman's crowning beauty, the experts proceeded to build on this scientific foundation.

Hair should never be cut shorter than two inches; ridged waves are bad form; the back neckline must be seen, and the hair must be brushed from the nape in a vertical pompadour; "naturalness" [which requires a great of art] is de rigueur.

JUDGE INDICATES HE WILL ENJOIN SHOPPING NEWS

Superior Judge Harry A. Lewis indicated yesterday that he would enter a temporary injunction restraining the Shopping News, Inc., from distributing, except by actual delivery to the householder, two advertising publications which the company issues.

The suit was brought by Attorney Samuel A. Ettelson in behalf of Carl Hallberg, 7639 Colfax avenue, a property owner. The bill attacked the distribution as a "common law nuisance," declaring that leaving the publications at back doors constituted a fire hazard and added to the cost of garbage collection. The publications are the Downtown Shopping News and the Goldblatt Bros. Shopping News.

Attorney W. P. Gilbert for the defendant opposed the injunction on the ground that it would destroy the good will built up by his company. He indicated that he would appeal.

The temporary injunction, Judge Lewis indicated, will forbid leaving the publications on porches or doorsteps. The court instructed Attorney Ettelson to draw up the order for signature today. Hearing on the matter of a permanent injunction was referred to Master in Chancery Harry Smitz.

AMERICAN PARTY TO MAKE TOUR OF JAPAN'S GARDENS

Mrs. George A. McKinlock Sails with Group.

For several dozen garden enthusiasts from scattered sections of the United States there is no more important date on the spring calendar than April 22. On that day they will board the Dollar Line steamer, S. S. President Johnson, and sail on an extensive garden tour of Japan.

Mrs. George A. McKinlock, president of the Palm Beach Garden club, since her winter home is in the Florida resort city, is one Chicagoan who is planning definitly to make the trip. And it won't surprise her many friends at all if she returns in the summer with a Japanese certificate in flower arrangement.

Historic Japanese Spots Included.

Sponsored by the National Council of State Garden Club federations, the tour itinerary includes visits to most of the noted gardens in Japan and two weeks in Kyoto, where flower arrangement will be studied. One of the Kyoto schools intends to issue certificates to those visitors who meet its requirements in flower arrangement.

Many of the invitations to private gardens have been extended through the courtesy of Japanese princes and other oriental dignitaries. The public gardens to be visited are "off the beaten path" and so are not usually included in tours of Japan.

Mrs. Forest Huttenlocher of Des Moines, Ia., vice president of the National Council of State Garden Club federations, will be the official head of the party. A well known writer and lecturer, she will speak on flowers and gardens on shipboard to Japan. Stopping for a few hours in Honolulu, it is expected that the party will visit the gardens of Mrs. Walter Dillingham and Mrs. Charles Adams, former Chicagoans.

Plan Departure June 21.

Some of the members of the garden tour expect to return from Yokohama June 21 on the S. S. President Coolidge, which will receive some passengers from the new turbo-electric liner Scharnhorst of the Hamburg American-North German Lloyd Line. The Scharnhorst will make its maiden voyage leaving Genoa May 21 and sail through the Mediterranean to Port Said, Colombo, Penang, Singapore, Shanghai, and Yokohama.

The second trip of the Scharnhorst will be westbound, leaving Shanghai June 25. It is the first of three new express liners of 18,000 gross registered tons to be engaged in the regular Europe-far east service of the North German Lloyd Line.

VOTE TO INDICT 3 POLICEMEN IN BRIBERY CASE

Three suspended policemen of the Burnside station were reported named yesterday in true bills charging them with accepting bribes and with conspiracy to obstruct justice. They are Michael E. Murphy, brother of "Big Tim" Murphy, slain labor racketeer; Marshall Dubach, and William Masterson.

Frank Kelly Jr., whose boasting remark is said to have led to the arrest of the policeman, was reported named with them in the true bill charging conspiracy to obstruct justice. Kelly, who was arrested and indicted for a robbery in Moline, Ill., is said to have remarked, "If I was in the Burnside station in Chicago I could fix this rap quick enough."

His statement was relayed to Chief of Detectives Sullivan by Moline police. Kelly told police that he paid Murphy $200 on the latter's promise to free Bert Pearson, who last April held up Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Treadway in their dry cleaning establishment at 8533 South State street.

Masterson and Dubach, who had arrested Pearson, were drawn into the investigation. The Treadways said they had been reimbursed for the robbery loss and had withdrawn their identification of Pearson on advice of Masterson and Dubach.

Costs Autoist $5 to Have His Fun with Street Car

Joseph Hajek, 45 years old, 1809 South 55th court, Cicero, an engraver, was fined $5 and costs by Judge John Gutknecht in the Trafic court yesterday on the charge that he drove his car at a snail's pace for a mile in Cermak road several days ago, refusing to let a street car pass.

REYNOLDS' KINDRED TELL OF THE DISCORD WITH HIS FIRST WIFE

Winston-Salem, N. C., March 12.—[Special.]—Despite their aversion to airing issues they previously had protested would involve sensational litigation, members of the Reynolds family, engaged in a court battle over the late Smith Reynolds' $30,000,000 trust estate, directed an attack today at the domestic life of the dead heir and his first wife, Mrs. Anne Cannon Reynolds Smith.

The charge was made that Reynolds refused to live with the former Anne Cannon two weeks after their marriage and later refused to contribute to the support of her child or to admit any obligation to support her.

A further hint that the young couple's matrimonial life was far from serene was contained in an affidavit signed by W. N. Reynolds, uncle, who was a co-guardian of the dead heir to the fortune made from tobacco.

The affidavit, put into the record before Superior Court Judge Clayton Moore, stated that young Reynolds had opposed making a pre-divorce settlement for his first wife and had an "absolute defense" against her claim for such a settlement.

Though the nature of the "absolute defense" was not disclosed, it was asserted in other evidence that the former Anne Cannon had arranged for her marriage to F. Brandon Smith Jr. of Charlotte before she went to Reno, Nev., and obtained a divorce from Reynolds. Smith, later divorced, testified for the Reynolds family to that effect.

Mrs. Smith and her father, Joe F. Cannon, wealthy Concord, N. C., business man, who is supporting her in the legal controversy, maintained she was ill, under the influence of a narcotic and mentally incapable of making a legal decision at the time she obtained her divorce.

LABORER DIES AT HIS JOB.

Good Morning!

Behold—two brothers in love with the same woman!

The woman is ONE brother's wife. And this brother—Colin—becomes fatally injured in an airplane accident. . . .

"Right to Live" is conventional as to plot and unsurpriseful till along toward the end when it has you guessing a bit as to who killed whom. . . .

Colin Clive and George Brent are handsome and likable as the two men in the case. Josephine Hutchinson is earnest and lovable as the woman—torn between pity and affection for one man and passionate love for the other. Henrietta Crosman contributes effectively to the ensemble as the keen-eyed, understanding, pitiful mother of the rivals. . . .

Colin has a mighty good looking nurse. Through most of the action her rôle demands little of Nurse Wayland but to wheel her patient about and look daggers at his wife. You really can't blame her for disliking Mrs. Trent, for that lady DOES treat her—quite unnecessarily, I thought—as a servant for whom she has little use. In the final scenes, however, Nurse Wayland has her innings for a few brief moments. Peggy Wood reveals here that she has screen as well as stage personality.

"The Right to Live" has been quite well directed, is charmingly mounted and manages to hold the interest.

Students Plan Many Trips for Spring Vacation

So Few Parties Will Be Held in City.

BY JUDITH CASS.

USUALLY during the time that girls and boys are at home from preparatory schools and colleges for their spring vacations there are quite a number of parties, small and informal, but parties just the same. But this year so many of the young people are tripping here, there, and everywhere that their families aren't making the usual plans for entertaining them.

One party to which the debutante set is looking forward, however, is a tea and cocktail party that Mr. and Mrs. Ayres Boal will give on Sunday, March 24, for their niece, Miss Patricia Benn, and their daughter, Miss Henrietta, who made her debut this year. Miss Benn, who sailed from her home, England, for America a few weeks ago, has been in New Orleans for the Mardi Gras and now is visiting friends in southern cities, but she will arrive in Chicago several days before Miss Boal comes from Vassar on March 23.

Miss Boal visited her English cousin two years ago and she is anxious to give Miss Benn as gay a visit in Winnetka as Miss Benn gave her in London.

Miss Margery Preston, the Howard P. Prestons' pretty daughter, also is coming home from Vassar for the holidays and bringing a classmate with her. The classmate is Miss "Posy" Jackson of New Haven, Conn., sister of handsome John Jackson, who was an usher at the Morse-McLennan wedding in Lake Forest last summer. Miss Jackson also will visit her aunt, Mrs. Lawrence Davis, in Geneva while she is in the middle west.

Miss Pauline Seipp, a senior at Vassar, also is coming home for the spring vacation. When she returns to college around the first of April she and Miss Mollie Lindsey of Danville will motor back in Miss Seipp's car.

Harriet Street to Visit Mother.

Miss Harriet Street, another Vassarite, is expected at home for the ten days by her mother, Mrs. Harry L. Street. She will arrive just in time for the Tito Schipa recital Sunday afternoon, March 24, which her sisters, Mrs. Thomas H. Knorr and Miss Katharine Street, as Mount Vernon Seminary association officials, are sponsoring to benefit the Mount Vernon scholarship fund.

Nancy Ryerson, the Edward L. Ryersons' daughter, will join her parents wherever they may be for the holiday. Mr. and Mrs. Ryerson are thinking of a trip south at that time. Their son, Edward III., is at home from Hill now.

Nearly all of the Sarah Lawrence students are going on trips for the vacation. Miss Mary Louise Morris, who is the dean of Chicago students at this college, since she is now taking her second year of post-graduate work there, has made plans to go any number of places. At first she and her roommate were going to Havana, but illness on the part of the roommate spoiled this trip and Miss Morris probably will go to Miami.

Miss Barbara Bersbach, a debutante of the last season, with a younger sister, Joan, who is a student at the Shipley school, will go to Miami to visit Mrs. William C. Beaufort. Another younger sister, Helen, who also attends the Shipley school, will sail on the 29th on the Monarch of Bermuda for a trip to Bermuda with several schoolmates. They are daughters of Mrs. Frank J. Bersbach of Winnetka.

Miss Nancy Poole, another Sarah Lawrence student, will spend the vacation in Bermuda, as will Miss Dorelle Moulton. Miss Ruth Tilden will spend the holidays with her mother, Mrs. Averill Tilden, and her sister, Miss Harriet Tilden, who will go to New York to meet her just before vacation

THE librarian at the Kellogg Public library at Green Bay, Wis., whose name is Sybil Schuett, asked a very sick patient in the local hospital what book he would like to have brought to him. "There is only one book I want," he told her, "and that is 'Heaven's My Objective.'" [They really though he said 'objection,' but gave him the benefit of the doubt.]

EVEN Shakespearean titles get garbled sometimes. Chester Powell tells about the small neighbor girl who announced that at school that week they were giving a performance of Shakespeare's "Take It or Leave It."

THE most embarrassed hostess recorded to date probably is the woman who spoke to a dinner guest about the napkin she had seen him put in his pocket at the close of dinner. The table linen she used that evening was her best set, and after seeing him put his napkin in his pocket she worried the rest of the evening as to how to get it back again without embarrassing him. She considered speaking to the young woman who had asked to bring him to her dinner, then decided that would embarrass her. Finally, in desperation, as the young man was bidding her good night, she said to him hesitantly:

"I'm sorry, but I had no napkin at dinner; I used my handkerchief," answered the young man.

A TRIBUTE to the efficiency of radio advertising perhaps is the fact that a gentleman approached a saleswoman in the electrical appliance department of a loop store and asked to see one of the musical clocks advertised every morning on the radio.

TED MURPHY, the giant Negro deckhand aboard the showboat Dixiana, ambled into the galley of the ship the other day as the cook was preparing beef stew for the dog, King of the Bayou, the pet of Jacob Weller, showboat proprietor. Murphy sniffed enviously as the odors floated out of the big kettle.

"King," he said to the dog, "from now on you an' me's gonna eat together."

"As we ride 70 miles an hour many couples dance to an Hawaiian orchestra, and there is an intermittent floor show," he writes.

"There is a hostess who introduces everybody, and the accouterments are complete. . . . There is also a recreation car and every conceivable game is available 'to lengthen your vacation by adding to your playtime,' the folder reads."

Passing of Old Family Circle Hampers Child

He Misses Teachings of Grandma, Uncle Ben.

BY KATHERINE KELLEY.

The vanishing of grandparents, aunts, and uncles from the modern home may be what is wrong with it, educationally speaking. This was the theory voiced yesterday by Mrs. Dorothy Canfield Fisher, author and educator, in an address on "Why All This Concentration on the Modern Child?" before the Chicago Association for Child Study and Parent Education, meeting at 32 West Randolph street.

In reminiscent mood, Mrs. Fisher recalled the old-time large family circle. The adults, including grandparents, aunts, and uncles, each made a definite contribution to the child's education and character, which is now molded largely by public school teachers and textbooks, said Mrs. Fisher.

"We do not realize what the industrial revolution is doing to our homes," she added. "We have, perhaps, just as many children in the American home, but a child no longer grows up in 'a big family.' The adults other than parents who used to make up the family circle are considered superfluous now.

"It is a fact, and I speak frankly, that old people are not welcome in the modern home, because they are looked upon as an economic liability.

"They can no longer work for their board and keep, as in the old days, making soap or caring for the newest baby. Even bedridden grandparents are no longer useful to hear lessons or tell stories from their vast storehouses of old-time narratives.

"Grandparents come 'to visit' now, and learn to know when the welcome is worn out. They do not become friends with their grandchildren. Gone is the easy companionship with the aged, when grandpa told the little ones stories of history in the making when he was a pioneer. Where will modern children get this sort of history?

"Where, may I ask, is Aunt Clara, the maiden aunt who wrote poetry or did china painting, or sang for her nieces and nephews? And Uncle Tom who understood the ways of wood creatures and taught the children the use of tools down by the barn? These aunts and uncles gave the young ideas abount things. They have been completely withdrawn from contact with children in the modern home. Aunt Clara is now the independent woman, well groomed, with a job and an apartment or room of her own.

"Old-time education, day by day shaping of children's character by the adults of the large family, must now be incorporated in the schools, libraries, and summer camps if the children get it. The old method meant spontaneity; the new one, regularity in education."

It is up to the teacher, Mrs. Fisher concluded, to foster in the schoolroom the idea of group living. There is no turning back, she said, to the old way of family life, for modern industry has changed all that, and thus is responsibility for character building placed more and more upon the school.

New Necklace Trick Boon to Pearl Lovers

Long Ropes Fitted with Special Clasps.

BY RHEA SEEGER.

Information for the pearl collectors! Only those who have struggled at a late hour with an endless rope of pearls thoughtlessly but effectively wound around the tonsils earlier in the evening will know what some new sixty inch ropes fitted with clasps are going to mean.

The slick new trick is this. A tiny, almost invisible clasp decorated on both sides, so that it doesn't matter what side shows, is hidden among the pearl beads. Undoing this slide or clasp you can wind and wind till you are satisfied with the results, snap the slide together and go on your way. Hours later, when sleep glues your eyelids together, you do this trick backward in record time and bless the chap who thought of this bright but simple idea.

Also, since white touches of anything mean spring, and since a lot of us can produce enough white collars and cuffs to last through a week, the shimmering pearl costume jewelry is better than ever.

See the newest bracelets, carelessly wound affairs with double faced clasps, the multistrand numbers made of very small pearl beads attached to a long slab of rhinestones that forms the clasp.

Or see the newest necklaces of two and three strand graduated pearls in a flattering length that is a bit longer than the choker and not quite as long as regulation necklace length of former fashion. Pearl earrings that clip on the ears in all sizes are among the best of the earring collection.

There is a distinct difference between the pearls for daytime clothes and the pearls for evening wear. Daytime models have clasps of bigger pearls, or are combined with transparent prystal, while the evening jewelry is utterly lovely with tiny rhinestones or set with beads of contrasting color such as emerald green, sapphire blue, and stunning effects with ruby red.

Fashion photograph . . . new costume jewelry that doubles for collars and cuffs that go to the tub. This spaghetti set of white composition is as new and attractive as it is effective against all dark wool and silk daytime clothes. Available in a Chicago shop.

Keep Away from Water

By Alice Campbell.

SYNOPSIS.

Sarah MacNeil, young American living in London, accepts the hazardous though thrilling post as traveling companion to Miss Christine Venables, prim, kindly and wealthy, who has been receiving letters that cannot be traced, threatening her life. Miss Venables spends most of the year at Ste. Brigitte, a small resort in southern France. Her nephew, Harry, is to join her there soon. With Miss Venables in London is her widowed sister-in-law, Mrs. Mark Venables, Harry's stepmother. She is in poor health and Miss Venables has Dr. Gilcrest, her Ste. Brigitte physician who is visiting in London, prescribe for her. Dr. Gilcrest treats Sarah with cool aloofness, though she and Harry immediately become friends. That night Mrs. Venables dies. Her death is attributed to natural causes. On the way to Ste. Brigitte Miss Venables tells Sarah that the death threats began after her friend, Major Frampton, was killed in a fall down an elevator shaft. She believes he was murdered. She and the major were both threatened by two oriental drug sellers they had had prosecuted. Miss Venables' particular friends in Ste. Brigitte, besides Dr. Gilcrest, are the Baron and Baronne Henri de Bellesnaves, Beryl Tomlins, town librarian and harmless gossip, and a few old residents of the resort hotel. Sarah gathers that Dr. Gilcrest is in love with the baroness. Harry arrives. The evil looking gardener of the De Bellesnaves arouses Sarah's suspicions. Sarah calls to get a prescription of Miss Venables' from Marjory Barrows, Dr. Gilcrest's dispenser, and finds Beryl Tomlins there. Sarah goes home with Miss Tomlins, after they both get the capsules they came after. Miss Tomlins gets a stomach attack. Dr. Gilcrest is called, but she is dead before he arrives. Sarah goes to return a bracelet which the baroness had dropped at Miss Venables.

INSTALMENT XXVII.

A PANIC OF FEAR.

On the path to the private beach, the thought of the photograph tended to eclipse the really important revelation culled from her interview. Sarah knew that if she had displayed the wrist watch Marjory would have hotly denied that Gilcrest could be the donor—and indeed it did seem fantastic that he could have squandered eight or ten thousand francs at a go on a bubble of this kind; but would these arguments have touched the main issue? Bimi might have a rich lover in Paris, with the doctor here as her amant de coeur.

Her musings were arrested by a pathetic sight. She had come upon the boathouse, through the gaping door of which she beheld the Baron de Bellesnaves, a hunched and dejected figure prone on a dilapidated cane settee. Asleep—but the twitching lips, the sparse lashes moving against the withered cheeks spoke of unhappy dreams.

Wedged against the door was the big stone Marjory had mentioned. No, it would take a strong gale to displace that. The thing did look queer. . . .

She tiptoed past and entering the choked path soon lost herself in semi-tropical growth into which the suns scarcely penetrated. All about her were budding oleander, feathery tamarisk and festooned creepers starred with crimson blooms; the air was close and fragrant as a hothouse. Here and there, almost buried in foliage, was a leaden cherub or a dusty bench. Once she came on a small fountain, a stone dolphin in the center spouting water into a basin green glazed with frog's spawn. An enchanting wilderness in which to loiter and explore if the mind were free to enjoy it, and even as it was Sarah made frequent halts to sniff the honeyed scents or gaze back at the sapphire patches of sea through gaps in the trees.

Suddenly she stopped, her heart in her mouth. What was this—a child's grave? Half in horror she stared at the mound of freshly turned earth neatly encircled with plants, then broke into uncertain laughter. Polly's, of course! Old, snuffling eyesore of a Polly laid to rest beneath primroses and violets! Ridiculous—and sad. Here, in the mound, she saw the imprint of the master's shoe, and beside it a smaller depression of a toe and heel, showing that the baroness had helped with the task. . . .

A rustle of leaves drew her eyes to a path ahead. There, just emerged from the thicket of rhododendrons, stood a swart figure in a workman's blouse so drenched with sweat as to reveal the powerful chest muscles to which it clung. Demosthenes—familiar, malignant, watchful—and he was completely barring the way by which she had to go. In his hand was a sharp pruning knife.

The villa was yet far distant. She was alone with the creature—at his mercy, if he really wished to harm her.

"Lady look for house? See! Up there."

He pointed with a blackened forefinger, but did not move an inch.

"Thanks. I know the way."

As she pressed against the reeking body to get past panic seized her lest the knife be driven into her back; but no, she was safe, and though she could feel him looking after her as she almost fled towards the terraces he made no attempt to follow. Now she reviled herself for her absurd cowardice. It must be the two successive shocks this week had contained which had left her so unstable; all the same fright had reduced her to so quivering a state that she knew she would not again venture about these grounds unaccompanied.

The blue hydrangeas looked wilted, the long façade of the villa lay blistering in the glare. No one answered her ring, and she was frowning up at the shuttered windows and wondering what to do when from the left wing of the building she caught the low rumble of a man's voice, indistinct, as though a pipe were held between the teeth, and hard upon it a peal of silvery laughter. The baroness was entertaining a caller in the serre of evil associations—and with the vision of the photograph clearly outlined before her eyes, Sarah had little doubt who the caller was. Perhaps—detestable thought!—he chose the siesta hour, well knowing the baron would be dozing in the boathouse, and the servants, according to habit, roaming at large. Her cheeks burned as she tried to stamp out her own fatuous delusion, telling herself that even while she was reading tender meanings into Gilcrest's glance his one preoccupation had been to keep his clandestine appointment here.

Should she turn back? No, it would be too difficult to explain matters to Miss Venables. Still, as she rounded the corner of the terrace, she paused, unable to go on, and it was this momentary halt which gave her the chance to witness, unobserved, a bizarre little scene taking place within the greenhouse. Past the row of windows Mme. de Bellesnaves was parading with strides long and ungainly yet curiously mincing. Perched on her head was her husband's battered old Panama hat, a raffia bag dangled from her arm, and her free hand, stiffly upright, supported some object evidently intended to represent a lorgnette through which she near-sightedly squinted.

It was but a glimpse, for a rapturous guffaw brought the performance to a close. The actress, soft and supple, again, swept off her grotesque headpiece, stretched her bare, brown arms with a catlike grace, and turned her livid, laughing face in the watcher's direction. She gave a start. For one instant the scarlet lips rounded in transfixed astonishment, then uttered a cry of welcome slightly too shrill to sound genuinely pleased. There was a little rush, and Sarah's arms were seized with an impetuosity which caused their owner to wince.

A quick glance round. "But why did you not at once join us? You have but this moment come? Ah, I see! You rang and got no reply. Pah, those execrable servants. No matter, you have found me, basking in the sun, and entertaining—but look, see who is here."

Her voice tinkled like ice in a glass. For all the fireworks display of hospitality there was no pleasure in it, but Sarah, half led, half pushed into the serre, had no choice but to enter. Out of the green blur spread before her sun-dazzled eyes she made out a table with bottles and a siphon, and behind it a long, lithe figure just risen from the depths of a canvas chair, and wiping the warm moisture from his sunburned face.

She stared at him, nonplussed, then immeasurably relieved.

"Why Harry! It's you!"

"And whom, pray, did you expect to find?" retorted Mme. de Bellesnaves, bantering but a trifle snappish. "I can assure you there are few men who would dare invade my privacy at this hour!"

Harry looked sheepish.

"I apologize," he said humbly. "You see"—turning to Sarah—"when I got to Hyeres everybody was out, and that left me at a loose end, so I took a chance and barged in here."

The baroness made a moue at him. It was a bit puzzling to reconcile the recent hilarity with her present very real irritation—and had that late scene meant what to one person's horrified eyes it had seemed to mean? Harry, at least, could have put no such interpretation on it, but then he was not exactly quick-witted. Whatever the case, the atmosphere of the serre was uncomfortably strained. Sensing it, Sarah hastened to get her errand over and depart.

"Your watch," she said, laying the jeweled band on her hostess' lap. "Weren't you worried about it? We found it stuck down in the sofa."

"That!" cried the owner in contempt, almost annoyance. "But do you mean to say you've given yourself this long walk in the sun to bring it back to me? You are exceedingly good, but really you should not have troubled."

A Friend in Need

Entire Family Needs Apparel.

The R. family manages to struggle along on Mr. R.'s wages, which are extremely small, since he works only a few days each week. As far as food and shelter are concerned, they have been able to manage without charity of any kind, but the problem of clothing is a difficult one. The entire family needs apparel, which they are unable to purchase. Their needs consist of school dresses, size 10, for their daughter, women's clothing, size 40, and a man's suit, size 34. Can you supply any of these things?

Widowed Mother Requests Buggy.

Mrs. A. D. has been a widow since last July, when her husband was killed in an accident. She has four small children and, since the time of Mr. D.'s death, she has been given food and shelter by a relief organization. Her 10 month old baby has rickets and the doctor is anxious that she have plenty of fresh air and sunshine. With three other youngsters in the family this will be impossible, unless some reader is able to supply a baby buggy.

So Few Parties Will Be Held in City.

begins. The three of them either will remain in New York or go to a resort. Miss Tayloe Hannaford, the Foster H. Hannafords' petite daughter, hasn't decided what she will do for her vacation.

Miss Harriet Daughaday, a Smith student, will spend part of the holiday with a classmate in New Jersey and the other half with her uncle, Louis Hurtle, in Fairfax, Va. She may even go as far south as Florida. The Smith holidays begin March 20.

Valeria Harris at Home Now.

Lovely young Valeria Harris, who will be making her formal bow to society next autumn, is having an extra long vacation from college, for she came home last week to avoid catching chicken pox, an ailment she did not have as a child.

She is a freshman at the Mount Vernon seminary's junior college in Washington, D. C., and according to present plans she will combine debut festivities and a college course. The date is not set but she and her mother, Mrs. Hayden B. Harris, already have decided that her debut will be a tea at the Harris home, 20 Cedar street. Miss Harris will return to college early in April.

The Ernest Ballards' household in Winnetka will be gay the end of this month when the two eldest daughters of the large family arrive for their spring holidays from college. Elizabeth goes to Bryn Mawr and Susan to Vassar.

Women to Hear of Yale in China.

An interest in the work being done at Yale in China will draw together one hundred and fifty women this afternoon for tea at the Fortnightly as the guests of Mrs. Cyrus Bentley, Miss Naomi Donnelley, Mrs. Joseph E. Otis, and Mrs. Carroll H. Sudler. These four ladies have invited one hundred and fifty of their friends to come to the club at 4 o'clock to hear Dr. Francis Hutchins talk and to see moving pictures of the work done at the school, of which he is the acting director.

Dr. Hutchins, younger brother of the University of Chicago's president, Robert M. Hutchins, has been in this country since February, 1934, when he talked on "Present Conditions in China" before members of the American Friends of China in Chicago.

A Chicago resident who has a keen interest in the school in China supported by Yale university is the Rev. Theodore Carswell Hume, pastor of the New England Congregational church, for his father was president of Yale in China for many years. He will be one of the few men present at the tea this afternoon.

Tonight in the auditorium of his church there will be given the first of a series of Lenten lectures that young Dr. Hume has arranged, with the assistance of Mrs. James W. Rogers and several other near north siders who feel that lectures provide a pleasant and interesting way of spending Wednesday evenings during Lent.

Edwin Markham, 84 year old poet of pastoral life, will be the first lecturer in the series, the theme of which is "City Life and American Literature Today." Mrs. Arthur Bissell, Mrs. Tiffany Blake, Mrs. Mitchell D. Follansbee, Mrs. Louis Sudler, and Mrs. William H. Bush are some of those interested in the course.

Taylor 'Circus' Played Again by Orchestra

BY EDWARD MOORE.

This is one of the weeks when the Chicago Symphony orchestra is performing on its own behalf without the aid of a soloist. Incidentally it is performing its task uncommonly well, even though Conductor Frederick Stock found it necessary to expostulate gently with the audience yesterday afternoon over its atmosphere of sadness.

But sadness on either side of the stage line was quickly banished both by the program and the performances thereof. In the beginning there was the Bach Concerto in G major for strings, followed quickly by Goldmark's Symphony, "The Country Wedding." This is a work played by no other symphony orchestra in the country. It is difficult to understand why, because the work itself is a marvel of tunefulness and the performance a marvel of high spirits.

After the intermission Mr. Stock presented Deems Taylor's "Circus Day," first played a few weeks ago under the direction of the composer. The fact that it brings a comic element into music, one of the few works able to accomplish this end, is enough to make it a candidate for the permanent répertoire, and if this is not enough to win the ballot its uncommon cleverness of construction should do the rest.

The only way that it could be improved would be to put it on the stage as a ballet and let form and color make manifest what is indicated in the score. The final number was the Polka and Fugue from Weinberger's opera, "Schwanda, the Bagpipe Player," and this piece, though shorter, gives rise to the same comment as the Taylor work.

Leon Rosenbloom, pianist; Ruth Breytspraak, violinist, and Marjorie Livingston, soprano, joined forces in a recital program at Curtiss hall last night. Mr. Rosenbloom and Miss Breytspraak opened the program with Beethoven's Sonata in A major and closed it with Franck's Sonata in the same key, giving an excellently conceived and executed performance.

In a group of piano solos Mr. Rosenbloom indicated that he is a first class technician with a strongly individualistic manner of interpretation, excelling in the works whose lines of approach have been infrequently charted.

Here is a lovely cotton dress, designed as smartly and becomingly as an afternoon dress. The slanting line of the bodice gives a slenderizing effect, and the tiny vest and buttons finish it perfectly. If you make the long sleeves, and use one of the printed silk crêpes, you will have a smart dress for town wear.

The pattern, No. 2993, comes in sizes 36, 38, 40, 42, 44, 46, and 48 inches bust measure.

"THE GREEN BAY TREE."

THE CAST.

|---|---|
| Trump | Howard W. Rapport |
| Mr. Dulcimer | James Bradley-Griffin |
| Julian | Robin Thomas |
| Leonora Yale | Marion Hoffmann |
| Mr. Owen | Rex Ashdown |

BY CHARLES COLLINS.

Mordaunt Shairp's dramatic study of a theme that belongs in the field of abnormal psychology, "The Green Bay Tree," was a hit of the New York stage last season, but was regarded as too decadent to be sent on tour among the healthy minded provincials. The semi-professional Uptown Players, however, have undertaken to complete Chicago's education on this point, and are making the Chicago Woman's Club theater worth a visit this week.

The play deals with an elderly esthete's influence upon the young man whom he has informally adopted and reared in a state of luxury and artiness that recalls the poses and preenings of the Mauve Decade as reflected in the works of Oscar Wilde. Its tone, as well as the accents and rhythms of the talk, comes straight out of Wilde's volume of essays, cast appropriately enough in the form of Socratic dialogs, called "Intentions." It is a crisp and clever example of literate playwriting, handling its questionable theme with delicacy. The emphasis of the story is placed upon the influence of a life of luxury and idleness on the young man's character, and the sinister aspects of the situation enter into the dramatic conflict only as overtones.

James Bradley-Griffin acts the central rôle—Mr. Dulcimer, a middle aged Heliogabalus of London—with considerable skill. The young man named Julian [one of Oscar Wilde's favorite names, by the way] is played by Robin Thomas, a personable novice now serving his apprenticeship and learning rapidly. He is a promising rookie who needs, however, a period of training in a school of speech, for at present he is in the hot-potato-in-the-mouth phase of diction. Marion Hoffman, as the girl who wants to win Julian back to normality; Rex Hoffman, as the real father who eventually rids the earth of Dulcimer with a bullet, and Howard W. Rapport, as the esthete's sissy serving man, also have their good points.

The story of "The Green Bay Tree" has a parallel in major literature in the Vautrin-Lucien de Rumbempré novels in Balzac's "Comédie Humaine."

Woollcott Warns Against Government Control of Radio

Alexander Woollcott, radio columnist and gossip, dramatic critic and author, appeared last night before an overflow crowd of 1,400 persons at Thorne hall on the McKinlock campus of Northwestern university in the second of a series of university college lectures. He announced his subject as "The Invisible Newspaper" and then talked in a reminiscent vein about practically everything except his subject.

Woollcott sounded a warning, however, against government control of the radio, not because it would mean censorship, but because it would mean a product as "dull as dishwater." Bemoaning the fact that advertising is ruining many possibly worthwhile programs, he pointed out that constant repetition is making many phases of the radio a bore.

BY MARY MEADE.

The "before and after" fashion may have been slightly overworked in the advertising game, but as far as its possibilities in menu planning—why, the surface hasn't been scratched! Now some clever women probably plan the "after" type of meals all of the time. If you rate in this class it will be a waste of time to delve further into today's column. But if you're one of us unfortunates whose menus occasionally assume a doleful "before" appearance it's time to begin playing the game.

Begin by running over your tentative menus for the next few days. They may be carefully written out in your neat kitchen notebook, scribbled on some odd sheet of paper, or running around loose in your brain, but inspect them nevertheless.

The rules of the game say to visualize not only how those meals are going to taste but how they're going to look. If the mental picture doesn't satisfy you, get the old imagination to working and see if you can't think up some little transformations that will give those menus a "lift" to keep up the advertising vein of chatter.

Just for an example look at this menu. It's far from stimulating as it stands, yet a few minutes of thought can turn it into an interesting meal. Nothing needs be added outside of those standard supplies you probably have in the house, and the second meal is little more work and a great deal more fun to prepare. Here they are—the "before" and the "after":

Fried Pork Chops Mashed Potatoes
Stewed Corn Apple Sauce
Bread Butter
Sliced Canned Peaches Sponge Cake
Coffee

Nothing wrong with the taste of those foods, nicely prepared, is there? Yet see how much more exciting they sound (and will look) this way:

Prune Stuffed Baked Pork Chops
Baked Potatoes
Corn Fritters
Jellied Apple Lime Salad
Peach Cobbler Coffee

Lots more work, you say? Maybe a little, but thoroughly justified by the results, you're sure to agree.

While that menu was given simply as a pointed example, a couple of the recipes are entirely too good to be passed up. Here they are, the prune stuffed pork chops and the jellied apple sauce salad. The peach cobbler is nothing more than sliced canned peaches heated in their own slightly thickened juice and poured over rounds of sponge cake.

Prune Stuffed Pork Chops.

1-3 pound prunes
¾ teaspoon salt
1 cup coarse cracker crums
1 beaten egg
1 tablespoon boiling water

Pour several cups of boiling water over the prunes and allow to stand for five minutes. Drain, pit, and chop. Add the remaining ingredients, mix with a fork, and fill the pockets of the pork chops with the mixture. Brown the stuffed chops in hot fat in a skillet, pour in a half cup of water (or, better still, prune juice if you have it), and cook slowly for 50 to 55 minutes.

Jellied Apple Lime Salad.

1 cup boiling water
1½ cups apple sauce

Dissolve the gelatin in boiling water, add the apple sauce, and pour into molds. Chill and unmold on shredded lettuce. Serve with or without mayonnaise.

CONQUERING CONTRACT

By P. HAL SIMS

When you make a second round deductive double, you may presume considerably on the fact that your right hand opponent did not rebid his suit, but passed his partner's response of one no trump. That suit is probably only a four card suit; if a five carder, it must be pretty sketchy. If you have four cards in it yourself, headed by any honor, you need not fear their rebidding that suit. In fact, you may expect to hurt them more at two in the suit doubled than in one no trump; if you have less than this, then your partner is likely to hold that suit against them, and his holding in it may be the main reason why he passes your double. However, this may also be awkward for him in subjecting him to a double finesse or an end play. So I think you should have at least Q x x in the opening bidder's suit to protect your partner in the play of the defense. This will apply as much if the final contract is one no trump doubled as if it is two in the opener's suit doubled. With less than this in the opener's suit, you must have compensatingly greater strength in the other suits, so that you can be fairly sure that if your partner does pass your double, it will be because he has their suit well taken care of—there is not much else left for him to hold in order to justify his pass.

This Is How I View This Situation.

With a singleton or void in their suit, my hand must be pretty weak, because I did not make a distributional double on the first round, and it would then appear to me that they were worse off in one no trump than in two of their suit; so there would not be much inducement to disturb the no trump bid. These are delicate nuances, all dealing with a range of only about a trick in combined primary and secondary form. These are advanced bidding inferences and treatments, not rule of thumb system yardsticks for defensive bidding procedure.

Examples to illustrate the line of reasoning are given below. Do not take them too rigidly, as you must always be influenced, in defensive situations at least, by what you know of your opponents and their system; also by their card playing proficiency.

I am East. The bidding has been:
North, one heart.
East, pass.
South, one no trump.
West, pass.
North, pass.
With

Sp.—A x Di.—K 10 x x
Ht.—Q 9 x x Cl.—Q x x

I double because I can take care of the heart suit and can handle any lead my partner may make if the hand is played in one no trump doubled. Take away the queen of clubs and I would pass, as the defense might well be lost by a club lead, which is likely to be my partner's natural lead. I would need some compensating card in spades or K Q J x in diamonds to double with x x x in clubs.

With

Sp.—A x x Di.—K 10 x x
Ht.—Q x x Cl.—Q 10 x

I would double, hoping my partner could leave it in, as I am well prepared to carry through the line of play he may initiate by his opening lead. If his "business pass" rests mainly on hearts, sight of dummy will tell me how to play the hand right through.

I would double, as I can stand it if my partner passes or if he bids. In the former event he is marked with considerable heart strength, and any lead he makes will be perfect for my hand; we can start knocking out the protective high cards at once in no trumps, or shortening declarer in trumps if he rebids hearts. Weaken this hand materially and I would pass, as I would not have the same inference on my partner's reasons for passing my double, if he could do so, and their no trump looks too good a contract for us to disturb.

I would double, gambling on my partner's having hearts for a pass, or else making a response which I could raise with some hopes of game, principally, of course, in spades. This hand is within a hair's breadth of justifying an immediate first round distributional double.

Child Should Not Save All of His Allowance

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS

The only reason, to my mind, for giving a child an allowance is for the purpose of letting him learn to use money wisely. If, however, the first thing he is expected to do is to pop it into a little toy bank so that when he has enough he can carry it to the big bank, how can he learn to use it?

An allowance should not be given to to a child solely for the purpose of saving. It should be given to him for the purpose of using. If he saves it all for something which has no meaning for him, he has learned nothing at all.

This does not in the least mean that he will get no conception of the "saving" idea. After he has had the handling of his allowance for a while—no matter how small it may be—he will begin to discover this: that he may buy something he wants a great deal by going without something he wants only a little.

This general principle we want to keep in mind when giving an allowance doesn't absolutely exclude the idea of saving if you're set upon it. When a child grows older and he has learned how to use money he can begin to save on general principles, provided you make his allowance big enough to cover certain needs, and add enough for him to put aside for banking. This, however, is a minor consideration in the allowance question we are discussing and which we shall continue tomorrow.

"Allowances, or the Wise Use of Money," is a fully written booklet which may be obtained on receipt of a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Here is a quilt pattern which will make up beautifully in striped materials. Many of us have scraps that simply beg to be made up into such pieced blocks. Two colors of striped material and one plain material combine perfectly in a quilt made from the "Variegated Diamond" design. Twenty-one pieced and twenty-one plain blocks compose the coverlet.

Oil Treatment Insures Beauty of Permanent

Preparatory Care of Hair Is Important Factor.

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

It's getting on to permanent waving time, although the habit of the spring and fall permanent is coming to be pretty generally substituted by getting one when it is needed, regardless of season.

Nevertheless, I hear many women saying: "I must get a permanent now for my new hat." The psychology of the new chapeau being a general urge to refreshening, I assume.

The great beauty of our latter day permanent getting is the almost sure guarantee, when done by a skilled operator, that there'll be no frizz. Those old heads that used to emerge from the permanent with the promise that, in a couple of weeks, they'd look human again, were a holy fright, weren't they?

However, even today, one is urged to approach the big event of the permanent wave with a little preparatory hair work. One man I know, who gives a beautiful permanent, insists upon his clients getting an oil shampoo a week before the event. He's enthusiastic about the pine oil treatment. The pine oil is heated in the same way as the olive oil. Apply it to the head with the cotton balls or with the fingers, if you wish. Let it stay on as long as you can before the shampoo. Overnight, if you don't mind tying up the hair in a towel for the night.

He claims that this prepares the hair for a better permanent. Naturally, there is some drying of the hair in the waving process. The pine or olive oil treatment, within a week after the permanent, also is advocated. It's just one of those things that add a little more beauty to the waving job.

Before the permanent the better thing to do is to get the hair thinned out, tapered, and, of course, washed. In this tapering, the top layer of hair is left long, the cutting and cleaning out done from underneath. The hair should be about two inches long at the ends. Many women get the permanent first before the cutting and hair trimming, with the result that when they do get the wave they find they need a cut shortly afterward, and they cut into the permanented hair. The cutting and tapering first, I'm told by my informant, insures six to ten weeks' longer life for the permanent.

THROUGH THE LOOKING GLASS

Have you seen the new French lavender? It's a cologne you'll be completely mad about for more reasons than one. First of all for the scent, which can best be described as being a softer, less masculine version of lavender than some. Where most lavender is fresh and zestful, this seems a little more on the romantic side. Every woman we've submitted it to rhapsodizes about it.

You'll like the bottle, too; it's the most decorative sort of an accessory for your dressing table. The original, an antique of beautiful design, has been reproduced with consummate artistry. It is of frosted glass, with a long, narrow neck, and a fat round base encrusted with a design of small stars.

This bottle of French lavender is a personal possession you'll be happy to own, and if you're looking for a charmingly different gift for a woman who is ill or convalescing it will make a tremendous hit. We know, because we witnessed the raptures of a friend in the hospital when it was handed to her. A little of the lavender lotion applied to an aching brow is unbelievably refreshing. Sprinkling it on a handkerchief or using a few drops in the water with which the invalid's face is bathed will do wonders for dissipating the wretched tousled feeling that seems as much a part of a hospital stay as the thermometers that are eternally being popped into your mouth.

The maker of the French lavender is famous for his colognes; he is credited, as a matter of fact, with bringing those delectable lotions back to popularity. His lavender has been worked out with the greatest of care and is presented with fitting aplomb. If our praise means anything, we'd like to let him know that we think he's done more than live up to his reputation—he's surpassed himself.

And we think you'll agree when you see his latest offering.

5 lbs. in 1 Week OR NO COST

If you are pounds underweight — skinny, scrawny and can't seem to add an ounce no matter what you eat, read how this new easy way puts on pounds of solid flesh quickly. Gains of 15 to 20 lbs. in one month—5 lbs. in a week—are reported regularly.

Kelpamalt, the new mineral concentrate from the sea, gets right down to the cause of thin, underweight conditions and adds pounds of solid flesh by a "2 ways in 1" natural process.

First, its rich supply of easily assimilable minerals stimulates the digestive glands which produce the juices that alone enable you to digest fats and starches, the weight-making elements in your daily diet. And these minerals are needed by virtually every organ and for every function of the body. Second, Kelpamalt is rich in NATURAL IODINE—a mineral needed by the vital organ which regulates metabolism — the process through which the body is constantly building firm, solid flesh, new strength and energy. 6 Kelpamalt tablets contain more NATURAL IODINE than 486 lbs. of spinach or 1660 lbs. of beef. More iron and copper than 2 lbs. of spinach or 15 lbs. of fresh tomatoes. More calcium than 1 doz. eggs. More phosphorus than 3 lbs. of carrots.

Try Kelpamalt for a single week and notice the difference—how much better you sleep, how ordinary stomach distress vanishes, how firm flesh appears in place of scrawny hollows—and the new energy and strength it brings you. Kelpamalt is prescribed and used by physicians. Fine for children, too. Remember the name, Kelpamalt, the original kelp and malt tablets. Nothing like them, so don't accept imitations. Start Kelpamalt today. If you don't gain at least 5 lbs. in 1 week the trial is free.

100 jumbo size Kelpamalt tablets—four to five times the size of ordinary tablets—cost but a few cents a day to use. Get Kelpamalt today. Sold at all

BRUINS WIN, 4-1; 9TH GAME WITHOUT DEFEAT

CUBS TO SAVE BEST HURLERS FOR SOX SERIES

Pick Rookies for the Pirate Game.

BY EDWARD BURNS.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Avalon, Cal., March 12.—Another glorious day, a record or two in a row following days and days of Eskimo environment, today made the Cubs less eager for tomorrow's big getaway. Even so, it is expected that all hands will have their valises at the dock well before the steamer pulls out at 4:30 o'clock in the afternoon.

Hopes of taking the squad off Catalina Island 100 per cent sound were set back this morning when it was found that Bill Herman's bad cold of yesterday had blossomed into grippe over night and the young man was unable to leave his couch. Then, too, Tex Carleton was excused on account of having a misery in his collar bone. He is expected to be all right in a few days, however.

Workout Today.

The pulling stakes ceremonies tomorrow will not prevent the Cubs from taking a workout. Manager Charles John Grimm ordered all hands out for a 10 to 12 o'clock drill. Mr. Grimm, in revealing his plans for the four immediate baseball encounters at Wrigley field, Los Angeles, made it clear he will not show hostility toward the Pirates Thursday and Friday, but that he will pour the best he has at the White Sox on Saturday and Sunday.

Roy Henshaw will start the opener against the Pittsburghers, probably to be followed by Casey, and on Friday Roy Joiner will start, with Bryant or Kowalik sharing the chore.

Warneke for Sox.

Then things will be different against Jimmy Dykes' lads. Lon Warneke will start Saturday's affair and Larry French will finish. On Sunday Bill Lee and Carleton will seek to thwart the Comiskey bonecrushers.

Hartnett has recovered from the cold which kept him out of uniform during the intraclub games and will do most of the catching. In the absence of Herman, Capt. Woody English will play second base and bat second. The batting order will be Cuyler, lf; English, 2b; Klein, rf; Lindstrom, 3b; Stainback, cf; Grimm, 1b; Jurges, ss; Hartnett, c; Warneke, p; French, p.

Busy Week Ahead.

The Cubs' first visit to Los Angeles will be brief. The squad will leave for Sacramento at 6 o'clock Sunday evening, arriving in the California capital at 8:55 Monday morning. They will play Monday and Tuesday against Sacramento.

They will engage Oakland in Modesto Wednesday and in Oakland the following Thursday. Friday and Saturday they will play San Francisco, after which they go to Oakland for a Sunday morning game, returning to San Francisco for an afternoon encounter. Then it's a week in Los Angeles, two days in Santa Monica, and home.

SNAPPY DRILL OF SOX INFIELD IMPRESSES FANS

Hayes Sparkles Around Second Base.

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Pasadena, Cal., March 12.—The White Sox infield came in for a little attention during training drill today and the exhibition put on at the instigation of Manager Jim Dykes was most pleasing. Dykes himself, although a part of the infield, conceded that things looked pretty good and even the several hundred natives, brought out of their hiding places by the real torrid weather, applauded in a fashion that indicated they recognized snappy fielding from the ordinary variety.

Jack Hayes, in view of his various troubles last season, was the most interesting performer of the exhibition. He was all over the second base territory gobbling up various tricky grounders manipulated by Coach Jim Austin's fungo bat and was throwing from all angles. The showing just about dispelled any worry there might have been over the fractured thumb he suffered last Fourth of July or the operation to which he submitted for removal of a horn shaped bony growth from his right elbow.

Hopkins at Third.

The first infield was made up of Bonura at first, Hayes at second, Appling at short, and Hopkins at third. The latter job belongs to Manager Dykes, but he preferred to sit on the side lines for observation purposes, while the so-called regular layout was in action. After the first stringers had run themselves ragged in the summery atmosphere, Dykes relieved Hayes at second, Wright went to first base, Mauldin to third base, and one of the camp hangers on was used at short. Mauldin is the young fellow from Lafayette, La., team of the Evangeline league, and he undoubtedly will be farmed out for more experience.

The workout also included another real pitching exhibition by twirlers who will be paraded before the Cubs next Saturday and Sunday at Los Angeles. Four of them who did turns at curving and fast balling were Les Tietje, Vernon Kennedy, John Whitehead, and Lee Stine. Kennedy has a swell hopping fast ball and fair curve ball, but Stine's chief stock in trade is his curve. He still must learn how to control it.

Washington Hard to Fool.

Another feature of the day's drill was the hitting of Vernon George Washington, destined to be the left fielder. He apparently is hard to fool, at least until the curve balling improves. He hits to all fields and the report on him is that he is more of a line drive swatter than a producer of long fly balls. He is a mild casualty, having a bone bruise on his left thumb, but he did pretty well with his bat despite the handicap. Al Simmons also had another good day of swinging. The Milwaukee Duke is swinging with far more freedom than is customary for him in the early spring. It is because of his excellent physical condition.

By the end of the week Dykes may be ready to pass out bad news to some of the boys. There'll be exhibitions every day starting Friday, so there will not be much of a chance to work the rawest of the rookies. A couple of catchers, seven pitchers, one infielder and three outfielders must be shaved off the roster eventually. However, only a few will be peddled inside the next week. Some of them will be optioned out to clubs to whom the Sox are indebted.

Pirrone Knocks Out Misko in First Round

Talking It Over

[Copyright: 1935: By The Chicago Tribune.]

THERE are many points of contrast between Charley Grimm and his predecessor as manager of the Cubs, Rogers Hornsby, but none more striking than in the matter of arising. . . . Hornsby never gets up before 10 o'clock except on short train jumps and frequently sleeps until noon. . . . Grimm always is up at 6 o'clock and sometimes arises at 5. . . . Hornsby isn't lazy, but always has contended that burning muscles are built up during sleep. . . . Doc Humbury, the Dodgers' new trainer, carries a portable massage machine as part of his regular equipment. . . . Dutch sportsmen are betting that their new 15 year old swimming star, Miss Rie Mastenbroek, will beat Eleanor Holm Jarrett when and if the two meet in the Olympic games. . . . Eddie Goosetree, Detroit scout, who discovered among others Schoolboy Rowe and Tommy Bridges, spends 60 cents a day for newspapers. . . . He says he gets his tips on young players out of them. . . . Danny Farrar, 1934 Chicago Golden Gloves welterweight champion, averaged a B [84 to 94] for his first semester in the school of engineering at Duke university. . . . He has won five straight intercollegiate fights, three by knockouts. . . .

Every member of the Notre Dame football coaching staff is proficient in handball. . . . They rank as follows: Tom Conley, Chet Grant, Elmer Layden and Joe Boland. . . . The longest penalty inflicted in a Stanley cup playoff series was in 1927 when Hooley Smith, then with Ottawa, struck Harry Oliver of Boston in the closing minutes of the final game and was barred a month the following season. . . . Pittsburgh in 1906 won six consecutive shutout games. . . . New York, Boston and Philadelphia were the victims. . . . Wahoo Sam Crawford, old Detroit slugger, will umpire in the Coast league this year. . . . Masaji Kiyokawa, Japan's Olympic back stroke champion, is touring Australia. . . . ## BAER WAITS ON COAST FOR BOUT TO MATERIALIZE

Manager Gives Garden 30 Days to Name Foe.

Sacramento, Cal., March 12.—(AP)—Max Baer, heavyweight boxing champion, will remain temporarily in California until the current furore over prospects of a title match against Max Schmeling of Germany comes to a more definite head.

This was announced today by Ancil Hoffman, Baer's manager, who notified Madison Square Garden in New York that Baer was ready and willing to fight this summer against any opponent who might be named.

The champion's contract with the garden, Hoffman explained, provides that the New York company name a suitable opponent within 30 days of such notification.

"What we are doing is putting the garden on the spot," declared Hoffman. "Now they will have to name some one for Baer to fight and do it soon."

Two Likely Challengers.

The two most likely challengers for a bout with Baer are Primo Carnera and Schmeling, both ex-champions and both beaten before by the present title holder.

Hoffman indicated that if the garden fails to live up to its agreement, he will take his argument before the New York boxing commission and possibly ask that he be released from the contract.

"Baer," said Hoffman, "would like to have two fights this summer. He wants to meet some one, probably Primo Carnera, in New York this June and then go to Germany for a bout with Schmeling in August. Unless the Garden hurries up, we will not be able to go through with these plans."

Hoffman received another cable today from Walter Rotherberg, who promoted the Schmeling-Steve Hamas fight in Hamburg last Sunday, offering Baer a guarantee of $250,000 and a percentage to meet Schmeling. Hoffman hinted that he would be in no rush about accepting the Rotherberg offer, pending word from the Garden.

"We want to know what the Garden will offer us in a defense match, and if the proposition is not to our liking we will move some place where it is," he said.

Delay Trip to Chicago.

Hoffman and Baer had planned to leave tomorrow night for Chicago, but the manager said he had postponed the trip until the Garden can reply.

While Hoffman was discussing these business angles, Baer went before the California assembly to make a personal request for the passage of legislation which would permit 15 round fights. The present California law limits decision bouts to 10 rounds.

ZACH TAYLOR MADE MANAGER OF READING CLUB

Orlando, Fla., March 12.—(AP)—Bob Quinn, general manager of the Brooklyn Dodgers, today announced appointment of James W. [Zach] Taylor as manager of the Reading, Pa., team of the New York and Pennsylvania league.

Taylor, although working out with the Dodgers here this spring, was not connected with the team until his appointment today. Reading is a Dodger farm.

Taylor broke into the National league as a catcher with Brooklyn in 1920. He has played with the Braves, the Giants, and the Cubs. In 1933 he was released by the Cubs and signed with Syracue of the International league.

Last season he was signed by the New York Yankees and used as a warmup catcher, but was made a free agent in the fall.

Operate on Joe Sullivan, Irish Captain

New York, March 12.—[Special.]—Joseph Sullivan, captain-elect of the Notre Dame football team, underwent two operations and two blood transfusions this afternoon at the New York Medical center, where he is seriously ill as the result of complications which followed a previous operation for mastoiditis. His condition was reported as very grave.

Sullivan, a star athlete and highly popular at South Bend, was brought here on a stretcher last week. Up until last night his physician, Dr. Joseph E. J. King, hoped another operation might not be necessary. Dr. King consulted with other doctors at the hospital this morning regarding Sullivan's condition.

Sullivan's illness has caused great concern among his many friends at Notre Dame and the entire student body is offering special prayers and making novenas for his recovery.

ST. LOUIS RALLY BEATS DETROIT RED WINGS, 3-2

St. Louis, Mo., March 12.—(AP)—Three seconds was long enough for the Eagles to change a defeat into victory tonight as they overcame a one goal deficit in the final period to whip the Detroit Red Wings, 3 to 2.

The Eagles fell behind in the second when Lewis scored for Detroit. Then, after plugging along for nearly 15 minutes of the final period the Eagles changed the entire complexion of the game.

Frank Jerwa bounced the tying goal at 14:50 to make the count 2-2 and before the yell of the fans had faded Lamb sent the winning goal home at 14:53.

Detroit's first goal came in the opening frame, as Johnny Sorrell converted a speedy pass play from Syd Howe, former Eagle, and Eddie Wiseman. The Eagles' continuous rushes were rewarded 10 minutes later when Asmundson knotted the count at one all.

INCREASE LEAD OVER HAWKS TO FIVE POINTS

Rangers Beaten by Canadiens, 4-3.

Boston, Mass., March 12.—(AP)—The hard-driving Boston Bruins moved another step nearer their goal, a first place play off berth, by defeating the New York Americans, 4-1, in a listless National league hocky game tonight at the Boston garden. This success ran the Bruins' string of undefeated games to nine.

The victory enabled Boston to increase its lead over the idle second place Chicago Blackhawks to five points, or two and one-half games. The New York Rangers failed to overtake the Hawks by losing to the Canadiens, 4 to 3.

Beattie, Stewart Score.

The Bruins were checked until late in the opening period. Beattie's first scoring shot came at 15:40 and, less than two minutes later, Stewart clinched the game with his initial tally. ## CANADIENS, 4; RANGERS, 3

New York, March 12.—(AP)—The Montreal Canadiens showed a speedy, well timed attack tonight to defeat the New York Rangers, 4 to 3, in a game that was considered a "preview" of the third place National Hocky league playoff series. The defeat virtually condemned the Rangers to third in the American division. The Canadiens are definitely settled in that position in the international group.

A solo rush by Tony Savage while the Canadiens were short-handed in the second period was the deciding play after they had raced through a speedy first period with the count at 2-2.

The Rangers tied the score again late in the third period when Bill Cook climaxed a gang play with a fast shot, but Aurel Jolliat quickly netted the winning goal for Montreal. The other goal getters were Leroy Goldsworthy and George Mantha of the Canadiens and Cecil Dillon and Charley Mason of the Rangers.

CANZONERI OR WOODS MAY GET AMBERS AS FOE

Stadium Plan Would Clear Way for Ross Bout.

Chicago Stadium officials announced yesterday that an effort is being made to sign Lou Ambers of Herkimer, N. Y., for a match with the winner of Friday's Stadium bout between Tony Canzoneri and Chuck Woods. The next available fight date at the west side building is April 12, and if the proposed encounter is closed it may be held at that time.

This is interpreted as a move on the part of the Stadium to develop an outstanding lightweight to oppose Champion Barney Ross in a title scrap in Chicago this summer.

Canzoneri believes he is the one the champion should fight and is willing to do anything to attain his objective. This belief is shared by hundreds of fans, many of whom saw Tony lose the crown to Ross at the Stadium June 23, 1933, and then fail to regain it in a return match at New York three months later.

Expects to Turn Tables.

The veteran New York fighter lost a ten round decision to Woods at Detroit recently and that's how the latter got into the championship picture. Canzoneri contends the worst he should have received was a draw and he is supremely confident of evening the score when they meet again.

One of the hitches in the plans to have Ambers fight the Canzoneri-Woods winner and clear the way for a No. 1 challenger is the fact that Davey Day, lightweight stablemate of the champion, is not mentioned, and Manager Sam Pian says Ross' next title opponent must eliminate Day first. Day got into the limelight by his conquests of Frank Sagilio and Bobby Pacho.

Good Supporting Bouts.

One of the best supporting bouts on Friday's card is the ten round fight between Frank Sagilio, Cicero slugger, and Wesley Ramey, Grand Rapids, Mich., boxer. Then there is the third ten round contest involving Mike Belloise, New York featherweight, and Varias Milling from the Philippine Islands.

Jerry Mulcahy, Heniff's gymnasium featherweight, who lost to Andy Scrivani in the semi-final round of the Golden Gloves tournament recently, will appear in a feature bout tonight at Community Recreation center, 4711 West Madison street. His opponent will be Verne Patterson, Central A. A. U. champion. Al Van Den Bosch, Golden Gloves semi-finalist in the middleweight class, will fight a suitable opponent in another of the eight contests.

An amateur show will be presented tonight at the 124th Field Artillery armory, 52d street and Cottage Grove avenue. Howard McConnell, 33d Division lightweight titleholder, will clash with Danny Villa in a feature match. . . . Jimmy Bidwill has been appointed boxing instructor at St. Philip High school for the third consecutive year, the Rev. V. J. Murray, St. Philip athletic director, announced yesterday. . . . Johnny Coulon, former bantamweight king, will attempt to lift several boxers and wrestlers at a west side theater tonight. . . . Art Sykes, the Elmira heavyweight, yesterday went two rounds each with Johnny Pacek, Jack Kranz, Al Diamond, and Rusty Fields in preparation for his ten round rematch with Al Ettore at Minneapolis Monday. . . . Diamond will head for Minneapolis tomorrow for his scrap with Jack Gibbons on the same card. . . . Bob Davey, Mount Clemens, Mich., light heavyweight, is in town. . . . Roy Lazer, Paterson, N. J., trained yesterday for the first time since he had his tonsils removed more than a week ago. . . . Johnny Phagan, Chicago, and Frank Battaglia have been signed to meet for ten rounds at Pittsburgh March 25.

Hanford Rides 2 Winners at Tropical Park

Miami, Fla., March 12.—[Special.]—Mad Beth gave Jocky Carl Hanford a double at Tropical Park today and snapped a succession of three winning favorites when she got home a half length in front of Dark War, public choice in the fourth. Hanford's first winner was Fred Almy which began the day auspiciously for the form players.

Mad Beth is the Mad Hatter filly which was acquired from W. B. Miller by the B. B. Stable whose colors she bore today. Responding nicely to Hanford's urging she got home first in a drive to return $24.80 for $2. Dark War was one of the best played favorites of the afternoon but the best he could do was to take the place from Idle Along by a half length.

Prince Drake Tires in Stretch.

Twelve started in the six furlong test. Prince Drake was second choice. He flattered his backers by setting the early pace. Mad Beth was in close pursuit with the favorite not far away. Prince Drake tired from Mad Beth's forcing tactics and was a beaten horse in the stretch.

Hanford had to keep busy with the B. B. color bearer for she tired also, but was game enough to hold off the late rush of Dark War. Idle Along closed ground to be a fast going third. The time was 1:13 for the six furlongs over a fast track.

Good Cheer, owned and trained by J. V. Stewart, was winner of the fifth at $19.60 for $2. Here E. R. Bradley's Blessed Again was the favorite, but she never menaced the leaders. Good Cheer was handled by the veteran Joe Renick who waited off the pace set by Incommia and then came on with a rush to open up a big lead in the stretch.

RECORDS PERILED IN ARMOUR TECH TRACK CARNIVAL

Pittsburgh, Notre Dame Enter Teams.

Individual performances in the forthcoming seventh annual Armour Tech relays, to be held at the University of Chicago fieldhouse Saturday night, are likely to outstrip the achievements of Big Ten track athletes in the 25th conference meet last week.

Stars from as far east as Pittsburgh and west to Kansas are entered in the rapidly growing Armour meet. To date 13 institutions in the University class, including six conference schools, and 16 in the college class, have entered men.

Pitt Sends Team.

The University of Pittsburgh, which won the Central Intercollegiate championship at Notre Dame last Saturday, and Notre Dame and Michigan Normal, second and third respectively in that meet, have entered teams, as has Kansas State, winner of the Big Six title.

Among the men who seem certain to turn in better performances than those in the Big Ten meet are four whose efforts in the Central Intercollegiate meet were outstanding. They are Capt. Vincent Murphy, Notre Dame high jumper, who is threatening the world's record and who leaped 6 feet 7½ incres last Saturday; Abie Rosenkrantz of Michigan Normal, who set a new intercollegiate meet record of 1:55.1 in the half mile; Ray Sears, who ran the mile in 4:18.4, and Lloyd Siebert of North Central, who vaulted 13 feet 5⅝ inches.

Nineteen Events Scheduled.

Nineteen events are sheduled, seven exclusively for competitors in the college class, seven in the University class, and five open to both, the latter events being the high jump, pole vault, shot put, half mile run and mile run. The 70 yard dash, 70 yard high hurdles, 70 yard low hurdles and 440 yard run will be run in separate sections for colleges and universities. Each class will have its own one mile and two mile relay event, the University class will have a distance medley relay and the college class will have a sprint medley relay.

Among yesterday's entries was Steven Wonsowitz, Ohio State pole vaulter, who was second in the Big Ten meet. Irving Seeley of Illinois, who won the conference title at 13 feet 4 inches, also entered. Wonsowitz vaulted 13 feet 6 inches in an extra try after the Big Ten event had been completed.

TRAP SHOOTING GOES ELECTRIC IN SKYSCRAPER

The sport of trap shooting has been elevated from outdoor ranges to the higher levels of a Chicago skyscraper.

Last night a trapshooting tournament was held on the twelfth floor of the Chicago Stock exchange, and nobody was killed. The "bullets" were electric rays which traveled at the rate of 186,000 miles per second at moving photo electric cell targets.

The guns of the new shooting range are handled and discharged the same as regular rifles or shotguns. The targets are mechanical ducks which move across a cabinet which is placed about 25 feet from the shooter. If the aim of the marksman is true when the trigger is pulled, the projectile of light from the gun will hit a photo electric cell in the center of the duck's body, the bird will fall and a hit will be registered automatically in an illuminated panel in the lower portion of the cabinet.

MOSTLY about DOGS

The Dachshund

Although that dwarfy, short-legged, long-bodied little canine "sportsmen" known as the dachshund has been the butt of humorists for many years, the thousands of dog fanciers who really know and are fond of this grand little dog do not mind very much for these very good reasons: The little "digger" is one of the most distinctive looking dogs in the world today and, more important, he has the charm of a dandy disposition, is intelligent, is plucky, and makes a delightful companion. They can poke fun all they want at the appearance of the dachshund, but nobody can divert attention from the fact that this breed has a lot to offer the dog fancier who wants a dog of great individuality and courage plus an affectionate nature.

There was a big group of dachshunds in the Westminster show held in New York last month. In fact, the group was so large that observers who watch the trends in dogs raised their eyebrows because this entry seemed to furnish a clew to the growing popularity of the breed.

There isn't any doubt that this breed is growing in popularity. And there are many reasons why more dog lovers are taking an interest in dachshunds. First he is a teachable dog. Moreover, the smooth haired dachs has a short, dense, shiny coat that makes him an ideal dog to have around the house. Another point in his favor is his energy. The dachs has been bred as a sporting dog for many years, so he likes to work. He's a rabbit or badger dog. You can train one to be a good companion around the house, but when the time comes to go to work in the field the dachs is thoroughly at home and enjoys himself immensely.

Naturally a dog of this type has a lot of character. As one might expect the dachs is quite assertive, but he does not make a nuisance of himself by being too noisy. He likes a close companionship with his master and gladly does all he can to contribute to that companionship. It is this desire to be a jolly companion plus his brains that should appeal to lots of dog lovers.

The dachshund is a fairly good example of how breeders can change a breed by selective breeding. For example, there is not only the smooth coated dachs [pictured last Sunday in the rotogravure section of THE TRIBUNE], but also a rough coated variety. This dog has a strong, wiry coat—acquired by a cross with rough coated terriers.

Then there is also a long coated dachshund developed by cross breeding. But irrespective of the coat of the dachshund, the breed has many commendable qualities which ought to make it very popular in this country.

YOUSIF CERTAIN HE WILL WIN FROM MARSHALL

Mehmet Yousif wound up hard training yesterday for his wrestling match with Everett Marshall at the Coliseum tomorrow night. Yousif said he will beat Marshall convincingly long before the 90 minute time limit has expired. He believes Marshall is made to order for his style of wrestling.

Having seen Marshall wrestle several times, Yousif knows his style and is certain that he has the answer to all the mat questions he can put forth tomorrow night.

PHILLIES POUND DIZZY DEAN IN HIS 1935 DEBUT

John Moore Hits Doubles with Three On.

Bradenton, Fla., March 12.—[Special.]—Jerome [Dizzy] Dean, who led the St. Louis Cardinals to the National league pennant and the world's championship last season, failed to flash his 1934 form as the Cardinals played their first game of the season by defeating the Philadelphia Phillies, 9 to 6, today.

Dean, who predicted he would have a better year with the Cardinals than last season, when he piled up 30 victories, pitched the first three innings against the Phillies. Three runs were scored against the world series hero, all in the third inning. He walked the first two men and Chiozza was safe on a scratch single, filling the bases.

Moore Steals Show.

John Moore, hard hitting outfielder, than cracked one of Dean's pitches for a double, which cleaned the bases. Dean was succeeded on the mound by Raymond Harrell and Dick Ward, who was obtained by the Cardinals from the Chicago Cubs.

A rookie stole the spotlight from Dean. Terry Moore, who spent the 1934 season with the Columbus American association club, a Cardinal farm, hit a triple in the first inning to score three runs. The Cardinals scored three other runs in the inning, all off Joe Bowman.

Harrell Hit Hard.

Euel Moore, Sylvester Johnson, and Curt Davis followed Bowman on the mound for the Phillies. The Cardinals scored their other runs in the fifth and seventh innings. The Phillies got to Harrell for three runs in the fourth, but were held scoreless in the remaining innings by Ward.

The Phillies, however, outhit the world champions, 10 to 8. Each club made one error. Score:

St. Louis [N.].........600 020 10*—9 8 1

GIANTS, 1; BROWNS, 0.

Joe Moore's scratch hit with the bases filled enabled the Giants to win. Manager Bill Terry used three pitchers against the American league club, Clyde Castleman, Frank Gabler, and Larry Benton. They yielded six hits. Blaeholder, Newsom, and Knott gave the Giants nine hits. Score:

St. Louis ...........000 000 000—0 6 0

DRESSEN IS HURT.

Tampa, Fla., March 12.—(AP)—Manager Charley Dressen of the Cincinnati Reds, became a training camp casualty today. A bat, slipping from the hands of Harlan Pool in batting practice, whacked Dressen across the head. Doctors said he apparently suffered no fracture, but planned an X-ray.

MACKS TAKE REST.

Fort Myers, Fla., March 12.—(AP)—Connie Mack's 1935 Philadelphia Athletics team—if it clicks—has at least five good years to go. An off day at the training camp today permitted a résumé, which shows the members of the squad who will probably be carried through the season, average 26 years in age—five below the 31 at which ball players usually slow up.

BERGER TO BAT 4TH.

St. Petersburg, Fla., March 12.—(AP)—Wally Berger, Boston Braves' hard hitting outfielder, has not done much this season, due to a sprained back and a blistered toe, but he assured Manager Bill McKechnie that he intended to be in the No. 4 hole, behind Babe Ruth, when the Braves open their long series with the Yankees here on Saturday.

CRONIN PLAYS SAFE.

Sarasota, Fla., March 12.—(AP)—Manager Joe Cronin wants the Boston Red Sox to win every one of its exhibition games but he is not going to take any unnecessary chances. As a result, Rick Ferrell, the ace catcher, and Max Bishop, veteran second baseman, will remain behind when the club goes to Miami tomorrow to open against the Giants.

Bishop has been going great guns of late.

SUHR SIGNS UP.

San Bernardino, Cal., March 12.—(AP)—Capt. Gus Suhr, the Pittsburgh Pirates' only holdout, signed today. He arrived unexpectedly this morning, announcing, "I couldn't stay away," went into a huddle with William Benswanger and Manager Pie Traynor, and signed his contract. After a practice game tomorrow the Pirates will open their exhibition schedule Thursday with the Chicago Cubs at Los Angeles.

STEWART CALLS GRIFFITH.

Biloxi, Miss., March 12.—Pitcher Walter Stewart, Washington's only remaining holdout, called Owner Clark Griffith today from Crossville, Tenn., and asked permission to report. Griffith said he advised the hurler he could report and train at his own expense.

DODGERS GET REST.

TIGERS WIN, 2-0.

Lakeland, Fla., March 12.—(AP)—The Detroit Tiger regulars shut out the Yannigans today, 2 to 0, in seven innings. Lynwood [Schoolboy] Rowe, Elden Auker and Pete Fox played with the Yannigans. Clyde Hatter and Vic Sorrell held the Yannigans to four scattered hits, including a double by Rowe and a single by Millard [Dixie] Howell. Goose Goslin made two doubles.

Rowe was hit for four safeties and two runs in four innings.

WIND WORRIES YANKEES.

St. Petersburg, Fla., March 12.—(AP)—The whole Yankee squad resembled the "murderers' row" of a few years ago in batting practice today when a strong wind blew across the field to turn hits into triples. The fielders suffered accordingly, however, and Manager Joe McCarthy finally cut the drill short because of the bad playing conditions.

Ruth and 1936 Not Worrying Bill M'Kechnie

St. Petersburg, Fla., March 12.—(AP)—William B. McKechnie, manager of the Boston Braves, wants it made clear, once and for all, that he is attending strictly to the business of whipping his club into shape for the coming National league season, without word or fear as to what will happen by 1936.

The circulation today of reports that McKechnie had said Babe Ruth would not manage the Braves next year—as is generally anticipated—caused a flurry in camp, but drew a prompt and decisive reply from Manager McKechnie.

Calls It Ridiculous.

"It is ridiculous on the face of it as every one should know. In the first place it's not up to me to comment on what will happen next year. I'm not the president of the club. I'm the manager. I have a job to do this year. That's all I'm concerned with. Ruth is here to help me and play ball. He and I have a complete understanding about what we are trying to do now."

Ruth, under the three year contract he has signed with the Braves, has an understanding that he will take over complete charge of the team as manager in 1936, with McKechnie stepping up into the job of business or general manager.

All Set for 1936.

The Babe has a definite understanding with Emil E. Fuchs and Charles F. Adams, the president and vice president of the club. Fuchs has publicly assured Ruth there will be "no handicap" to his taking the manager's job next year. McKechnie is fully acquainted with all the details.

As Ruth remarked, "If they will just let Bill and me alone we will get along O. K. Let next year take care of itself."

INDIANS PLEASE EVANS.

New Orleans, La., March 12.—(AP)—Billy Evans, the Cleveland Indians' general manager, after a week in camp, today declared himself satisfied that the outfield will be "50 per cent better than it was last season," the pitching "tops," and the infield rejuvenated.

"The most pleasant surprise," he said, "is Roy Hughes. I think he's good enough to make Berger, Knickerbocker, and Hale hustle to hold their regular jobs."

REVISE PLANS FOR NATIONAL AMATEUR HOCKY

New York, March 12.—[Special.]—Revised plans for the staging of the national amateur hocky tournament were announced today by officials of Metropolitan association of the A. A. U., under whose auspices the sport is being conducted.

Although arrangements had been made about a fortnight ago to have the national playoff tournament on the nights of March 19, 20 and 21 in Madison Square Garden, the change announced by the A. A. U. retains these dates, but instead of the national playoff there will be an eastern sectional playoff.

In order to have a truly representative hocky team from the east meet the western sextet, it has been arranged to have a sectional play off among the Lake Placid A. C., the Lewiston Cyclones of Maine, the Boston Olympics, the Baltimore Orioles, the Connecticut H. C., the Metropolitans of New York, and a picked team of Metropolitan Hocky league players.

After the eastern sectional play off, fifteen players will be chosen to travel to Chicago to meet the western representative, the best composite team from among teams from Chicago, Duluth, Milwaukee, Minneapolis, and St. Paul.

After the east-west national series, the date of which has not been set, a squad of 25 players will be chosen to make up the Olympic team of 1936.

Oklahoma Prep Quintet Enters Loyola Tourney

Oklahoma yesterday became the latest state to be represented in the national Catholic interscholastic basketball tournament which starts at Loyola university gymnasium a week from tonight with acceptance of an invitation by St. Benedict High school, Shawnee, Okla.

The entry left the total at 22, a withdrawal having been received from Cretin High school of St. Paul, Minn., which was unable to finance the trip here. The state will be represented in the tournament by De La Salle of Minneapolis and Cathedral of Duluth, two of the outstanding prep quintets in the northwest.

Oklahoma's quintet will come here as the Catholic champion of the state with a record of 16 victories and one defeat. The loss was to the state public school champion.

Possibility of a second California entry was increased with the receipt of a request for an invitation from St. Elizabeth High school of Oakland, which tied for the championship of its league with Sierra High school of Hollister, Cal., which already has accepted its bid.

In the WAKE of the NEWS

WAKE MAIL BOX.

HOLLYWOOD, Cal., March 12.—Dear Wake: That fellow who wrote you professional baseball is on the decline is a foul ball. If baseball is overshadowed by some other sports in California, that does not mean the whole nation. Does California get so much of the government's "easy money" that it thinks it is the whole nation?

Now, in comparing baseball attendance with that of other sports, one must remember that baseball is played daily. It is not fair to compare one game with a big football contest, prize fight, or horse race, unless you take the world series, where attendance often is limited by the size of the park.

Horse racing is the only sport with a daily schedule. Baseball crowds daily are as large as racing crowds with Saturdays, Sundays, and holidays matching turf's big days. Over the entire season baseball, enjoyed in more cities than racing, will outdo the ponies.

If aggregate attendance be the guide, baseball still is our national sport and will continue so for anything I can see to the contrary. F. A. N.

"The Drunkard."

It was the 607th consecutive performance of "The Drunkard" that our party attended at the Theater Mart. Despite this long run, seats selling at $1.65 must be secured far in advance for the chummy little auditorium, capacity about 300, where the audience sits at tables where beer, pretzels, or coffee and sandwiches are served gratis by the management during the show.

"The Drunkard" dates back to P. T. Barnum's museum in New York in 1843, and the local setting, so far as possible, is a replica of that place. It is an exaggerated melodrama so done by a competent company as to be uproariously funny. In the "olio" following the show proper, the audience joins in singing of old fashioned songs led by the stage performers, subject to intimate interpretations and suggestions from those present. Other companies, we are informed, are enjoying similar success in eastern cities.

To the Sea!

I'm on a ship! I'm out at sea!
On a slanting deck where I long to be
With the blue above and the sea below
And somber silence where'er I go.

O, I love to sail! O, I love to ride!
On the roaring, smoking, bursting tide,
Where scudding trade clouds hide the moon

O, I never was meant for a shop on the shore,
I belong to her; she belongs to me.
When the great seas roll with all their might
When death comes around to visit me
I know it will be on the open sea!

Hawks Close Home Season with Detroit

The Blackhawks concluded their season's practice at the Stadium yesterday. The drill was held as a warmer-up for the last home game of the regular season tomorrow night. James Norris' Detroit Red Wings will furnish the opposition.

The Blackhawks leave for Boston after the game to meet the division leading Bruins Saturday night. Sunday they tackle the Rangers at Madison Square Garden and wind up the season at Montreal against the Canadiens Tuesday.

After the Canadiens' game, the Hawks return to Chicago for the Stanley Cup playoff games, which they hold. Their first opponents probably will be either the Maroons or Canadiens of Montreal. The first game is set for Sunday, March 24.

At yesterday's workout Manager Clem Loughlin looked over Frank Durham, a young goalie, who has been playing an outstanding game in the amateur leagues around Windsor, Ontario. Durham conducted himself well throughout a scrimmage, although he failed to stop five rushes by Morenz, Gottselig, March, Locking, and McFayden.

Northwestern university's football captains of past years who reside in Chicago will head a contingent of several hundred Wildcat N men, who will be on hand to greet Coach Waldorf and his assistants. The other new Purple coaches who will be the guests of honor are Burt Ingwersen, line coach, and Jack Vance, back field coach.

St. Mary's of the Lake basketball team, led by Yost and Wendt, won from the Hennepin Athletic club quintet, 35 to 15, in the third round of the St. Mel High school invitational basketball tournament on the St. Mel court last night. In two other games Epiphany defeated Immaculate Conception, 33 to 18, and McGee Boosters triumphed over St. Francis de Paul, 32 to 19.

Cleveland and Rambler Trios to Meet Saturday

In their first Metropolitan Polo league appearance since Jan. 19, the Cleveland Riding club trio of A. Z. Baker, Bill Fergus and Hank Evinger will oppose the Chicago Ramblers lineup of Maj. R. G. Hunter, Herb Lorber and Lieut. Steve Hammond Saturday night. The game will be played at the 124th Field Artillery arena at 52d street and Cottage Grove avenue.

Capt. Romeo Mura's Chicago Cardinals and Charley Roovaart's Lincolnshire Country club trios will meet in Saturday night's opener.

Midseason changes in player ratings show that Cleveland will ride for the first time as a 13 goal team. Each member of the trio has been advanced a goal, Fergus and Evinger now being rated at five goals each, Baker at three.

Maj. Hunter of the Ramblers has been reduced from four to three goals, but Lieut. Hammond has been raised from two to three. With Lorber still at four goals, the Ramblers will remain a 10 goal team.

Other changes in ratings affecting players in the Metropolitan league are Lieut. Don Rice, 124th Field Artillery, from two to three goals; Dave Silberman, Chicago Riding club, from one to two; Lieut. The Polish National alliance also has entered men in both relays and most of the individual events. Many former college and high school stars will compete unattached.

The Baby Ruths will play the Boston Store for the Chicago amateur championship tonight at the Stadium. The C. Y. O. All-Stars will face Postl in the opener for third place.

The Baby Ruths tied the score in the third period when George Arnold took Ed Nichols' rebound shot which glanced off Clem Poulin's chest and sent it into an open goal.

Murphy Twins Lead Victors to Prep Crown.

Tilden Tech, which last year failed in the final round for the heavyweight basketball championship of the Chicago Public High School league, made good in its second straight bid yesterday afternoon at Loyola university gymnasium in the presence of 4,000. Tilden, which lost to Lane Tech in the 1934 finals, captured the 1935 title by defeating Senn, north section champion, 33 to 24.

The Murphy twins, Chester and William, who played important rôles in leading Tilden to the final round, again were the individual heroes in the attack against the north section title holders. Chester contributed four field goals and one free throw, while William collected two baskets and three free throws.

Tilden Jumps Into Lead.

Tilden wasted no time in obtaining a comfortable lead in the first quarter. After the first two minutes of play, with the Murphy brothers sinking shots from all angles of the court, Tilden jumped into an 8 to 1 advantage. However, Senn broke through the Tilden defense toward the close of the period and when the whistle blew ending the quarter Tilden led, 9 to 7.

Norman Brown, tall 17 year old forward on the Tilden quintet, and the Murphys continued to score and kept Tilden in the lead during the second period. Senn made only three points in the session, a basket by Wallin, substitute for Malany, and a free throw by Read. A short shot by Brown gave Tilden an 18 to 10 advantage as the half ended.

Murphy Brothers Checked.

The Murphy brothers were checked by Senn guards during the third quarter, but the scoring duties were taken by Herman Badeusz, 190 pound center, who sank two baskets and two free throws. Brown also scored for Tilden and at the conclusion of the period the champions were out in front, 27 to 15.

In the final period Senn started a rally shortly after play was resumed and Buehling and Coyle each scored a field goal. However, Chester Murphy and Badeusz each sank a basket. Chester Murphy fouled Buehling, who made good on the free throw attempt and a short time later Coyle and Retchin each scored. With a minute left to play, Bill Murphy broke loose to drop in a basket.

Tilden Makes Thirteen Baskets.

Tilden Tech attempted thirty shots at the basket and was successful thirteen times. The champions tried ten free throws of which seven were good. Senn made good only nine of its twenty-nine attempts for field goals and made six out of ten free throws.

Parker will oppose Farragut in the semi-final round for the lightweight championship at White City this afternoon. The game will start at 4 o'clock. The winner will meet Roosevelt of the north section, defending champion, for the league title Saturday afternoon on the same court. Yesterday's lineup:

New York, March 12.—[Special.]—Acute weaknesses appeared in the domestic corporation group in the listed bond market today, with many issues losing from 1 to as much as 6 points, notably the lower grade rails. Holding company bonds in all groups, utility and industrial as well as railroad, were generally easier. United States government bonds closed generally easier.

Trading slackened somewhat on the decline, with the turnover amounting to $14,692,000, compared with $18,690,000 the day before. Transactions in United States government long term issues were $5,534,200 today, against $11,069,500 the day previous. Closing quotations on the government issues were down 16-32ds to up 2-32ds point.

The market did not appear to be much impressed by the filing of a suit in the Court of Claims seeking to restrain the government from redeeming "gold bond" issue with nongold obligations.

Corporate Issues Easier.

Most gilt edged corporate bonds were fractionally lower on moderate dealings, the list including four Union Pacific issues, Santa Fe general 4s, convertible 4½s and adjustment 4s; American Telephone debenture 5s and sinking fund 5s; Burlington refunding 4½s and the 4s of 1949, and most of the Pennsylvania bonds.

Further declines of 1 to 2 points in the lower grade of corporate bonds carried many of them through their old lows for the year. Weakness was noted in bonds of the Baltimore and Ohio, Chicago Great Western, Erie, Great Northern, New York Central, New Haven, Pere Marquette, and Southern railway. Notable exceptions to the trend included Utilities Power and Light 5s and 5½s, both of which improved on their old 1933 highs.

Utility List Also Lower.

Following the message of President Roosevelt to congress on holding companies, utilities securities declined. Among the heaviest losers in utilities were American and Foreign Power 5s, American Water Works 5s, Columbia Gas 5s, and Detroit Edison 4½s. Others declining included obligations of International Hydro Electric, Metropolitan Edison, New Orleans Public Service, and Tennessee Electric.

There was little activity in the foreign section. Bonds of the various countries attached to the pound sterling were a trifle higher, while South American issues were inclined to easiness.

Answer: Louisiana Oil Refining corporation is part of the Cities Service system, a subsidiary of Arkansas Natural Gas corporation. Oil lands and refinery are in Louisiana. Retail facilities of 150 bulk stations and 1,184 filling stations, as well as 3,000 dealer outlets, are in Louisiana, Arkansas Mississippi, Tennessee, Alabama, Texas and Oklahoma.

Gross revenues, after having contracted steadily since 1929, increased about 50 per cent during the first nine months of 1934 over the corresponding 1933 period. Gross was $11,274,000, against $7,506,000. Net result, however, was little changed. Net loss was $1,541,000, against net loss of $1,546,000 for the first nine months of 1933.

|  | Gross sales. | Net loss. | Loss per com. shr. |
|---|---|---|---|
| 1933 .. | $11,680,000 | $1,503,000 | $1.33 |
| 1932 .. | 12,393,000 | 1,964,000 | 1.68 |
| 1931 .. | 13,062,000 | 2,331,000 | 1.96 |
| 1930 .. | 18,030,000 | 1,330,000 | 1.19 |

The presence of $5,382,000 notes payable to affiliated company gave an unsatisfactory appearance to the Dec. 31, 1933, balance sheet. It brought current liabilities to $6,771,000, against current assets of $3,825,000. Profit and loss surplus was only $47,000.

There is no funded debt. Capitalization consists of 40,000 shares of 6½ per cent cumulative $100 par preferred and 1,309,069 shares of no par common. Nothing has been paid on the preferred for almost three years. Both the preferred and common are highly speculative.

BARTLETT BUYS OLD U. S. VILLAGE AT WORLD'S FAIR

Colonial Buildings Will Be Moved to Indiana.

BY AL CHASE.

Colonial Village, one of the leading attractions at the 1934 Century of Progress, was purchased in its entirely yesterday by the Robert Bartlett Realty company of Chicago, and will be moved to Beverly Shores, a 3,600 acre subdivision on the Indiana shore. It was stated that the cost of the entire operation, including original price paid the B-W Construction company for the buildings, the cost of dismantling, hauling and rebuilding them, will total approximately $150,000.

The buildings purchased include Mount Vernon, the Wayside Inn, the Governor's Palace, Paul Revere's House, the House of Seven Gables, Wakefield, the Benjamin Franklin House, the Village Smithy and the Old North Church. According to the contract signed with Joseph H. Beuttas, president of the B-W Construction company, which erected the Colonial Village last spring, workmen tomorrow will start dismantling the structures.

To Be Made Permanent.

Robert Bartlett, president of the Robert Bartlett Realty company, stated that all of the buildings will be rebuilt with permanent materials and made as substantial as possible. It is expected, he said, to have them completed by May and from the date of opening until fall they will be open free for public inspection.

All buildings but the Wayside Inn and the Virginia Tavern, which will be operated as restaurants, the Village Smithy, which is to be rebuilt adjoining Mr. Bartlett's log cabin home at Beverly Shores, and the Old North Church are to be sold for occupancy as homes.

The Wayside Inn and the Virginia Tavern will be rebuilt on opposite sides of Broadway, near its intersection with the Dunes highway. The rest of the village buildings will be scattered along both sides of Broadway.

Place of Worship.

The Old North Church is to be rebuilt in brick veneer and will be used as a place of worship for residents of Beverly Shores. Tentative plans call for it being conducted as a community religious gathering place, with various denominations using it in rotation.

This is the second large purchase of World's Fair buildings by Mr. Bartlett. Last November he bought six model homes and already has moved two of them to the Hoosier subdivision. The other four are to be taken across the lake on barges as soon after April 1 as navigation will permit.

JUDGE REJECTS BANKS' PROTEST IN INSULL SUIT

New York, March 12.—[Special.]—Judge Julian Mack began today in the federal court, over the protest of five New York banks and the General Electric company, to receive evidence concerning a complaint that they had conspired to obtain the assets of the Insull Utility Investment corporation during the four months before it went into bankruptcy.

The conspiracy complaint was reached in the second week of a suit brought by the Insull investors to recover approximately $30,000,000 from the New York lenders. Evidence received so far has concerned the complaint of the investors that the banks in 1931 allowed Samuel Insull to pledge the stock holdings of his topmost investment corporation in return for loans beyond the debt limit in his debenture covenant with the investors.

Today the evidence reached December, 1931, when Samuel Insull Jr., admittedly visited the New York lenders and informed them that the Insull Utility Investment corporation was at the bottom of its portfolio and that no more requests for additional collateral could be honored. He asked the lenders to let their loans stand without selling out the collateral they already held.

He's Master of His Own Time

NOTHING TO DO BUT ENJOY LIFE

THAT'S what we all look forward to. Travel—fish—hunt—golf—Florida or California in winter—Maine or the North Woods in summer. And to do all these things without financial worry. That's the reward you deserve for being thrifty now. The Fidelity thrift habit guarantees security, self-respect and influence in later years. You will live longer if you don't worry.

Will you be one of the FIVE men out of 100 who will be financially independent at the age of 65? Will you be among the 3% who accumulate $10,000 or more in a lifetime? Ever since 1911 the Fidelity Plan has been assisting thousands of people in all walks of life to create a cash estate through systematic saving. You do not have to be wealthy to provide a guaranteed reserve. You simply set aside a few dollars each month—as little or as much as you can spare.

Our successful business institutions survived the trying times of the depression because they had built up a reserve. It is just as necessary for you to provide a reserve for your future. Since 1911 Fidelity has paid contract holders more than $33,500,000. During 1934 alone it paid $3,577,276.86. It has resources of nearly $25,000,000.

Please let us tell you how some bright day you can quit work and live comfortably on your Fidelity income.

CORLEY CHOSEN AS MANAGER OF MARSHALL FIELD

Began as Stock Boy at $4 Per Week.

Frederick D. Corley was chosen as general manager of the Marshall Field & Co. State street store yesterday by the board of directors. He succeeds David M. Yates, who resigned as first vice president and general manager after forty-eight years with the company, but who retains his substantial stock holdings and continues as a director.

[Matzene Photo.]

The rise of Mr. Corey is strictly "from the ranks." He entered the employ of the company in the summer of 1900 as a $4 a week stock boy and has been with the firm continuously since that time. He then was not quite 18 years old. He has been assistant general manager of the store since 1915 and was elected a vice president of the corporation in 1926.

Another Veteran Promoted.

Charles C. Bunker, assistant merchandise manager, succeeds Mr. Corley as assistant general manager of the retail store and was elected a vice president. Like Mr. Corley, he has risen from the job of stock boy, starting work there with the company in October, 1897.

No first vice president was named to take the title held by Mr. Yates, although Mr. Bunker's elevation left the number of vice presidents unchanged, as all other officers were reëlected. Immediately before the board meeting all directors were reëlected at the annual stockholders' meeting.

Marshall Field and company's business to date in 1935 is "better than last year in a substantial way," John McKinlay, president of the concern, told the stockholders in answer to a question from the floor. But Mr. McKinlay declined to be led into a prediction as to when dividends on the preferred stock may be resumed.

Calls Times Uncertain.

"Much as I would like to," he said. "I do not think I can tell you more than you can read in the annual report. We are in a rather mixed-up period, and one thing I am trying to keep away from is predictions. We are working toward dividends as best we can, but I have no promise or date in mind."

Another of the 20 stockholders present asked Mr. McKinlay if he could tell her the reason the price of the company's stock dropped on the market. The president replied that he "would like to know, myself." He agreed to another suggestion that the stock looked cheap, and added that he had thought it looked cheap at 20. Yesterday's closing quotation was 7¼.

Of the 1,680,912 shares of stock outstanding, 1,160,775 or 69.1 per cent were represented by proxy. This was almost indentical with the representation a year ago.

Corley Born in Illinois.

Mr. Corley was born at Tower Hill, Ill., Dec. 19, 1882. Soon after starting in as a stock boy he entered the millinery department and occupied successive positions. He became assistant merchandise manager of the State street store at the same time he was chosen assistant general manager in 1915. Subsequently he rose to merchandise manager, too. Then followed his selection as a vice president.

Mr. Bunker went from stock boy to stenographer in the linen section, in which he soon became a salesman, and in 1913 was made assistant manager. The post of assistant merchandise manager was his in 1931. A year later he had merchandise supervision of half the store, and on May 15, 1934, he was given the supervision of the entire store under Mr. Corley.

RFC MAY TAKE ILLINOIS UTILITY UNDER CONTROL

John L. Hopkins, counsel for the RFC at Chicago, said last night that the placing of five RFC directors on the board of the Public Utilities Securities corporation would presumably be followed by similar additions to the boards of its subsidiaries unless a loan of about $57,000,000 due to the government is repaid.

The holding corporation controls the Utilities Power and Light company, which in turn controls the Laclede Gas and Light company of St. Louis. Hopkins was one of five men added to the holding company's board last week, giving the RFC a 5 to 3 vote.

"The RFC holds voting control of the parent company through stock put up as collateral by the Central Republic Bank and Trust company of Chicago for a $90,000,000 loan, and the RFC directors were placed on the board to protect that loan," Hopkins said. "The annual meeting of the Utilities Power and Light company will be held April 24 in Richmond, Va. I presume that if the loan is still unpaid at that time the RFC will place its representatives on the board of that company."

Predicts 10 Per Cent Rise in Illinois Farm Values

Champaign, Ill., March 12.—(AP)—A ten per cent increase in Illinois farm real estate values during the early part of this year was predicted today by Dr. Charles L. Stewart, chief in land economics at the college of agriculture, University of Illinois. He said that freer credit facilities, which have removed the pressure of forced liquidation, and reductions in taxes formed the basis of his opinion.

Borden Profit Lower; Blame Control Laws

Sales of the Borden company increased about 16 per cent in dollars during 1934 over 1933, tonnage sales rose about 8 per cent, and net income dropped 2.86 per cent, according to the annual report.

Sales totaled $215,723,659, against $186,301,203 for 1933, and net income was $4,490,045, equal to 2 per cent of sales and $1.02 per share of stock. This compared with net income of $4,646,444, or $1.04 a share, for 1933. Taxes paid during 1934 equaled 84 cents a share. These figures, according to Arthur W. Milburn, president, reveal "most unsatisfactory net income."

Blames Faulty Control Laws.

Although the year was for most divisions a period of progress, the fluid milk division was an exception.

"Here, as in the previous year," said Mr. Milburn, "faulty control laws with jurisdictional conflict of administration and continued breakdown of enforcement operated to create market confusion and practices of a nature that brought about the most unsatisfactory results so far experienced in this division of the business."

Working capital at the close of 1934 was about $2,000,000 ahead of the year before. Current assets, including $17,313,375 cash and $6,836,695 marketable securities at cost [which was less than market values], were $56,561,000 and current liabilities were $15,272,034.

Explains Change in Stock.

The report calls attention to the recommendation of directors to reduce the par value of outstanding capital stock from $25 to $15 a share. This would create capital surplus of $43,967,040, which would be partially used in writing down good will from $7,000,000 to $1, and in writing down properties by $21,955,449, representing the valuation of unserviceable assets and the difference between book value and a fair value today. Such a move, it is said, would reduce depreciation charges by $900,000 a year.

DOLLAR RESUMES UPTURN AGAINST FOREIGN MONEYS

New York, March 12.—[Special.]—Dollar strength was improved against all leading foreign currencies today with the British pound resuming its decline under pressure of heavy continental selling by falling 2½ cents to $4.74¼, while French francs lost ⅜ point to close at 6.64¼ cents.

With the franc at this level the dollar was worth 99.86 cents against francs, compared with 99.75 cents yesterday. The gold value of the dollar, based on the old parity of the franc, was 58.98 cents, against 58.92 on the preceding day.

The gold price was reduced 10 pence in London today, to 147 shillings 6 pence, as compared with the all-time high of last Wednesday of 149 shillings 4 pence. At the time of fixing the dollar equivalent was $35.15 an ounce, the lowest since March 1. Gold takings in London at the time of fixing were only £360,000, against £510,000 yesterday.

Sterling opened in London today at $4.76⅜ to the pound and closed at $4.74¼, off 3 cents.

UNION STATION PLANS TO CALL $16,000,000 BONDS

Redemption of Chicago Union Station company first 6½ per cent bonds of 1963 and their replacement with a 4 per cent coupon issue will soon be announced, it was learned yesterday. The move is being made to take advantage of the current high price at which the bonds are now selling, which at yesterday's close was 112½. The call for redemption on the next interest date, July 1, would have to be issued by April 1.

The 6½ per cent series C issue amounts to $16,000,000. It is callable only as a whole on any interest date at 110 of face value. The right of redemption started Jan. 1, this year, but under market conditions prevailing in the last quarter of 1934 the company deferred the call until refunding operations might be more favorable. At yesterday's closing of 112½ a minus yield would be created if the bonds were called for July 1.

HOUSE VOTES 1¾ BILLIONS MORE FOR HOLC LOANS

Short Attacks Rising Burden of Debt.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., March 12.—[Special.]—By a vote of 400 to 2 the house of representatives today approved an increase of one billion 750 million dollars in the lending power of the Home Owners' Loan corporation. The bill was sent to the senate.

The only amendment adopted provided for an increase in federal insurance from $25,000 to $50,000 loans made by institutions for renovating and improving commercial buildings and manufacturing establishments.

Representatives Walter G. Andrews [Rep., N. Y.] and Schuyler Merritt [Rep., Conn.] cast the two votes against the bill. Andrews had tried to send the bill back to committee with instructions to provide that HOLC appointments should be made regardless of political affiliations, but his motion was downed by a vote of 291 to 103. That vote was along strict party lines.

Says People Are Betrayed.

After the vote Representative Dewey Short, Missouri's lone Republican, gained the floor. He charged the administration was betraying the American people and the Democratic party.

"Today there are 11 million men out of work, more than 22 million people on the dole, and by the end of next year our national debt will have reached 34 billion dollars," Short asserted. "In the name of God and common sense, when and how will this huge indebtedness ever be paid?"

Short attacked the NRA as "unwise, unsound, unworkable, un-American and unconstitutional."

"Today our country has been filled once more," Short declared, "as it was during the world war, with spies, snoopers, agents, investigators and inspectors, piling upon the American people debts, codes, rules and regulations, prying into every detail of their private lives.

Links Big Business to NRA.

"Sponsored and backed for the most part by big business, the whole tendency of NRA has been to cripple initiative, legalize and encourage monopoly, preach and practice the nefarious business of boycott, raise prices for the consuming, laboring public, and squeeze the little business man out of existence.

"In spite of these gross errors, rank wrongs and brutal butcheries, this administration has the brazen effrontery and unmitigated gall to ask that the infamous bureau be continued for two more years."

Short said that radical changes had been recommended, but that what the NRA needs is not a surgeon but an undertaker.

"I am bitterly opposed to granting the NRA any extension," he said, "and I do not believe in giving it even a decent burial. It was never more than a foul mixture of colossal stupidity, haughty insolence, meddlesome interference and rapacious arrogance."

Complete and immediate abandonment of NRA, the Missourian said, in conclusion, is one of the surest and quickest roads to recovery.

CHICAGO STOCK YARDS COMPANY PROFITS HIGHER

New York, March 12.—[Special.]—The Chicago Junction Railways and Union Stockyards company issued at its annual meeting in Jersey City today a report for 1934 showing net income of $2,540,169, against $2,398,192 in 1933, and gross earnings of $5,560,460, against $5,489,824. The issuance of the 1934 report followed within a few months of the publication of the 1933 report, which was made late last December. Usually the reports are issued at the annual meeting.

Receipts of cattle were 2,727,260 in 1934, against 2,066,659 in 1933; receipts of calves, 737,288, against 440,324, and receipts of hogs, 6,510,002, against 7,791,626. The report states that the decline in hog receipts resulted from the receipt of 962,126 "government" pigs and hogs in August and September, 1933, for slaughter under the hog reduction program.

The valuation of animals received in 1934 was $216,784,374, against $187,305,842 in 1933. The company made 28 leases in the Central Manufacturing District of Chicago in 1934. Total assets were $30,750,831 on Dec. 31, 1934, against $30,725,844 a year previously. Surplus was $3,104,678, against $3,105,594.

Steel Industry Reports Lack of Skilled Men

Despite the millions of idle men in the country, a lack of skilled workmen in the steel industry promises to become a serious problem with improvement of conditions in the iron, steel, and metal working industries.

This paradox was pointed to yesterday by the National Metal Trades association here at the same time the magazine Steel appeared with an article on the problem.

Seven Reasons for Shortage.

The Metal Trades association named seven reasons for development of this situation. Foremost among these is unstable employment and demands of new industries. In the current business depression skilled men of the steel mills not only have been lured by other related engineering fields such as radio and aircraft building but have cut all ties by becoming everything from gasoline station and hot dog stand attendants to insurance salesmen, it was explained.

The trades association's other reasons are changing requirements in view of rapid technological progress, specialization tendencies, high production equipment, supervisory demands, and restricted immigration. A welder out of work since 1929 is outmoded, the magazine adds.

Condition Not Acute Now.

"Thus far," the magazine states, "the situation is not sufficiently acute to retard recovery, but manufacturers are attempting to bolster their forces, and as a hedge against future needs are hiring or retaining skilled workers not actually required at the moment."

Supervisors have been recruited from the workmen and their places have not been filled, naturally, with production at a low ebb. The same condition has resulted in a derth of apprentices being developed to fill the gaps. Means of training men for skilled work in the industry have been under discussion, but no general policy has been agreed upon.

The magazine tells of the case of a middle west tractor company which found it impossible to step up production from 16 to 24 hours a day because of a lack of skilled man power. Die makers are being sought in Chicago and automatic screw machine operators in Toledo, it added, while some manufacturers of farm implements have been hit by a shortage of molders and are pressed to make deliveries.

RUNNING TIME OF PACIFIC COAST TRAIN REDUCED

Running time of the eastbound Pacific Limited between San Francisco and Chicago will be reduced 8 hours and 50 minutes and between Los Angeles and Chicago 7 hours and 20 minutes, effective April 1, R. Thomson, trafic manager of the Chicago and North Western, announced yesterday. Under its new schedule the train will make the runs from Los Angeles and San Francisco to Chicago in 59 hours and 25 minutes.

A connection from Portland will be added to the train at Green River, Wyo. The Portland-Chicago run will be 59 hours and 10 minutes.

Westbound, 40 minutes will be cut from the running time of the Pacific Limited to San Francisco, making it a 61 hour and 42 minute train. The Pacific Limited, as well as all other major trains of the North Western, will be completely air conditioned this summer.

RENT AND FOOD PRICE GAINS BOOST LIVING COSTS IN FEBRUARY

Advancing food prices and rising rents brought a further boost in the wage earners' living costs in February. This was shown by the computations of the national industrial conference board made public yesterday. The board's index of living costs rose 1 per cent from January to February and is now 5.7 per cent above last year.

The advance was due entirely to food and rent costs. Food prices in February were 3 per cent above the January level and nearly 13 per cent above a year ago. Compared with February, 1929, however, they are still 21 per cent off.

The advance in rents, as computed by the board, was seven-tenths of 1 per cent, which lifted the average 7.3 per cent above February, 1934. The rent index is now 26.7 per cent, compared with the 1929 level.

The cost of clothing declined during February, while fuel, light, and sundries did not change during the period. The purchasing power of the dollar, according to the board's calculations, was 121.4 cents in February as compared with 122.5 cents in January. On the same basis, a year ago the dollar's purchasing power was 127.7 cents. In 1929 it was 100.1 cents, and in 1923, 100 cents.

STORES REPORT SALES INCREASE IN FEBRUARY

Department store sales in the United States during February increased over January when as a rule there is little change shown during the period, according to a preliminary report issued yesterday by the federal reserve board. The index, based on the 1923-'25 average as 100, was 75 in February, compared with 72 in January and 77 in December.

The index makes allowances for differences in the number of business days and for usual seasonal changes. The statement is based upon reports from 524 stores in 253 cities.

Compared with February, 1934, there was an increase of 5 per cent in department store sales, with stores in the Kansas City district leading the country by showing a 12 per cent gain in trade. The Richmond district was second with an increase of 11 per cent and San Francisco third with a gain of 9 per cent.

Other increases over February, 1934, were: Chicago, 8 per cent; Atlanta, 7; Dallas, 6; Minneapolis, 5; Philadelphia, 4; Boston, 3; St. Louis, 2, and New York, 1 per cent.

For the first two months of the year the country as a whole showed an improvement of 5 per cent over a year ago. Increases were as follows: Kansas City and San Francisco, 10 per cent; Chicago, Cleveland and Richmond, 8; Atlanta and Dallas, 7; Minneapolis, 3; St. Louis, 2; New York and Philadelphia, 1.

Rails Expect Rate Boost of 30 Millions

New York, March 12.—[Special.]—Railway leaders are confident, it was learned today, that the interstate commerce commission will grant rate increases which will mean between $30,000,000 and $40,000,000 additional revenue annually.

This, it is believed, probably will be the net result of the appeal begun last August by the Association of Railway Executives and pressed by its successor, the American Railway association, for an increase of rates which would have increased the nation's freight bill by $170,000,000.

Citing mounting costs of operations, the railways pleaded for a general increase on every commodity and class of freight, ranging upward to 10 per cent increase on first class freight.

They stated that an estimated annual increase of $293,000,000 in operating costs would "jeopardize the solvency of a large number of important railway systems," unless relief was given.

Petitions similar to that presented to the interstate commerce commission were placed before all state railroad commissions, the proposal being to raise intrastate rates, as well as interstate schedules. The plea was made on the grounds of restoration of the 10 per cent wage cut made in 1932 and increasing costs of materials. The cost of the railway pension law has added to costs, it was pointed out.

It was estimated that the restoration of wages alone would amount to an additional $154,000,00 annually in costs and that at least $137,000,000 a year would be caused by the higher prices for materials.

Eastman for Lower Rates.

Last September, however, Joseph B. Eastman, federal coördinator of railroads, urged that reductions rather than advances in rates were required to increase income. The interstate commerce commission had erred, he asserted, in "seeking too high rather than too law a level."

More recently Mr. Eastman asserted that a major problem challenging railway management was the unprofitableness of passenger service.

Nevertheless the railways have felt that they had a strong case for additional freight revenues, inasmuch as Mr. Eastman himself had declared that their capitalization was not now excessive. In order to reëstablish the confidence of investors and continue to render public service, they have asserted substantial increases should be allowed.

COTTON SLIDES DESPITE HINTS OF U. S. SUPPORT

Late Rally Reduces Early Losses.

Nervous and erratic activity dominated domestic cotton markets yesterday, and prices fluctuated rather wildly within a 40 point range. The market worked above Monday's close at times, although most of the session found quotations well under that level. However, a late rally wiped out a good share of the losses, and final prices were only slightly below those prevailing Monday.

Losses on the Chicago market ranged from 6 to 10 points—30 to 50 cents a bale—while New Orleans turned in declines of 3 to 10 points—15 to 50 cents a bale. One future in New York, the January delivery, was outstanding by rising a point net for the day, although other contracts were 1 to 7 points lower. Cash prices declined 25 to 50 cents a bale.

Market Shows Less Hysteria.

Hysteria which characterized the drastic break Monday apparently had subsided, but nervousness and uncertainty persisted. Trading, while fast at times, was more orderly. The only instance when a return of the wild selling seemed imminent occurred shortly after 10 o'clock, when a wave of liquidation descended on the pits. Prices, which had been ruling slightly above the previous close, dropped precipitously, with as much as 10 point declines between sales.

The selling was unexplained and soon exhausted itself, but the setback was sufficient to put a damper on any sharp run-up in prices. Some buying followed a conference of Senator Russell of Georgia with the President on cotton. Russell expressed the belief that the administration is not going to allow the cotton market to collapse to any great extent.

Expect U. S. to Support Price.

Asked what preventive action could be taken, Senator Russell said as long as the government holds from 5 to 6 million bales on which loans of 12 cents a pound had been made, that in itself would be sufficient incentive to restore prices. He said the decline appeared to be only temporary, pointing out that the administration had persistently pursued a policy of putting farm prices higher.

Another Washington dispatch said a searching investigation into the sensational break in cotton prices will be demanded by Chairman Smith

Meeting the test of the trying years—On December 31, 1929 the Lumbermens Mutual Casualty Company reported gains in insurance written, in assets and in surplus for the seventeenth consecutive year. Today, after five of the most difficult years American business has ever faced, the company reports its twenty-second consecutive annual increase in all departments of its business. ● During this period premium income of the company has increased from $12,162,720.59 on December 31, 1929 to $18,307,575.46 on December 31, 1934, a gain of $6,144,854.87. Assets have increased from $11,638,980.54 to $19,545,750.11, a gain of $7,906,769.57. The net surplus today of $2,534,504.10 is $706,619.88 greater than it was five years ago. ● But the complete story of the company's progress is not written in those figures. Invested assets have been kept in highly liquid securities. The maximum depreciation of the "L-M-C" list of investments at the lowest point in the depression was 7.61%. Today, actual market values are well in excess of statement values. A conservative underwriting policy has been pursued. Risks have been carefully selected and engineering efforts redoubled to make these good risks better. ● This is the story behind the figures—a story of basic operating standards. And to our policyholders who have seen the benefit of these principles in the security of their protection, in efficient service and in dividend savings, we have one pledge to make . . . that these principles which have successfully carried the Lumbermens Mutual Casualty Company through good years and bad will continue to guide it into the uncharted future.

HEAVIER SELLING CUTS 1-5 POINTS OFF STOCK LIST

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, March 12.—Speculative feeling in the Wall street district turned a shade more pessimistic today. The stock market came in for further selling which tended to gain volume as the session progressed and the close found values shaved anywhere from $1 to $5 a share below their previous levels. The industrial group "average" sold to a new low for the year and the rails bumped a new price bottom since 1933.

Trade news was scarce and of no great significance and brokers were at a loss to account for the new outburst of pessimism. Many market house letters attributed it to the break in cotton. Some observers thought the fresh upset to the foreign exchange market was disturbing speculative sentiment since it has raised afresh the old question as to what President Roosevelt may do with respect to dollar devaluation if the trend of affairs seem to him and his advisers to call for a further "readjustment" of the gold content.

U. S. Steel Declines.

Confidence was undoubtedly injured, it was said, by the sagging of United States Steel to its lowest price in two years and to the notable weakness in a number of other market leaders.

For the first hour or so after the opening the market struggled ineffectually to move ahead, but the best it could do was to register a scattering of fractional gains and the effort was gradually abandoned. Dribbling sales kept prices sagging until a late hour, when the pressure increased throughout the list. Final prices with few exceptions were the lowest of the day.

Mining shares came in for a little extra drubbing on a fresh recession of inflationary sentiment. Homestake dropped 12 points on the first sale and U. S. Smelting gave up 4⅝ points on moderate liquidation. American Smelting, Howe Sound, McIntyre, Dome, and Cerro de Pasco dropped 1 to 2 points.

Some of Weakest Spots.

Individual weak spots to stand out in the list included American Sugar, Jewel Tea, International Business Machine, Spiegel May Stern, Hazel Atlas Glass, Owens Glass, Outlet company and National Lead, the last named taking a tumble of 10 points and the others dipping 3 to 5 points or more.

Especially weak railroad shares included Gulf, Mobile and Northern preferred, which dropped more than 5 points on one sale, and the various classes of Pere Marquette and Nickel Plate which fell 1 to 3 points to new lows. Liquidation was pronounced in Southern Pacific, Lackawanna, North Pacific and others.

The so-called Rockefeller oil shares offered impressive resistance to such selling as came their way, and their firmness was a bolstering influence on the rest of the petroleum group.

Utility stocks suffered no especially ill effects from President Roosevelt's message to congress insisting that holding companies be eliminated except where they are absolutely necessary.

Motor shares struggled to keep up a front in the earlier dealings but joined the retreat in the late afternoon, both General Motors and Chrysler dropping a point or more.

GEN. AMERICAN TRANSPORTATION EARNINGS RISE

Reports '34 Profit Equal to $2.71 Per Share.

General American Transportation corporation, manufacturers and lessors of refrigerator, tank, and other types of railroad cars, had its most profitable business in four years in 1934 according to the annual report issued yesterday.

Lester N. Selig, president, said that the company's car manufacturing operations were restored to a profit basis after an almost complete suspension of such activities in 1933. The manufacturing plants were operated at "a fair rate of capacity," and business for the first quarter of 1935 is proceeding satisfactorily he stated.

Earns $2.71 a Share.

From its combined operations of manufacturing, leasing, and operating railroad cars the company made a profit of $2,385,000 in 1934 as compared with 1933's profit of $1,975,000. The 1934 earnings were equivalent to $2.71 a share on the 818,203 shares of capital stock outstanding as compared with $2.51 a share on 788,203 shares outstanding in the preceding year.

The company appropriated $264,936 out of earnings for the issuance of 6,972 shares of stock in connection with the new employés compensation plan set up last year.

President Selig said that the company is increasing its facilities for the terminal storage of liquid products which has been a source of profitable operation in the last few years. A new terminal is under construction in Houston, Tex., and the company now owns the largest public liquid storage facilities in the world, he stated.

Retires $4,611,000 Debt.

The company retired funded debt of $4,611,000 in 1934. Bank loans of $1,300,000 were also paid off and the company closed the year without any notes payable. Current assets at the close of the year were $87,748,000 against current liabilities of $2,595,000, exclusive of $3,560,000 funded obligations which mature during 1935.

The Union Tank Car company also issued its 1934 report yesterday, showing net earnings of $1,580,173, equal to $1.32 a share on the outstanding stock. In 1933 the company earned $1,193,716 or 99 cents a share on the capital stock. The company appropriated $1,608,704 from surplus for full payment of accrued liability under the annuity plan adopted by stockholders at the last annual meeting.

GRIGSBY-GRUNOW CREDITORS SENT $786,168 CHECKS

About 1,000 checks totaling $786,168 have been mailed to creditors of Grigsby-Grunow company, Frank M. McKey, trustee in bankruptcy, stated yesterday. Of this total $536,000 representing a distribution of 25 per cent, went to bondholders, and $250,168, representing 16½ per cent, went to general creditors.

There are outstanding $2,400,000 face value of bonds and $1,800,000 of unsecured claims. The agreement between the two classes of claimants, as arrived at on Jan. 24, 1935, provides that disbursements be allocated on the basis of two-thirds to the bondholders and one-third to general creditors.

The company's stock was at one time one of the most spectacular performers on the Chicago Stock exchange. The company was adjudicated bankrupt on March 14, 1934, and its assets are now being liquidated.

BRITISH BUDGET IS REPORTED AS NEAR BALANCE

LONDON, March 12.—(AP)—The budget outlook for the twelve months ending March 31 was decidedly rosy tonight. Last week's revenue totaled nearly £22,000,000 [the pound is currently quoted at $4.74] which leaves about £43,000,000 to be collected in the next three weeks in order to equal the expenditure called for by the 1934-'35 budget.

The needed money should be easily acquired, it was said in government circles. The income tax is already within £7,000,000 of the budget estimate of £219,500,000. With three weeks to go, the expenditure for the year has reached £675,000,000 and revenue has totaled £663,000,000.

14 CUSTOMERS OF S. W. STRAUS GRANTED CLAIMS

New York, March 12.—[Special.]—Fourteen former customers who made charges of fraud against S. W. Straus & Co., now in receivership, were allowed claims totaling $39,752 today by Harry A. Gordon, referee.

All charged that general bonds for second and third mortgages had been sold to them instead of the first mortgages that they wished to purchase and that they had learned the real nature of their transactions only after the company collapsed. Although the claims were allowed at the figures paid, the customers will receive only a fraction of the money, depending on the assets of the company when liquidation is accomplished.

VOLUME RECORD SET BY PHILLIPS PETROLEUM CO.

Earnings for 1934 Equal to $1.38 Per Share.

The Phillips Petroleum company last year enjoyed the largest volume of business in its history, President Frank Phillips informed stockholders yesterday in the annual report. All divisions of the company showed substantial increases except crude oil, whose production was limited by federal regulation. The natural gas division had its best year.

Net operating income after all expenses was $20,981,285. After deducting $15,223,927 for reserves and retirements the net profit was $5,757,308, or $1.38 a share. Dividends of $1 a share, or $4,153,008, were paid and the balance transferred to surplus.

Chargeoffs Larger in 1933.

The 1933 net was $1,505,695 but reserve and depreciation deductions were larger—$19,715,184. The 1933 income account, however, benefited by an inventory adjustment of $2,320,728. This adjustment practice has been discontinued in line with a uniform system of the American Petroleum institute.

Gross income for 1934 was $77,601,484, an increase of $13,914,128 over 1933. But general expenses rose $11,828,0464 to $55,048,662 owing to increased sales volume and higher costs of labor and materials because of the petroleum code. Deduction of these costs left a balance of $22,552,822, compared with $20,944,502 in 1933, before interest charges.

Raps Tax Toll On Industry.

"This industry is bearing an altogether disproportionate part of the cost of government," Mr. Phillips said, in referring to the company's collection of $14,485,726 in federal and state gasoline and oil taxes. "The average amount paid for taxes per gallon is greater than the wholesale price of the gasoline."

He also commented that 1934 prices received by the company were "abnormally low."

The company improved its position by reduction of $3,623,288 in liabilities, including bond retirements, and an increase of $2,902,579 in current assets. Interest charges in 1934 were only $1,571,586, compared with $2,049,350 in the preceding year.

Reserve meat supplies of the nation have sustained another reduction, according to the department of agriculture's report on cold storage holdings, made public yesterday. On March 1 there were 875,599,000 pounds of all meats left in store, exclusive of meat held for the account of relief agencies. This total compares with 908,615,000 pounds on Feb. 1 and with 959,099,000 pounds on Jan. 1.

Meats still in store are equivalent to what the United States consumers usually eat in less than three weeks, according to the experts. They estimate that the average daily consumption of meat for this country is close to 50,000,000 pounds.

Packers Tap Supplies.

Packers have been tapping their reserve supplies, held in storage since the first of the year, because of the shortage in live stock receipts caused by the drouth and AAA operations, and it is expected that the heavy out of storage movement will continue.

Stocks of beef on March 1 fell to 111,149,000 pounds as compared with 127,097,000 pounds on February 1 and with 140,940,000 pounds at the opening of the year. Stocks still are comparatively large for this time of the year, however, being the largest for March 1 since 1925.

Stocks of pork in storage on March 1 at 671,315,000 pounds show an increase of about 3,300,000 pounds over a month ago, but 16,248,000 pounds smaller than two months ago. It compare with 733,956,000 pounds a year ago and a five year average of 758,929,000 for March 1. Barring 1933, pork holdings are the smallest for March 1 since 1926.

Lamb and mutton in store dropped to 3,502,000 pounds on March 1 as compared with 3,819,000 on February 1 and 4,560,000 pounds at the opening of the year. A year ago lamb and mutton stocks were 3,052,000 pounds, and the five year average for March 1 stands at 3,100,000.

Miscellaneous meats on March 1 at 89,633,000 pounds compared with 109,715,000 a month earlier, with 126,033,000 pounds on Jan. 1, 65,548,000 pounds a year ago, and a five year average of 73,510,000.

Lard stocks declined to 110,508,000 pounds, compared with 112,497,000 on Feb. 1, 118,107,000 on Jan. 1, 176,044,000 a year ago, and a five year average of 102,796,000 pounds. During the month 225,916,000 pounds of all meats were frozen or placed in cure, as compared with 318,153,000 pounds during the same month last year and a five year average of 334,454,000 pounds.

PIERCE-ARROW REORGANIZATION OUTPUT PLANNED

Buffalo, N. Y., March 12.—(AP)—The Pierce-Arrow Motor Car company will start with a production schedule of 1,770 cars a year under a reorganization plan offered in federal court today.

John Lord O'Brien, counsel for the company, said a proposed issue of $250,000 in preferred stock had been oversubscribed, that a $1,000,000 loan from the federal reserve bank and the Marine Trust company of Buffalo had been arranged, and that a majority of creditors had approved the reorganization plan. Creditors will receive 120,000 shares of new $5 common stock.

The production schedule, O'Brien said, would yield net earnings ten times greater than required for the preferred stock dividends. He told the court the distributing organization throughout the country had been kept intact except for two agencies.

Judge John Knight set March 25 as the date for a final hearing on the plan. Meanwhile, he granted the company permission to manufacture 500 cars. About 800 are employed at the factory.

EGGS DIP ⅛ TO ⅜ CENT; MARCH BUTTER DECLINES

Fresh selling of egg futures based on bearish reports concerning the quantities that are being placed into cold storage sent prices off ⅛ to ⅜c per dozen on the Chicago Mercantile exchange yesterday, with trading in the October delivery the heaviest of the year. March butter declined ¾c per pound with a relatively small trade.

Around 500,000 pounds of butter, presumably foreign, was placed into cold storage at New York yesterday. An easy undertone prevailed in the local cash market which had some effect on futures. Sales of eggs aggregated 140 cars and butter 31 cars with deliveries of 10 cars of eggs and 1 car of butter on March contracts. Prices follow:

RALLY IN LARD TRADING AS WAREHOUSE INTERESTS BUY

Further scattered liquidation in lard based on easiness in hogs and cotton seed oil carried prices lower in the early trading yesterday, but on the decline warehouse interests absorbed the offerings and a good rally followed with the close 5 cents lower to 2½ cents higher, July showing the most strength. The bulk of the trade in bellies consisted in changing over from May to July deliveries, with cash interests taking the May. The close was 10 cents higher to 2½ cents lower, the former on July. Demand for cash provisions was again reported as slow with cash lard quoted at $13.50; loose and leaf, $13.50, and bellies at $16.92 per 100 pounds. Prices follow:

BUTTER STOCKS NEAR RECORD LOW; EGG SUPPLIES ALSO FALL

Supply of butter in cold storage in the United States on March 1, as reported by the bureau of agricultural economics, aggregated 7,981,000 pounds, the smallest with one exception since the figures were compiled. On March 1, 1927, the total was 7,952,000 pounds. Stocks are 28,872,000 pounds under a year ago, and over 20,000,000 pounds below the five year average.

Egg stocks at the start of the new storage season were 32,000 cases, or 58,000 cases less than a year ago, and 169,000 cases under the five year average. Stocks of poultry and American cheese in cold storage March 1 were slightly above those of a year ago, and also as compared with the five year average. # INCREASED HOG RECEIPTS CAUSE PRICE DECLINES

A small increase in the run of hogs proved too much for prices yesterday, and concessions of 10 to 15 cents were granted before sellers could move the supply. Offerings were extremely light for the time of year, but exceeded immediate requirement. The market progressed slowly at the reduced rates, and some hogs remained unsold.

Top loins moved up 25 cents, equaling the peak of last summer and establishing a new March top for the last five years. Little pork can be moved at the high level of quotations, and the consumer resistance to further gains has become so effective in the east that hog buying by some eastern packers has been halted temporarily.

Selected 190 to 220 pound butchers topped the market at $11.85, processing tax included, indicating a loss of 15 cents compared with the top of the previous session. Bulk of the 250 to 300 pound butchers cashed at $11.75 and $11.80, and the average for the day figured $11.70, off 10 cents.

Strength appeared in the cattle market yesterday and some instances of 10 to 15 cent advances were cited during midsession. Plainer classes of steers were strongest. A string of 66 steers averaging 1,253 pounds topped the price list at $14. The bulk cashed at $9 to $13.

Lambs showed more uncertainty than usual after a steady to 10 cent lower opening and the bulk did not change hands until prices had dropped 25 to 50 cents. Packers paid up to $8.85, but $8.50 was hard to beat on final rounds.

GRAINS SEESAW ERRATICALLY IN JITTERY MARKET

Swings in Cotton Prices Are Chief Influence.

Grains suffered from a bad case of jitters on the Chicago Board of Trade yesterday. Further erratic movements in cotton, following Monday's debacle, continued to provide the dominating influence. Traders were at sea as far as discerning any trend was concerned and price actions in consequence were highly nervous.

The day's range was narrow and trading was sluggish. Quotations for much of the session ranged to the down side, although closing prices showed a fair mixture of fractional gains and losses. The only exceptions were found in March corn, which dropped nominally 1¼ cents, and May rye, which lost an equal amount. New lows for the season were touched by both May rye and barley.

Trading Quiet; Market Thin.

Volume of trading held to extremely small proportions. So thin was the market that at times buying or selling orders for as little as 10,000 bushels were sufficient to reverse the trend of prices.

Cotton seemed to be suffering from the effect of Monday's violent fluctuations and in the absence of decisive routine crop news grains were subjected to unusually severe reflection of speculative sentiment in that staple. Closing prices of principal May futures in Chicago follow:

| | Tuesday. | Monday. | Week Ago. |
| Wheat | $ .93½ | $ .93⅝ | $ .96 |
| Corn | .79¼ | .79⅛ | .82¼ |
| Oats | .47 | .47⅜ | .48¾ |
| Rye | .60¼ | .61½ | .63⅜ |

Wheat in Winnipeg eased ¼ to ⅜ cent. Liverpool wheat closed ⅛ cent higher to ⅛ cent lower, Rotterdam sagged ¼ to ⅞ cent and Buenos Aires declined slightly. Winnipeg again ignored activity here, being buoyed somewhat by light export business, most of which was reported from Pacific coast ports.

Weather Varied in Grain Belt.

Overnight weather was spotty. Missouri and lower Illinois had heavy rains, snow occurred in parts of Oklahoma and the northwest, while the balance of the belt was clear. Forecasts indicated fair and warmer weather in the winter wheat belt of the southwest.

Europe reported that demand for wheat is quiet, but that the statistical position is steadily strengthening because of continued heavy purchases by the orient and smaller southern hemisphere supplies than a year ago.

Broomhall reported the condition of European crops as precarious, saying apprehension is steadily growing. Low temperatures prevail in eastern Europe, following a period of warm weather, while it is still too mild in the western and southern sections, where crops are too far advanced for this period of the growing season.

ECCLES OPPOSES PLAN FOR FIXED PRICE LEVEL

Washington, D. C., March 12.—(AP)—Marriner S. Eccles, governor of the federal reserve board, told the house banking committee today he thought there should not be in the omnibus banking bill "a mandatory provision to reach a certain price level."

The goal, he said, should be stable business conditions, but not a fixed price level.

"It should be the duty of the federal reserve board," Eccles asserted, "to exercise such powers as it possesses to promote business stability and mitigate fluctuations in prices and employment so far as possible through monetary action."

"I think every effort should be made to maintain prices but that shouldn't be the sole and paramount objective."

"I am going to do everything I can to get at the bottom of this break, which was manifestly artificially stimulated," the South Carolina senator, a cotton authority, said. "I want to summon witnesses, books and papers to find out the facts in this break that occurred all in six hours."

Tries to Close Exchange.

Senator Smith said he telephoned cotton exchange officials in an attempt to have them close the exchange, but that by the time he reached them the exchange was already open.

Senator Smith and Senator Bankhead [Dem., Ala.] had expected to go to the White House yesterday for a conference with the President on the break in the cotton market, but the meeting was set for today.

Meanwhile, the house rules committee agreed to a special rule on the Doxey bill to exempt all small farmers who produce two bales of cotton or less yearly, from the tax penalty levied under the Bankhead control act. The rule permits amendments to the bill but limits debate to two hours.

The New York Cotton Exchange service yesterday estimated total consumption of cotton in this country during February at 480,000 bales, against 547,000 in January and 477,000 in February a year ago.

According to the International Cotton federation, world consumption of American cotton in the six months ended Jan. 31, last, aggregated 5,451,000 bales, exclusive of Germany, compared with 7,002,000 bales, including 543,000 used in Germany in the same period a year earlier.

Salesmen.

"I Can Make You Money"

Do you really want to make $40.00 per week or better? Are you the kind of a man who is capable of getting out of a rut in order to make real money? Can you follow direction even though the plan involves amazing new ideas? Will you give honest effort?

If you are that kind of a man, I will show you how to get "in the money" at once. This is not a swivel chair job, nor a place where you can sit around and talk about the "good old days." My men are too busy making money to pay attention to anything but business.

Your percentage, if I accept you, should soon be way over the figure mentioned above. This is not a trick proposition nor a shoe-string organization, but a well established nationally known company with an electrical and health unit of startling character. It offers unusual novelty and interest. I have been in the game a long time and I know a winner when I see one. Just let me give you a tip: The opportunity is now. Take advantage of it by coming up and making your application to me personally. No investment is required.

MR. JONES,

6TH FLOOR. 203 N. WABASH-AV.

Our most active season has begun. Business is good.

We have an opening for a few neat appearing men, 25 years of age or over, to represent the largest retail Home Furnishing House in the middle west. Previous experience an advantage but not essential. We are laying a foundation for future purchasing among our numerous customers and are paying our representatives advanced commission weekly in full on a basis of average sales expectancy. Also allowing a daily drawing account privilege, if necessary, while getting started. An intensely interesting and dignified program for those capable of conducting enthusiastic conversation. Can earn $30 per week and upward consistently. No night calls. Apply from 9:30 to 11:30 a. m. only. Can also use a few saleswomen.

DICK TRACY—Stage by Stage

CHIEF, YOU'RE MY SUPERIOR.. AND I MAY BE TALKING OUT OF TURN—BUT I SAY YOU'RE PULLING A MIGHTY DUMB STUNT IN LETTING THAT BIRD, ARSON COOK IN HIS CELL!
ALL RIGHT! WHAT DAMAGE CAN A PRISONER DO WITH A SKILLET, A PIECE OF STEAK, A COUPLE OF POTATOES, AND A SALT SHAKER!
BESIDES, I'M STILL BOSS OF THIS DEPARTMENT! AND IF YOU DON'T LIKE THE WAY I RUN THINGS—YOU CAN PACK YOUR GRIP AND WALK OUT THAT DOOR ANY DAY YOU WANT TO!
OKAY—YOU WIN!
